Davis Backs France in Opposing Treaty if Berlin Stays Out.

Naval Question May Be Revived

Slow Progress Looms in Discussions Pending Session Renewal.

Geneva, Oct. 17 (AP).—Whether Germany will follow through her announced intention of resigning from the League of Nations was believed tonight to hinge on the outcome of the disarmament crisis.

An opinion frequently heard was that nothing definite may occur until after the German plebiscite November 12 on the ground that national dignity may prevent any action contrary to the announcement.

There was a general belief tonight that the passage of time may lessen the tension and prepare the way for Germany's return to the conference and to forget her intention to resign from the league.

Tension May Be Lessened.

American representatives were quoted as sharing a belief that rapid progress in disarmament discussions before resumption of the conference October 26 is unlikely. They believe that an organism should be drafted on which the resumed conference might whip into a new draft convention, taking into consideration the report of Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, for disarmament by stages.

This plan would involve working out broad provisions of a scheme which would be subject to variations when, and if, German representatives return to the conversations.

French delegates are known to be opposed to the plan of drafting an exact convention without Germany being represented. They believe if Germany asks more concessions and is refused she will be able to say that a treaty is being imposed upon her.

Davis Upholds Move.

Norman H. Davis, American ambassador at large, adhered to a policy of avoiding anything which might resemble the imposition of an arms agreement on Berlin.

German functionaries at the league secretariat said they thought the question of resignation remained open, but denied having official information.

It was learned plans were afoot to revive naval questions, in which the United States has a special interest.

Under such a project the policy would be to pave the way for the 1935 naval conference by trying to induce nations like Spain, Russia and Yugoslavia to agree not to build types of warships which the coming conference may eliminate.

Another project is to ask France and Italy not to push building programs for cruisers, destroyers and submarines to a point which might increase difficulties of the conference.

Daladier, Simon Hit Reich in Arms Crisis

Premier Answers Hitler Challenge as French Chamber Opens.

Paris, Oct. 17 (AP).—Premier Edouard Daladier took up the Hitler gauntlet today and flung back at the German chancellor a question as to why Germany had abandoned the World Disarmament Conference.

In a tense atmosphere at the opening session of the Chamber of Deputies he insisted it was necessary to balance France's budget in the face of the Reich's "brusque departure" from the League of Nations Saturday.

He declined to be drawn into separate Franco-German negotiations.

Raps Reich Stand.

"We intend to remain faithful, whatever may come, to a policy of collaboration," he asserted, and demanded "if Germany is ready to destroy all armaments, why do they withdraw from the conference just when we drafted a plan?

"France is resolved to give an example of calmness and coolness, the more so because she knows she is able to defend her territory and liberty."

Fears for the stability of the franc

British Secretary Says He Fears Collapse of Conference.

London, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—Germany's withdrawal from the preliminary arms conference at Geneva has seriously jeopardized, if not wrecked, the efforts at arms limitation, Sir John Simon, British foreign secretary, asserted on his return from the continent tonight.

"There was not the slightest doubt in the minds of any of us," Sir John said in a radio broadcast, "that Germany's attitude at the last moment represented a further widening of the break, and all the hard work and recent conversations have been jeopardized, if not wrecked, by this new attitude."

Denies He Caused Break.

Sir John described as "absurd" the suggestion current in Berlin that Germany withdrew on account of his statement last Saturday to the Arms Parley's steering committee, outlining the plan for a 4-year test period of international control of armaments.

He again denied an accusation by the German foreign minister, Baron Von Neurath, that he had twisted the meaning of Von Neurath's re-

Financiers Confer at Senate Inquiry

Wiggin Lists Big Incomes To Bankers

Retired on $100,000 a year "salary," Albert H. Wiggin, former chairman of the board of the Chase National Bank, yesterday told the Senate Banking Committee he collected $1,367,020 in pay and bonuses in the last four years, at the same time drawing salaries from ten other corporations in which he was interested.

Pressed by Ferdinand Pecora, committee counsel, the one-time directing genius of Chase National Bank and the affiliated Chase Corporation unfolded a story of high salaries paid bank executives since 1929, in the face of millions in company losses.

Testimony was the most involved of that recently presented before the committee, embracing in its scope huge personal loans made to officials of companies on whose boards Chase executives were represented, and reference to "rescue parties" in which Chase National Bank participated.

List Will be Secret.

Pecora was prevented from publicly delving deeper into the nature and number of the "rescue parties" by Senator Couzens (Republican), Michigan. Couzens suggested that a list enumerating the largest of these be submitted to the committee in executive session, after Wiggin demurred that a public disclosure might "damage" somebody.

Wiggin defined a "rescue party" as a loan or a merger made "to avoid trouble."

The whole subject was opened up when Pecora inquired whether Chase National Bank's merger with Equitable Trust Co. in 1931, when stock of the American Express Bank & Trust Co. purchased at $170 a share was sold for $160 a share, "was in the nature of a rescue party."

Pecora touched briefly on a half-dozen corporations organized by Wiggin, beginning with the Shermar Corporation, started in 1916 with a $10,000 capitalization, and now capitalized at $4,000,000. Wiggin said this was formed partly to educate his family in financial operations and partly to "help out on taxes."

Wiggin told how he left an annual salary of $202,000 a year to accept retirement at $100,000 a year, shortly before he reached his sixty-fifth birthday in December, 1932.

Calls It Earned.

As he has continued since to consult with officials on bank business, and has represented the company in numerous German loan negotia-

Six States Asked to Aid Wheat Ban

North Dakota Governor Pleads for Embargo; Three Refuse.

Bismarck, N. Dak., Oct. 17 (AP).—Gov. William Langer, of North Dakota, moved tonight to extend his State's wheat shipment embargo to six other States in what he termed "a patriotic service to the Government" by seeking higher prices for the farmer.

But before he had sent messages urging similar action by the governors of South Dakota, Montana, Iowa, Nebraska, Minnesota and Kansas—three said they would not join him and a court fight over Langer's order appeared probable.

A fourth governor declined comment after his attorney general said he lacked authority to declare an embargo. The other two had not replied.

Effective Thursday.

Langer told the governors he believed a six-State embargo would help the national recovery program by increasing agricultural purchasing power. He expressed satisfaction with developments since he proclaimed his ban on out-State shipments yesterday.

It becomes effective at 12:01 a. m. Thursday, and the governor has power to call out National Guardsmen if he deems it necessary to enforce his order. About 58,000,000 bushels of wheat within North Dakota's borders would be held there by the embargo.

Counsel for four railroads, all doing a big business in hauling North Dakota grain, studied the embargo—and considered what legal steps might be taken to combat it.

Legality Disputed.

Railway attorneys in St. Paul said investigation was necessary in view of the unprecedented character of the ban, proclaimed in accordance with a new State law giving the governor power to prohibit shipment of an agricultural product if the price has receded below production cost.

Langer asserted he believd his action and the law legal. Paul Good, Nebraska State attorney, expressed opinion the Federal Constitution forbade such a step.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota said he did not know whether he had authority to declare an embargo, but said he would not proclaim one as he questioned its effectiveness.

Gov. Tom Berry, South Dakota, expressed sympathy with any plan

Idaho Casts Vote Approving Repeal

The vote was unanimous on the part of the 21 delegates named to the convention, all but one of them chosen at a special election September 19, at which the State voted for repeal by a majority of 56,000 to 41,000.

Nazi Attacks To End, Hitler Informs Dodd

Two Storm Troopers Get Terms for Slugging American.

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP).—United States Ambassador William E. Dodd talked with Chancellor Hitler today about Nazi attacks on Americans and declared afterward that he felt "somewhat better about the general outlook."

American officials said they were greatly relieved at the apparent solution of what began to look like a tense situation. They declared a decisive move had been made to safeguard foreigners from attacks when they failed to salute the Hitlerite swastika emblem.

The ambassador's account of his 50-minute conference with the chancellor left no doubt that Hitler is fully aware of the effect that a recurrence of such incidents would have abroad.

Shortly before the visit two Nazi storm troopers were sentenced to six months in jail for attacking Roland Velz, native of Meriden, Conn., when he failed to salute the Nazi flag.

These penalties and Minister Goering's strict order that foreigners must not be molested and must be given police protection were printed in all newspapers, evidently because of government instructions.

"All these assaults are about to come to an end," Dodd said. "In the future assailants will be dealt with severely. I found the chancellor greatly interested in American public opinion. He desires that there be no misunderstanding between Germany and the United States. The chancellor is imbued with the hope there will not be war."

More than 20 Americans have protested against attacks since April 4.

Military Plot, Strike Threat Stir Austria

Martial Law Threatened to Restore Death Penalties.

Vienna, Oct. 17 (AP).—Evidences of a military conspiracy, threats of a general strike, and a hint of martial law mingled ominously today in the Austrian atmosphere.

Emphasizing the Czechoslovakia angle of the situation was the confiscation of an influential Praha newspaper, Prager Tagdblatt, for circulating Socialists' instructions for a general strike in Vienna.

Want Death Penalties.

The Official Government Gazette in a front page article intimated martial law might soon be declared, and under headlines reading "Restoration of the Death Penalty" said "there is an overwhelming popular demand for restoration of the death penalty."

The Gazette also printed a communique saying a conspiracy uncovered yesterday at Linz involved Nazi officers and former military men who planned to seize arms and equipment from the line garrison. Political police began an investigation of all garrisons and branches of the army.

Both the Austrian foreign office and the Czechoslovakian legation denied connection between the socialist-Dollfuss crisis and the Dollfuss-Benes visit.

It was said in several quarters Socialists hope that Benes will talk to Chancellor Dollfuss about the advantages of peaceful cooperation with the Marxists as compared to the perils of their political extinction.

Must Do Something.

A demand for institution of martial law was said by the Government Gazette to be an argument which is convincing the government something should be done. Since capital punishment was constitutionally abolished from the criminal code, the Gazette said, declaration of martial law was the only way remaining.

Newspapers said the martial law threat was a warning for both Nazis and Socialists.

The possibility of street riots and even attacks on the palace were feared.

All troops and police not on duty were ordered held at barracks in readiness for an emergency.

Chesterfield Court House, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—After deliberating an hour and a half a jury tonight acquitted William Richard Johnson, jr., 21, on trial for slaying his father.

The youth had told of shooting to death his father after the parent had attacked him and his mother at their filling station cottage. He showed no emotion when the verdict was announced. His mother, whose head had been bowed, looked upward quickly.

President Victim of College Prank, But Gets Last Laugh

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 17 (AP).—President Roosevelt didn't want his name foisted upon a carillon anyway; he'd much prefer to have a baby or puppy-dog named after him.

An exchange of correspondence made public at Harvard University today revealed the President as the victim of an "undergraduate pleasantry."

The President was asked to authorize the use of his name on a carillon. The request was signed "R. P. L., secretary of the Lowell house committee."

Mr. Roosevelt, in a letter to Prof. Julian Coolidge, said he would be honored. A letter was dispatched to the White House saying there was no such person as "R. P. L."

"You have been made the victim of a piece of undergraduate pleasantry," wrote Prof. Coolidge. Mr. Roosevelt replied:

"I am not in the least perturbed about the chime of bells because, strictly between ourselves, I should much prefer to have a puppy-dog or a baby named after me than one of those carillon effects that is never quite in tune and that goes off at all hours of the day and night. At least one can give paregoric to a puppy or a baby. Very sincerely yours, Franklin D. Roosevelt."

Roosevelt Orders Jail Terms or $500 Fines For Violators of NRA

Ford Official Denies Note Accepting NRA

Speeding its program to conciliate strikes in Ford plants at Edgewater, N. J., and Chester, Pa., the National Labor Board was heartened yesterday by announcement by Senator Robert F. Wagner, its chairman, of a telegram from the Ford Motor Co., promising to participate in the arbitration conferences.

Shortly thereafter, however, the board was confused by an announcement at Detroit by a spokesman for the Ford company that no telegram had been sent from the Dearborn offices to Senator Wagner yesterday.

The spokesman said an earlier communication of "quite a different tenor" had been addressed to the National Labor Board and declared this communication had been withheld by the board's chairman.

At a late hour last night, Senator Wagner could not be reached to clear up the mystery.

Following its victory in advancing arbitration in the West Virginia steel strikes, the National Labor Board had hailed the purported telegram from the Ford company as another signal achievement. It was hoped the telegram announced by Senator Wagner meant a turning point in Ford's opposition to the organization, and that the automobile manufacturer might be on the point of accepting the Blue Eagle.

"I have received assurance from the Ford company in Dearborn," Senator Wagner informed the board yesterday, "that the company is prepared to meet authorized representatives of their employes. The superintendent of the Edgewater plant has telephoned me that he will be at our arbitration meeting, inasmuch as I have requested his presence."

When Senator Wagner's announcement was communicated to Detroit, prompt denial that such was the Ford company's intention was issued by a spokesman.

"Senator Wagner is trying to get some publicity with something he knows won't stand up through tomorrow," the spokesman said. "The Ford company is not going to be drawn into this thing until the time is right.

"An earlier communication to the labor board had quite a different tenor from that attributed to it by Senator Wagner, who is quite at liberty to give out the exact text."

Regarding the conference scheduled for this morning between the management of the Ford assembling plant at Edgewater, N. J., and representatives of striking workmen, at the Newark NRA headquarters, the Ford spokesman said "the situation will be clarified when such a conference is held."

More than 8,000 workers are on strike at the Ford plants.

Ban on True, NRA Critic, Holds Tight

While flashlights flared, and a throng of his associates milled about the doorway of NRA headquarters, James True, writer of the Industrial Control Report and critic of the Recovery Administration, was barred from a press conference with Gen. Hugh S. Johnson yesterday afternoon.

Clutching a telegram from the Grocery Trade News designating him as the accredited correspondent of that publication, True, a veteran Washington newspaperman, presented himself at the door of Gen. Johnson's office.

William V. Lawson, an NRA press officer, barred the way.

"Am I excluded from this conference?" inquired True.

He was told that he was, by orders of the administrator, whose ire he aroused by criticism of NRA code meetings. Gen. Johnson described True's writings as "full of misinformation and sabotage of NRA, and in one case distinctly libelous."

True Writes Protest.

"Doesn't this telegram entitle me to attend the press conference?" True asked.

Informed that it did not, True retired to prepare a statement in which he said "the issue is whether the constitutional guarantee of freedom of the press shall govern NRA's relations with the publications of this country."

At the press conference, which, due to the True incident, was attended by more than 100 newspapermen and women, Gen. Johnson said he did not consider the freedom of the press involved.

It was made clear that the NRA administration is barring True, and at least one other writer for an industrial information service, on the premise that "these gentlemen are not representatives of the press."

Both Would Drop Issue.

True's retort to this was that he desired to attend the NRA press conferences as a correspondent for the Grocery Trade News, not as a writer for the Industrial Control Report, which he organized last July.

"And unless my paper insists upon it, I have no further desire to attend the conferences," he added.

Both sides in the controversy over True's eligibility to attend Johnson's bi-weekly meetings professed willingness last night to let the matter drop.

The bulletin from headquarters of True's Industrial Control Reports to which the NRA administrator took exception referred to "sinister influences" at work in connection with the dry goods and soil pipe codes. It was signed by a former associate of True, who repudiated it. Gen. Johnson summoned True, and after some argument, the writer was informed by letter that he would be unwelcome at future press conferences.

Notice Is Termed Reply to Complaints of Wide Violation.

Strives to Keep Blue Eagle Honest

President Roosevelt served notice upon the Nation last night that he is prepared to keep the Blue Eagle honest by fines and jail terms for persons who fail to live up to its standards.

In an executive order, he prescribed $500 fine and six months' imprisonment for persons who sign the President's reemployment agreement and then violate its provisions, and also for persons who display the Blue Eagle after they have been ordered to turn in the symbol because of violations.

The order was the administration's answer to complaints that it was not enforcing the agreements and the complaint of many business men that they no longer could abide by the agreements because competitors were not doing so.

The orders made clear that violators of the temporary agreement are subject to penalties provided for violators of permanent codes.

Text Cites Acts Provisions.

The text of the order follows:

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 10a of the National Industrial Recovery Act, approved June 16, 1933, I hereby prescribe the following rules and regulations necessary for carrying out the purposes of title 1 of said act.

"A. No one shall falsely represent himself to be discharging the obligations or complying with the provisions of the President's reemployment agreement or of any code of fair competition approved by the President under the National Industrial Recovery Act or any rule or regulation prescribed to carry out the purposes of said act.

"B. No one shall display or use any emblem or insignia or any reproduction of any emblem or insignia of the National Recovery Administration contrary to any rules or regulations prescribed hereunder by the administrator for industrial recovery.

Orders Come from Johnson.

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by section 2b of the aforesaid act, and in supplement to executive orders of June 16, 1933, and July 15, 1933, Nos. 6173 and 6025a, respectively, I hereby authorize the Administrator for Industrial Recovery to prescribe such rules and regulations as he may deem necessary to supplement, amplify or carry out the purposes and intent of the rules and regulations prescribed in paragraphs a and b of this order, and to take such other steps as he may deem advisable to affectuate such rules and regulations or any rules and regulations so prescribed by the

350 Million Farm Relief Plan Told

Wallace Announces Corn and Hog Reduction Campaign.

Payment to farmers by the Government of $350,000,000 is a part of the program for hog and corn production control announced yesterday by Secretary Wallace.

The plan calls for reduction of 20 per cent in corn production and 25 per cent in hog production.

Other agricultural plans, announced yetesrday, include:

Purchase of $40,000,000 worth of pork to feed the needy. This will buy 400,000,000 pounds and will be in addition to the 100,000,000 pounds of pork acquired in the recent hog-buying program.

Purchase of approximately 1,000,000 bushels of wheat by the Farmers National Grain Corporation.

Completion of the Commodity Credit Corporation by the end of the week to make available loans to cotton producers. A total of $250,000,000 will be available for such loans.

Funds From Taxes.

Money to be paid farmers for reducing their output will come largely from processing taxes on corn and pork products.

Secretary Wallace said he hoped the plan would put 12,000,000 acres of corn land out of use. This would reduce American corn production in 1934 by about 360,000,000 bushels.

Payment to corn growers will be made at the rate of 30 cents a bushel for corn removed from production, based on the farmer's average production.

Hog farmers will receive payments of $5 a head on the number of hogs equivalent to 75 per cent of the average number of hogs farrowed on the farm during a two-year period. Two dollars will be paid on acceptance of the contract, $2 about September 1, 1934, and $2 about February 1, 1935.

$180,000,000 Available.

Secretary Wallace said approximately $180,000,000 will be available for distribution to participating farmers on acceptance of corn and hog contracts.

The initial process tax on hogs will be 50 cents per hundredweight of live animal, effective November 5. This tax will be increased at

Buyer Charges Broker Named Dall as "Bait"

Thomas' Name Mentioned Falsely Also, He Says in Suit.

The names of Curtis Dall, son-in-law of President Roosevelt, and Senator Elmer Thomas, of Oklahoma, were mentioned in a suit filed in District Supreme Court by Arthur R. Donovan, 1424 Parkwood Place northwest, who is seeking damages of $5,883.60 from the stock brokerage firm of Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider.

Donovan, according to his allegations, was "induced to transfer his brokerage account from Harriman & Co. to Fenner, Beane & Ungerleider. John D. Mothershed, co-manager of the local office, told him Senator Thomas, "author of the inflation bill, was a customer and that if stocks went downward he (Senator Thomas) would see the President, with whom he was intimate."

Cites Inflation Plans.

Senator Thomas would then "have the inflation bill put into effect, thereby preventing the fall of the stock market." Also, he charged, he was told "Senator Thomas would notify them so they could have prior notice" of such a trend, giving the firm's customers an advantage.

Donovan charged he was told "Dall was a partner, and through him White House information concerning Government policies affecting the rise and fall of the stock market could be obtained before any other broker, which would better protect customers."

Such statements, concerning both men, were "false and untrue and were made for the purpose of inducing plaintiff to transfer his account," Donovan charged.

Tells of Losses.

As a result of market dealings through the company, Donovan informed the court he lost $5,883.60. He said the money was to have been used to educate his sister. Donovan said he specified that his account was to be handled so loss of no more than $1,000 would be risked. Attorney Edwin C. Dutton filed the suit. Twenty-three partners, trading as Fenner, Beane & Underleider, were named as defendants.

Donovan's suit was in two counts. The first charged that he had lost $3,328.10 and the second alleged losses of $3,332.10, which resulted, he said, from "unauthorized purchases," which he said he had been assured "were safe and desirable."

intervals until it reaches $2 by February 1, 1934.

The amount of the corn-processing tax has not been announced.

If necessary the Government also will assess compensating taxes on imports and on domestic supplies competing with corn and hogs, Secretary Wallace said.

Activities in the various States in connection with administration of the corn and hog program will be in the hands of county corn and hog-control associations.

The States each will be allotted a quota for total reduction of corn and hog production, based on percentages of average production.

Use Land for Pasture.

Land taken out of corn production may be used for pasture.

The wheat purchase announcement was made by Henry Morganthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration. The wheat purchases will be made at Chicago, Kansas City, Minneapolis, Omaha, Buffalo and Baltimore.

On an average, one pound of wheat will make one loaf of bread. There are 60 pounds to a bushel. Thus the 1,000,000 bushels can be turned into 60,000,000 loaves of bread. The relief administration estimates it must feed 15,000,000 people this winter.

Two days ago the relief administration anounced plans for buying 2,000,000 pounds of butter a week and quantities of beef.

The Commodity Credit Corporation was chartered in Delaware. Lynn P. Talley, assistant to the directors of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, is its president. Oscar Johnson, director of finance for the Farm Administration, is vice president, and J. E. Wels, jr., assistant cooperative bank commissioner of the Farm Credit Administration, is secretary-treasurer.

Cotton Loans Planned.

Directors, in addition to Talley and Johnson, are: Secretary Wallace, Farm Administrator George N. Peek, Henry Morgenthau, jr.; Stanley P. Reed, general counsel of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation; Herman Oliphant, general counsel of the Farm Credit Administration, and E. B. Schwulst, special assistant of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The cotton loan plan has as its purpose bringing the price of cotton to more than 10 cents a pound for low middling and better. The value of the cotton yield is expected to be enhanced $30,000,000, based on present quotations.

Under the plan the Government will lend 10 cents a pound to farmers who still have their cotton if it is low middling and better in grade and seven-eighths inch or better in staple.

The money is to be loaned at 4 per cent interest to farmers who agree to participate in the acreage curtailment agreement.

Receiving Checks.

It is estimated that 6,000,000 bales of cotton out of an estimated yield of 12,800,000 bales remain in the hands of the growers.

Cotton farmers are receiving the last of checks for $111,000,000 for curtailing their acreage during this year.

An immediate increase in the price of pork at retail is expected to result from Secretary Wallace's plan for processing taxes.

Senate Group Will Conduct R. F. C. Inquiry

Committee Appointed to Investigate Loan of $90,000,000.

Carrying out the Senate mandate, Chairman Fletcher of the Senate Banking Committee yesterday appointed a subcommittee to investigate Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans.

Senator Fletcher (Democrat), Florida, will head the subcommittee, which also will include Senators Adams (Democrat), Colorado; Couzens (Republican), Michigan, and Townsend (Republican), Delaware.

Declaring no funds are available for the subcommittee inquiry, Senator Fletcher indicated the investigation may not get underway at once.

Reconstruction Finance Corporation directors may be called for questioning, he said.

The resolution was adopted by the Senate shortly after the Central Republic Trust Co. of Chicago, formerly headed by Charles G. Dawes, borrowed $90,000,000 from the R. F. C.

Suspect in Attack Guarded Closely

Colored Man Confessed Assaulting Woman, Police Say.

Baltimore, Oct. 17 (AP).—A detail of 25 State policemen was assigned tonight to guard George Armwood, 40-year-old colored man, when he was returned to Princess Anne to face a preliminary hearing on charges resulting from an alleged attack on an aged white woman.

Armwood was started from Baltimore shortly after 10 o'clock tonight.

Somerset County authorities expressed the opinion there was no danger from mob violence.

The order for Armwood's return came less than 24 hours after he was rushed to Baltimore when crowds began to gather in Salisbury, Princess Anne, Snow Hill and nearby communities. Police said he had confessed he attacked Mrs. Mary Denston, 82-year-old Somerset County farmer's wife.

State's Attorney John B. Robins, of Somerset County, announced the county grand and petit juries would be recalled, probably Monday, to consider the case. He said he would ask the death penalty.

Odd Fellows Drop Antibeer Ruling

Lodge Members Allowed to Sell Beverage.

Omaha, Oct. 17 (AP). — James S. Davis, of Tacoma, Wash., grand sire of the Odd Fellows, said today sellers of 3.2 beer were again eligible for membership in the Odd Fellows lodge.

He explained an earlier ruling had been reversed.

"If the courts of a State hold that 3.2 beer is intoxicating," Davis said, "our members will not be allowed to sell it.

"But where the law, as interpreted by the courts, holds 3.2 beer a non-intoxicating drink, Odd Fellows will not be barred from selling the beverage."

Mrs. E. M. Biddle Asks Reno Divorce

Reno, Nev., Oct. 17 (U.P.).—Mrs. Mannie Dale Biddle, Philadelphia social registerite, today filed suit for divorce from Edward M. Biddle, of Ardmore, Pa., charging mental cruelty.

(Associated Press.)

Ferdinand Pecora, counsel for the Senate committee investigating stock practices, announced last night that subpenas had been served on six New York exchange members and they are to appear before the committee Friday.

Those summoned were John P. Duncan, of W. E. Hutton & Co.; Frank Murphy, of Jules S. Bache & Co.; Sayer Dominick, of Dominick & Dominick; Edward A. Pierce, of E. A. Pierce & Co.; Louis J. Drevers, of Erich & Drevers, and John M. Prentice, of Hornblower & Weeks.

Pecora said all are members of large commission houses.

The decision to subpena the exchange members followed refusal of the stock exchange to circulate a questionnaire among its members which asked detailed information on stock transactions. Pecora said his only alternative was to issue subpenas to all 1,375 members.

Richard Whitney, president of the stock exchange, took the position, Pecora said, that it would be an imposition on the exchange members because of the length of time and cost it would entail them to compile the information.

The committee counsel said other subpenas would be served probably before Friday, and that "10 or 12" exchange members are expected to appear Friday.

Pecora said he had been informed today by officials of the Buffalo and St. Louis Stock Exchanges that they were circulating the questionnaire. He also took issue with Whitney on the time and cost it requires of exchange members to answer the questions. He said the data could be compiled in two or three weeks.

It was known Pecora is hopeful that the subpenas will cause officials of the New York exchange to conclude that the questionnaire method is preferable to calling other members before the committee.

Farley Views NRA Triumph

"Thousands Go to Work," He Tells Crowd in Mississippi.

Jackson, Miss., Oct. 17 (AP).—Addressing a large crowd here tonight Postmaster General Farley said "remarkable and amazing results already have been recorded from the President's recovery program and additional encouraging results will follow."

"Men and women are going back to work by the thousands everywhere. Wages have been raised.

"Pay rolls have increased at the rate of $3,720,000,000 a year, and additional encouraging results are being reported daily."

He declared public works projects now being initiated "will not only put thousands of men back to work in construction of roads and erection of buildings, but also will engage hundreds of thousands of others in supplying raw materials and equipment of all kinds."

Accompanied by Jesse Jones, chairman of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, and L. W. Robert, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, was greeted by State and Democratic party officials.

Early tomorrow the officials will take off for Meridian, where Farley will help dedicate a $400,000 Federal building.

Governor Dismisses Sheriff Who Executed Cermak Slayer

Removal Order Charges Mental Instability, Incompetence.

Tallahassee, Fla., Oct. 17 (AP).—Dan Hardie, old-time gun-toting sheriff who executed the assassin, Guiseppi Zangara, and boasted of running the gamblers out of Dade (Miami) County on the business end of a pistol, today was suspended from office.

The former sheriff, a pioneer in south Florida law enforcement, came into national prominence when he had charge of Zangara, the immigrant who shot at the then President-elect Roosevelt and fatally wounded Mayor Cermak of Chicago. He later officiated at the execution of the assassin.

He liked to raid with a shotgun across his arm and he branded sirens, red automobiles and other trappings as "new-fangled and shotoffs."

Hardie, who told a club last spring he had spurned $240,000 in graft within 90 days, and his son, a practicing physician, $17,000 in 17 days, was said in executive orders to lack "sound judgment and mental stability," and to have conducted himself in a "discourteous and vulgar manner," when visited by three women.

The suspended official was further charged with actually participating in the making of plans "to throw dynamite upon a building in Miami, and "did counsel and advise one Warren D. Fletcher and others to kill one L. W. Rogers and Emory Burton, they having been induced to go forward with plans for dynamiting the said building."

The governor's action must be confirmed or rejected by the Legislature, which meets in April, 1935.

Wiggins Tells Quiz Of Big Retainers

tions,, he regards the $100,000 as salary, he said.

The resolution of the board of directors voting him the huge sum for life, pointed out the bank's capitalization had grown from $12,953,397 when he became its president in 1911, to $266,335,062 last December 21.

Looking further into the company's finances, Pecora brought out that $212,333,694 was set aside from surplus and undivided profits, as "reserves for losses" during the last four years and seven months. In that time, $136,420,384 in earnings was reported to stockholders, and $83,422,500 was paid out in cash dividents, it was testified.

Taking up compensation paid to executives during that period, Pecora developed that Wiggin collected $175,000 in salary and $100,000 in bonus in 1928; identical sums in salary and bonus in 1929; $218,750 in salary and $75,000 in bonus in 1930; $250,000 in salary in 1931 and $220,300 in salary in 1932.

Others Got Large Sums.

W. W. Aldrich, who succeeded Wiggin as chairman of the board, was disclosed as having received $460,556 since 1930; C. S. McCain, chairman of the board of directors, $557,171 since 1929; John McHugh, chairman of the executive committee, $581,931 since 1928, and R. L. Clarkson, vice chairman of the board $261,249 since 1928.

Over and above salary and bonus from Chase National Bank, Wiggin received a $75,000 bonus in 1930 from Chase Securities Corporation, it was testified.

Pointing out that the bank frowned on outside connections on the part of subordinate employes, Pecora brought out that Wiggin himself accepted varying salaries ranging upward to $40,000 a year for services rendered other corporations. Wiggin said these connections were "of benefit" to the bank and often brought new business.

They included:

American Locomotive Co., $300 a month; American Sugar Refining Co., $300 a month; Armour & Co., $40,000 a year; American Express Co., $3,000 a month; Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Co., $20,000 a year; International Paper & Power Co., $2,000 a month; Western Union, $3,000 a year; Stone & Webster, $1,500 a year; Finance Co. Great Britain & America, $5,000 a year, and Underwood-Elliott-Fisher Co., $2,000 a year.

Big Loans Under Fire.

The witness testified Gerhard Dahl, chairman of the board of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit Co., from which Wiggin drew $20,000 a year compensation in June, 1932, had a loan account with Chase National Bank of $3,183,158, covered by collateral security appraised at $615,000. Pecora charged the loan was "under water" to the extent of $2,500,000.

Pecora also brought out that loans approximating $3,339,000 to A. R. Graustein, president of International Paper & Power Co., were "charged off" by the bank in 1930 and 1931.

Wiggin said the fact that the loans were "charged off" does not mean the money "won't come back." He said Graustein put up his life insurance against the loan.

He testified that 6,700 shares of American Express Co. stock was allotted by directors of the Chase company at $170 a share to "persons in a position to promote the best interests of American Express Co." Wiggin bought 2,000 shares of this stock, he said, and others permitted to participate were F. H. Ecker, president of Metropolitan Life; Clarence Dillon, of Dillon, Read & Co., and Charles Hayden, well known investment banker. Wiggin said he lost on his purchase.

Bonuses, No Losses.

Senator Adams (Democrat), Colorado, wanted to know why deductions were not made from official salaries during years the bank lost money, on the same principle that bonuses were granted in years of plenty.

"Does it work only one way?" he asked the witness.

"Only one way," Wiggin replied.

"Did you help to fix theirs and they help to fix yours?" he asked.

"We all sat in together," said Wiggin.

On the subject of the Dahl loan, Senator Couzens wanted to know if Dahl borrowed from Chase to buy Brooklyn-Manhattan stock.

"It was for speculation," Wiggin replied. "If an investment turns out wrong, they call it speculation."

armament statement of October 6, which resulted in Washington's warning to Berlin.

Sir John declared the British government stands unwaveringly by the December declaration that Germany should receive arms equality, but added:

Cites Europe's Anxiety.

"However, a new fact—a very serious fact—has emerged which not in the least alters the pledge we gave, but which affects the detailed manner for its fulfillment.

"Recent events in Europe unquestionably have increased the feeling of nervousness and sense of positive alarm which is the real reason why the heavily armed states hesitate to weaken their armed forces. There is more anxiety in England about the international situation than in many years past, and on the continent the feeling is even more acute—and everybody knows why.

Describes Geneva Incident.

"Our future course will need close study and prolonged reflection, involving close communications with the other powers, including, I hope, Germany herself," he said.

Referring to his proposal in Geneva last Saturday, the British foreign secretary said he had asked Germany to define what she meant by "samples," and asked:

"What happened? Instead of defining the samples she wanted, Germany claimed the right to substantial rearmament from the very beginning of the test control period."

Referring to Von Neurath's statement, Sir John added:

"I must regret that Baron von Neurath has been accusing me of taking a false view of his attitude and, indeed, misstating facts. Well, I am perfectly ready to publish the documents and records of the incident.

Insists Britain Seeks Peace.

"I am very sorry indeed to be occupied for a single moment in any matter of controversy with the German foreign minister, but when he publishes a world repudiation of the view that Germany's attitude in the last few days has changed for the worse, and accuses me of spreading an untruthful statement about himself, I am entitled, indeed am bound to say on behalf of the government, that I find my statement was perfectly and absolutely right.

"The object of the British policy is not to arouse resentful feelings. We have tried and will continue to try to promote goodwill, and invite the cooperation of all nations. I speak for the government when I say that nothing shall be left undone to seek a basis for an honest and honorable compact on which the hopes of mankind for the future peace of the world are so largely founded."

Ickes Will Bar Shipping to Cut Oil Production

States Failing to Fall in Line by December 1 Face Embargo.

Following his moves in fixing minimum prices for crude oil and a schedule of retailers' profits, Secretary Ickes yesterday announced he would act November 1 to stop oil overproduction. He plans to curtail oil shipments from States which have not cut production to amounts allocated by him as oil code administrator.

As a result of Ickes' order fixing prices, legal officials of oil companies expect the retail prices of gasoline to increase slightly after December 1, when the order becomes effective.

The profit of four cents a gallon to retailers for medium priced oil, as fixed by the order, is the same as that now existing in the District of Columbia, it was explained. The only factor affecting the price here, oil men said, is the increase in the cost of crude.

In connection with his move to stop overproduction, Secretary Ickes said he would move under the powers granted him "to prevent disruption of the program by a small minority" of the industry.

He telegraphed the Texas Railroad Commission and the corporation commissions of Kansas and Oklahoma informing them of his intended steps.

Texas overproduction was placed at 615,000 barrels, that of Kansas at 300,000 barrels, and Oklahoma, 440,000. This covered from September 8 to 30, Ickes said.

Mr. Ickes announced approval of a modification of article V of the oil code, temporarily permitting sellers of petroleum or its products a period of 30 days from final date of payment in which to effect cash settlements.

States Fall in Line.

Kansas City, Oct. 17 (AP).—Officials of oil regulatory commissions of Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas indicated today that those States would voluntarily bring oil production within Federal limits by November 1 and that no Federal action to prevent overproduction, such as threatened by Secretary Ickes, would be necessary.

George S. Allee, chairman of the Missouri planning and coordinating committee, predicted that the figures set by Ickes would send the retail price of gasoline up 2 cents a gallon.

Gas Prices Drop.

Los Angeles, Oct. 17 (AP).—Gasoline prices shifted downward today, retailers reporting a decline of as much as two and a quarter cents a gallon from yesterday's prices. Second grade gasoline was offered as low as 11¼ cents a gallon. First grade gasoline was selling at 16½ to 17 cents a gallon.

and the dangers of inflation, together with the impossibility of borrowing unless the budget were balanced, were pictured for the deputies in the premier's demand for a speedy adoption of measures to levy taxes and institute economies for a total of 8,000,000,000 francs (about $480,000,000).

By a vote of 470 to 120 the chamber approved the government's request for extreme speed in dealing with the finance proposals.

Daladier declared he would stake the life of his cabinet on every measure offered, and the Chamber after a 45-minute session packed with German and financial problems, gave the premier their approval and adjourned until Thursday.

The position of the cabinet appeared strong with a compromise expected on a proposal to cut the pay of government servants. The heaviest battle was foreseen on a suggested reduction in veterans pensions.

Rifles Rout Havana Dime Store Strikers

Woolworth Building Is Damaged as Bomb Explodes.

Havana, Oct. 17 (AP).—Shots in the midtown shopping district today dispersed striking Woolworth employes, mostly girls, as an aftermath of an explosion that shattered a window in the Woolworth store.

The soldiers elevated their rifles and no one was wounded. An ABC member who interfered for a girl was arrested.

A youth who was distributing Communist literature among the spectators was arrested. It was learned a message was circulated last night condemning the Woolworth company.

Meantime, Antonio Guiteras, 26, secretary of the interior, war and navy, announced a national militia was being created by the government "to protect national institutions."

Machado Scorns Charges.

Montreal, Oct. 17 (AP).—Gerardo Machado, former Cuban president, is not worried by charges brought against him in Havana, his aid, G. Fernandez, said tonight.

Machado is confined to his bed here with a cold.

Fernandez pointed out neither Great Britain nor Canada has recognized the new Cuban government. Furthermore, Fernandez said, Machado is certain Canada would not surrender him to the Cuban administration without extradition process.

administrator, and to appoint personnel and delegate thereto such powers as may be deemed necessary to accomplish the purposes of this order.

"C. Any person who violates any of the foregoing rules and regulations or any rule or regulation prescribed hereunder by the said administrator may be punished, as provided in section 10a of the national industrial recovery act, by a fine not to exceed $500 or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or both."

Johnson simultaneously issued rules, the most important of which requires an employer to surrender his Blue Eagle "when, in the judgment of the said administrator or his duly authorized representatives, any person has failed to comply" with a temporary agreement or permanent code. The order likewise provided that any violator of the rules would be subject to the fine or imprisonment.

Johnson Prescribes Rules.

Johnson's regulations:

"Rules and regulations concerning display of NRA emblem.

"By virtue of the authority vested in me by executive orders issued by the President, dated June 16, 1933, July 15, 1933, and October 14, 1933, I hereby prescribe the following rules and regulations which I deem necessary to supplement, amplify or carry out the rules and regulations prescribed in the last mentioned executive order:

"1. The emblem, popularly known as the 'Blue Eagle,' a reproduction of which appears upon the upper left hand corner of this page, is the emblem of the National Recovery Administration, and the property of the United States Government.

"2. Any person who has obtained the said emblem by signing a certificate of compliance with the President's reemployment agreement or with an approved code of fair competition for his trade or industry, may display or use said emblem so long as such person continues to comply therewith, unless otherwise provided by rules or regulations prescribed by the administrator for industrial recovery.

Marked Goods May Be Sold.

"3. When, in the judgment of the said administrator or his duly authorized representatives, any person has failed to comply with said agreement or code, or when any person has improperly obtained said emblem, such person shall surrender said emblem on demand of the said administrator or his duly authorized representative, and shall not thereafter display or use the same without the written permission of the said administrator.

"4. Nothing in these rules and regulations shall be construed so as to prevent the display or sale by any person whatsoever of goods or packages marked by others with the said emblem as evidence of compliance as aforesaid, except that such display or sale shall not be made in such manner as to indicate compliance by such person.

"5. Any person who violates any of the foregoing rules and regulations may be punished, as provided in section 10a of the National Industrial Recover act, by a fine not to exceed five hundred dollars ($500) or imprisonment not to exceed six months, or both."

Hitler Asserts Germany Aims To Obey Pacts

Leaders Declare Reich Asks Only Observance by Other Lands.

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP).—Chancellor Hitler's spokesmen declared tonight that Germany intends to live up to treaty obligations even though she has announced her withdrawal from the League of Nations and the disarmament conference.

But to all questions regarding the Reich's plans after such withdrawal, they gave the stock reply of the foreign minister, Konstantin von Neurath, that "the others now have the floor."

Replies to inquiries whether the government had purposely refrained from writing a formal letter of resignation from the League, or whether this omission was accidental, were cryptic.

Reich Moves Slowly.

The inference was drawn that while Germany was quick to notify Arthur Henderson of the resignation from the arms parley she is in no hurry to leave the league.

When asked about their attitude regarding the Versailles and Locarno pacts and the league covenant, spokesmen hastened to declare that Germany intends to fulfill these obligations, but demands that other signers live up to their promises.

Government representatives said Germany intends to live up to provisions of the league covenant.

Dodd Impressed.

American Ambassador William E. Dodd apparently came away from a conference with Chancellor Hitler with the impression that Germany is anxious to resume or continue her contact with the rest of the world.

Germany's foreign policy, according to an official communique, will dominate the campaign leading up to the elections and plebescite on the government's recent course. The elections will be held November 12. The chancellor, Reichsminister Goering, and Dr. Goebbels intend to take the stump.

NRA Board Gives Last Chance to 3

Employers Given Hearing to Keep Blue Eagles.

Three Washington employers charged with violating NRA codes will be given a final hearing by the District Recovery Board next Monday, the board decided yesterday after reviewing the cases. Removal of the blue eagle of two of the employers was recommended by the local NRA compliance board. The third case was submitted to the recovery board for judgment.

Ben L. Prince, recovery board chairman, said the employers will have a final opportunity to justify their failure to live up to codes. Two are restaurant owners, the other an ice cream manufacturer.

Final action will be taken by the board Tuesday. More than 300 other cases have been adjusted.

Woman Lawmaker Gets Thrill By Leasing Taxi for 2 Weeks

Mrs. Isabella Greenway Satisfies Yearnings to Ignore Meter.

The newly-established four-zone system with higher taxicab fares means nothing at all to Representative-elect Isabella Greenway, of Arizona. Yesterday she leased a cab for two weeks.

Like many persons who are forced to watch a taxi meter or zone boundaries somewhat anxiously, Mrs. Greenway has long dreamed of riding about in a cab and snapping her fingers at distances, she confessed yesterday to the Women's National Press Club at a luncheon in the Willard Hotel.

"Controlled inflation, I call it," she said. "I shall have a glorious time riding all I please without worrying about the bill each trip."

The owner of the cab, who like his 3,000 colleagues here, is lucky if his cab is in use a fourth of the time, was so delighted with the arrangement that he offered to paint Mrs. Greenway's name on the cab door—Public Utilities Commission regulations be hanged! The Arizona Representative declined, insisting such a procedure would take away much of the thrill.

Bank Guaranty Law Revision Will Be Urged

Columbia Professor Says Deposit Insurance Is Unsound.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Revision of Federal banking laws, especially the Glass-Steagall act embodying a deposit insurance plan, was called for today by Prof. A. A. Berle, of Columbia University, one of President Roosevelt's advisers.

Berle, addressing the Savings Banks Association of New York, said he believed the next Congress would adopt an improved act.

The assocaition later heard a committee report that a permanent plan of deposit insurance was "unsound in principle and does not offer a solution of the banking problems." Delegates voted to defer action.

"Senator Glass did an excellent job with the Glass-Steagall act," said Berle, "but I think he would be the first to see that he could do a better job.

"For one thing, under the deposit insurance plan there are a number of banks who will find it difficult to make a living."

"There should be a definite differential between the 60-day time deposit certificate which a commercial bank may issue, within the guaranty, and a savings bank deposit. The rate of interest ought to be lowered on the former rather than on the latter.

"The commercial bank should be encouraged to do commercial banking and not compete with the savings bank.

"You will see that I do not regard the present deposit insurance feature a solution of the difficulty. I sympathize with it, because the banks of the country must be made safe for depositors.

Peltz, Sought In Jones Death, Gives Self Up

Accompanied by Attorney James A. O'Shea, Max Peltz, sought for a month in connection with the gang slaying of Charles Jones, yesterday surrendered in District Supreme Court.

He walked into the court of Justice Peyton Gordon, announced his identity, and said he wished to surrender. Justice Gordon ordered him committed and he was whisked to the District Jail by deputy marshals.

Peltz, Buford Findley, and Michael Vigliucci are under indictment for Jones' murder. The latter two already are under arrest. They have been arraigned and have entered pleas of not guilty.

Jones was shot to death when a group of men in two cars trapped him in the alley, September 18, near the Government Printing Office and opened fire. Others with Jones escaped injury.

Peltz's surrender forestalled an intensive grilling planned by the police homicide squad. Since he is now out of the jurisdiction of police he can be questioned only at his will.

Farmers Given Prison Terms As Kelly Aids

San Angelo, Tex., Oct. 17 (AP).—The Government scored again today in the Charles F. Urschel kidnaping when Cass Coleman and Will Casey, farmers, were sentenced to the penitentiary for conspiracy to harbor George ("Machine Gun") Kelly.

Coleman, on whose farm $73,250 of the $200,000 ransom was found, was sentenced to a year and a day. Casey was sentenced to two years. Coleman pleaded guilty and Casey not guilty.

"I believe when a man does a wrong, the best thing to do is to confess that wrong and try to right it," Judge William H. Atwell told Casey. "I don't think it is necessary for me to explain why I am making a difference in your sentence and that of Mr. Coleman's."

The maximum penalty would have been two years and a $10,000 fine.

"I am going to do everything for you I can do under the circumstances," the judge told Coleman. "But I can't afford to let you go free. You have committed a serious offense."

Mrs. Kelly, Mother Part.

Memphis, Tenn., Oct. 17 (AP). Kathryn Kelly and her mother, Mrs. R. G. Shannon, parted for perhaps the last time here today.

Mother and daughter arrived this morning from Oklahoma City, where they were convicted of participation in the Urschel kidnaping. The separation took place at the depot where Kathryn boarded a train for Cincinnati, where she will serve her term. The mother remains at a penal farm here.

"I love George Kelly, very, very much," the wife of the outlaw said. Turning defiantly to officers she added:

"George will see me Christmas. He told me he would break out Christmas and get me out. He always does as he says he will."

Mrs. Shannon took a different view.

"Kathryn loved George Kelly," she said, "and we all believed in him. We thought he was a big business man and we took in everything he told us.

"I'm worried about Kathryn," she added. "She has a temper and always was a headstrong girl."

Mrs. Kelly to Darn, Knit.

Cincinnati, Oct. 17 (AP).—Officials of the Cincinnati Workhouse were ready tonight with a prison routine, under which Kathryn Kelly will begin a life sentence for her part in the Urschel kidnaping.

The wife of George (Machine Gun) Kelly will be assigned to darning and knitting for the other men and women prisoners.

Officials plan no unusual precautions, relying on the 15-foot stone wall that surrounds the 26-acre plant, and the armed guards that patrol it day and night.

3 Accused Return $18,000 in Gold

Prosecutor Indicates He Will Drop Charges.

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (AP).—A total of $18,000 in alleged hoarded gold came back to the Government today from three persons named in Federal warrants as violating the anti-hoarding law.

United States Attorney H. H. McPike indicated he would drop prosecution of Mrs. Beulah Carleton, who deposited $8,000 in the Federal Reserve Bank; Mrs. Nellie Banzaff, Oakland, who returned $7,500 and James D. Potts, Alameda, who gave back $2,500.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Frederick B. Campbell, indicted for gold hoarding, today sought to block his prosecution by asking an order restraining U. S. District Attorney George Z. Medalie from moving against him under a superseding indictment or any other head. Campbell is charged with failure to report possession of 27 bars of gold bullion valued at $200,574.

Mrs. May B. Sweet, the boy's mother, asked track officials and local police to look for him there. He is fond of horses, she said.

Johnson Says NRA Salaries Will Be Cut

Reclassification Will Be Completed Before Slash Is Made.

Salary reductions of 15 per cent for National Recovery Administration employes were announced yesterday by Administrator Hugh S. Johnson. It was understood the same slashes wold apply to Public Works Administration employes.

Before the cut becomes effective, however, the NRA staff will be reclassified. In its hurried organization, workers from statisticians to stenographers were taken on wage scales based on the needs of the moment, Gen. Johnson explained.

Classification has been going on several weeks. The cut is an application of the slash applied to workers in other Government departments April 15.

The survey was ordered by President Roosevelt.

Gen. Johnson receives $6,000 a year at his own request.

Announcement was made here yesterday that the old Public Buildings Commission, which had charge of space allocations in the Government buildings here, had been succeeded by a new organization called the Division of Government Space Control of the Buildings Branch of the Office of National Parks, Buildings and Reservations.

Wheat Bar Asked In 6 More States to increase wheat prices, but said he would not issue a ban on wheat shipments. He said he believed he lacked authority.

Wallace Sympathetic.

"Sometimes I can sympathize with a man although I don't agree with his judgment," Secretary Wallace said yesterday in commenting on the wheat embargo ordered by Gov. Langer, of North Dakota.

"The embargo should call attention to the wheat farmer's problem. "You know when a wheel hasn't any grease it will squeak."

Secretary Wallace said he was not qualified to rule on the legality of the North Dakota governor's action.

The question of the right of the railroads to refuse wheat shipment out of North Dakota may have to be settled in court. The Interstate Commerce Commission was described as having no jurisdiction.

Secretary Wallace, Farm Administrator George N. Peek and others in the Department of Agriculture discussed the North Dakota situation, but there was no statement other than Secretary Wallace's informal remarks.

Railroads Study Action.

St. Paul, Oct. 17 (AP).—General counsels of four railroads serving North Dakota considered today whether legal action could be taken against the North Dakota embargo on wheat shipments.

All said they planned a thorough study before announcing any stand.

Gov. Floyd B. Olson refused to comment on whether such action would be legal in Minnesota, but said "the matter of legal authority is secondary to the matter of helping the farmers of the Nation."

The Great Northern, Northern Pacific, the Soo Line and the Milwaukee road are heavy interstate carriers of wheat, shipment of which from North Dakota was banned yesterday by Gov. William Langer, effective at midnight Wednesday.

33d Masonic Degree Given 189 by Council

Bishop James E. Freeman, William Doak Among Those Honored.

Dr. James Edward Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, and William Nuckles Doak, former Secretary of Labor, were elected honorary thirty-third degree Masons at the biennial session of the Supreme Council, Ancient and Accepted Scottish Rite of the Southern Jurisdiction, at Scottish Rite Temple yesterday.

In addition, the Masons elevated to the thirty-third degree honor 187 others, including 5 Washingtonians. Those from the District chosen were Christian F. Kleinknecht, Carl H. Claudy, Charles Cyrus Coombs, Melville D. Hensey and Dr. William L. Robins.

Charles W. Galloway, Baltimore; Morris Samuel Lazaron, Pikesville, and William Vion Masson, Baltimore, were the three Marylanders elevated to the honorary degree by the council. Three Virginians also were named. These were Arthur Samuel Bell, Richmond; Junius Wheeler Calvert, Norfolk, and Francis Rodman Porter, Roanoke.

375 Made Commanders.

As the council bestowed ranks of Knights Commanders of the Court of Honor on 375 Masons throughout the country, Bishop Freeman achieved a dual honor. He was the only person to receive both the thirty-third degree and the commander designations.

Six other District residents were made Knights commanders. These were Leslie Dunn Waudby, Ralph Henry Gauker, Albert Ronald Merz, Homer Stanley Pope, Hector Galloway Spaulding and Arthur B. Hayes, jr., of Chevy Chase.

Degrees Explained.

Officials of the Scottish Rite explained yesterday that the honorary thirty-third degree was not to be confused with the active thirty-third degree, and that the Knights commanders are thirty-second-degree Masons, elevated a fraction of a grade.

After luncheon yesterday the executive session, which had bestowed the honors, resumed. Four hundred Masons from many sections of the world have registered for the biennial, which will continue through Saturday.

If other Washingtonians will join her, a woman who called The Post last night will see to it that Louis Steale, 35, of 2033 A street northeast, does not go to jail for six months of his allotted year to live.

Virginia Crossing Law Before Court

Railroad Holds Statute Unconstitutional.

The Virginia statute giving the highway commissioner authority to require elimination of railroad grade crossings was attacked yesterday in the supreme court, according to the Associated Press.

Sidney S. Alderman, counsel for the Southern Railway, based his attack on an order of the commissioner requiring elimination of a crossing at Antlers, Mecklenburg County. He charged the act was unconstitutional because it empowered the commissioner to act without giving the railroad an opportunity to be heard.

Thomas B. Gay, of Richmond, will continue the argument for the railroad while the State will be represented by Joseph V. Hall, and Brookenbrough Lamb.

The State will contend that a hearing is not required by the due process clause of the Federal Constitution.

Chest to Help Charity Drive In Arlington

Will Turn Over Names of Those Who Prefer to Aid County Work.

ARLINGTON COUNTY
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Elwood Street, director of the Washington Community Chest, yesterday declined to authorize the collection of contributions for the Citizens Relief Committee of Arlington County by Chest workers. However, he agreed to have a list of nearby Virginia residents who prefer to give to Arlington charities prepared by the Federal Government units and turned over to Gilbert L. Hall, chairman of the Arlington relief committee.

Replying to a suggestion by Hall that Community Chest workers handle contributions in the Federal departments to the Arlington campaign, Street in a letter said such procedure would be impractical unless the Citizens Relief Committee becomes an actual member of the Chest.

Street inclosed a form which he said he was willing to have Chest workers give any Government employe who say they would prefer to contribute to home charities in nearby Maryland and Virginia. He wrote:

"Our office will be very glad to arrange those names and addresses as received by communities and send to the organized charities in these communities lists of these people so that the communities may solicit them for gifts which they say they intend to make in their home communities."

One Sure Way to End Coughs and Colds

Persistent coughs and colds lead to serious trouble. You can stop them now with Creomulsion, an emulsified creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a new medical discovery with two-fold action: it soothes and heals the inflamed membranes and inhibits germ growth.

Of all known drugs, creosote is recognized by high medical authorities as one of the greatest healing agencies for persistent coughs and colds and other forms of throat troubles. Creomulsion contains, in addition to creosote, other healing elements which soothe and heal the infected membranes and stop the irritation and inflammation, while the creosote goes on to the stomach, is absorbed into the blood, and attacks the seat of the trouble.

Creomulsion is guaranteed satisfactory in the treatment of persistent coughs and colds, bronchial asthma, bronchitis, and is excellent for building up the system after colds or flu. Your own druggist is authorized to refund your money on the spot if your cough or cold is not relieved by Creomulsion. (adv.)

O'Ryan Denies McKee Backed By Roosevelt

Campaigner for LaGuardia Protests Claim at Joint Rally.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—A denial that Joseph V. McKee, independent candidate for mayor, has the backing of the Roosevelt administration was voiced by a prominent fusion worker today as the major candidates came together under one roof.

"As a Democrat and as a supporter of the President," said Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan, backing LaGuardia, "I protest against the attempt by any Democratic leader to have the public believe Mr. McKee's campaign has the approval of the President or of the National administration."

Although McKee announced he was washing his hands of the anti-Semitism issue raised against him after a vigorous denial of it last night, the question continued to be bruited about on the campaign front today.

Explanation Attacked.

McKee's explanation of a magazine article he wrote 18 years ago "explained nothing," said LaGuardia and Samuel Untermyer, Jewish leader and attorney.

McKee's counter charge LaGuardia had done a "contemptible thing" by raising the religious issue was described by the fusion candidate as "like the pickpocket who shouts thief to avoid detection."

Mayor John P. O'Brien, Tammany candidate, pleaded for reelection on his record, which he said included a solution of the city's financial problem for the next four years.

Fighting to hold his Tammany backers in line as defections to the McKee candidacy continued, Mayor O'Brien asserted that deserters "will experience the withering of their own power and the abandonment of those compelled by them to violate the principles of the party."

Uses Jefferson's Words.

O'Brien resurrected the words of Thomas Jefferson to fling at Democrats who have switched to McKee:

"Never sell the day to serve the hour!"

Frank J. Prial, Democratic nominee for comptroller who defeated Tammany's candidate in the primary, told the rally:

"The result of primary day was not only a rebuke to leaders for their political arrogance; it was a mandate to me that I be independent of obligations to the leaders of the Democratic Party.

"I accept that mandate, and assure you that when I am elected, no leader or collection of leaders can dictate to me. My only responsibility will be to the citizens of this city."

Pledges Racket Fight.

Following O'Brien as a speaker before the New York section of the National Council of Jewish Women, LaGuardia based his plea for support on a pledge to free the city of racketeering—a pledge also made by McKee and Charles Solomon, Socialist candidate.

The fusion nominee asserted "No one can go to the City Hall backed by a pack of politicians, whether from New York County or any other county, and give the city good government."

Another defection from the mayor's ranks came today when Aldermanic President Dennis J. Mahon announced that Louis Felix, president of the Ninth Assembly District Tammany Club, had gone over to the McKee camp.

D.C. Budget Report Sent Civic Clubs

Estimate $2,775,000 Over Limit Set by Douglas.

A report on the 1935 District budget yesterday was sent by District Commissioners to civic and business organizations for study.

Organizations receiving the report were the Federation of Citizens Associations, Board of Trade, Chamber of Commerce, Merchants and Manufacturers Association and Washington Taxpayers Protective Association.

District officials are awaiting word from the Budget Bureau as to when hearings will be held. Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas was expected to fix a date yesterday, but bureau officials said he had been too busy. Estimates totaled $39,484,858.15, or $2,775,000 more than the limit fixed in advance by Director Douglas.

Hawes Shows New Giant Blunderbuss

A 25-pound blunderbuss, muzzle-loading gun of the type used by Puritan fathers against Indians, was on display yesterday for the first time in the law offices of Harry B. Hawes, former Senator from Missouri.

Einstein Eludes Reception In N. Y.; Hides in Princeton

German Scientist Seeks Rest; Will Lecture at University.

Princeton, N. J., Oct. 17 (AP).—A pacifist seeking peace, Dr. Albert Einstein, secluded himself in this university town tonight after eluding a reception committee in New York.

He and Frau Einstein slipped away from the S. S. Westernland at Quarantine, came here by automobile and hid from public gaze in the home of friends.

Seeks Quiet.

"All Dr. Einstein wants is to be left in peace and quiet," said Dr. Abraham Flexner, institute head.

Within a few days, the Einsteins will move into a cottage at the edge of Princeton—near the Revolutionary War battlefield. He will lecture at the university.

Their hostess will be Mrs. William R. Hall. Nearby is the former home of Woodrow Wilson.

The noted scientist, who fled from the continent to London after the Nazis were reported to have placed a price on his head, was bundled hurriedly from the Westerland.

Played for Passengers.

Fellow-passengers on the ship said the Einsteins refrained from discussing political news on the crossing. He frequently played the violin for his fellow-passengers.

Joel Slonin, editor of the Jewish Day, said the decision to remove the scientist from his liner was made after a disorder in Newark last night. He said the disorder was caused by Nazi sympathizers.

Prof. Einstein looked healthy, despite reports that he had been ill on his voyage.

$783,000,000 Urged for New Projects.

Paris, Oct. 17 (AP).—A national works program similar to the one in the United States was presented to the Chamber of Deputies today by Premier Edouard Daladier along with public economy recommendations.

The plan calls for expenditures of 13,736,500,000 francs (currently about $783,000,000) over a period of four years.

Benefits to agriculture were recommended totaling 3,260,000,000 francs (about $186,000,000). The premier recommended 2,000,000,000 francs for education; 340,000,000 francs for road and bridge improvements and further electrification of country districts, and 2,270,000,000 francs for aviation.

Air Pilots Win Labor Dispute

Board Rules Against Line, Restoring Ludington Fliers' Seniority.

Ruling against the Eastern Air Transport Co., the National Labor Board yesterday decided pilots taken into its service as the result of its purchase of Ludington Lines should have their lost seniority status restored.

The decision, the board hoped, would settle the dispute which arose between the company and its pilots because it refused to recognize the seniority status of the former Ludington fliers.

Because seniority status determines wages and routes, the Pilots Council charged the ratings given Ludington men were not based on merit.

In settling the issue, the board declared:

"Inasmuch as the Pilots Council, representing the pilots employed by the company, has agreed that seniority standing be given the Ludington pilots and has championed their cause before the board, there can be no claim of unfairness to the old employes."

Hunt Explains Job Aid Delay

Most Benefits of Public Works Plan Must Wait, He Says.

Most of the stimulating effect of municipal and State public works on reemployment will not be felt until next year because of delay in obtaining Federal loans, Henry T. Hunt, general counsel of the Public Works Administration, said last night in a radio address.

Speaking under auspices of the civic committee for education by radio, Hunt declared that "expenditures on Federal projects make a better showing." He estimated that "at least $600,000,000 will be under contract" by Federal departments and a third of that amount spent by January 1.

By the first of next year about $1,250,000,000 of Federal funds will be available to States and cities, Hunt said.

Many cities, it was pointed out, can and will secure funds at less than 4 per cent, the PWA rate, from other sources. Such cities probably will borrow $400,000,000 in time to spend it next year, Mr. Hunt predicted.

Delay in getting men to work on State and municipal projects was blamed largely by Mr. Hunt on requirements of State legislation which must be followed by the cities in order that their bonds may be marketable. Fulfillment of such legislation is usually a matter of several months.

Thousands Attend Last Rites For "Black Billy Sunday"

Crowds Halt Traffic, Jam Church, to Honor Dr. Willbanks.

From dawn to dusk, funeral services for the "Black Billy Sunday," the Rev. Dr. Alexander Willbanks, pastor of the Tenth Street Baptist Church, were held yesterday in the auditorium of the Vermont Avenue Baptist Church. More than a score of members of the Baptist ministers conference eulogized the minister.

After lying in state all night at the church where he pastored, Dr. Willbanks' body was removed to the larger auditorium at 7 o'clock yesterday morning. Crowds waited at this early hour, and long before 11 o'clock, the time set for the funeral, more than 2,500 had gained admission and another 1,000 had filed into a downstairs room. Still others crowded the streets and blocked traffic the entire day.

Amplifiers had been provided to carry messages to the crowds.

The funeral procession arrived at Lincoln Memorial Cemetery after dark. Hundreds of automobiles formed a huge circle and, in a blaze of light, the body was lowered into a grave beside that of his wife.

Dr. Willbanks gained national fame while official evangelist for the National Baptist Convention, a position which he occupied until his death Friday at his residence, 1204 Q street northwest, following a paralytic stroke.

Trade Methods To Be Analyzed

Swope Names Committee to Devise Curb on Sharp Practices.

A study of unfair trade practices and recommendations for their elimination will be made by a committee announced yesterday by Gerard Swope, chairman of the Business Advisory and Planning Council of the Commerce Department.

The committee, headed by Lincoln Filene, of Boston, chairman of William Filene Sons Co., will survey practices in both production and distribution.

"Business men," Filene said, "have an opportunity to begin a process of house cleaning which, over the years, will certainly make for more profitable business."

The committee will make use of data collected in NRA code hearings and will cooperate with NRA code enforcement agencies.

Pilots Blamed In Air Crashes

51 Per Cent of Accidents Declared Due to Fliers' Errors.

More than half of the airplane accidents in miscellaneous flying service in the United States are attributable to the pilot, according to a report yesterday by the Commerce Department's Aeronautics Branch.

Classifying 765 accidents during the first half of 1933, the reports charge 51 per cent to errors of judgment, poor technique, carelessness, negligence, or disobedience of air rules.

Power plant failures accounted for 20 per cent of the accidents, and structural defects for 8 per cent. Faulty airport terrain and bad weather were charged with about equal numbers, 8 per cent each.

The 765 accidents involved 1,310 persons, of whom 959 suffered no injuries. Fatalities numbered 128, less than 10 per cent of the personnel involved.

Artificial Scarcity.

Prior to the collapse of 1929, the rapid pace of industrial mechanization and the increasing use of machinery on farms was viewed with complacent satisfaction by the majority of Americans. The steady rise in the volume of physical output per man, long in progress but greatly accelerated in the years following the war, was considered a matter for congratulation at home and envy abroad. Few questioned the benefits to the country resulting from the employment of inventive genius and organizing capacity to make possible the production of more wealth with a decreasing expenditure of labor.

Until recently we accepted as axiomatic the statements of those economists who pointed out that low unit labor costs combined with high wage payments assured a maximum degree of productive activity and an accompanying expansion of markets based upon the existence of a prosperous working class. A few years of depression have brought about a revolution of popular sentiment, however, and today we are preaching and practicing organization for the purpose of creating an artificial scarcity of goods.

Employers are as eager as ever to increase their profits; labor continues to demand high wages, representing an addition to real income; farmers vociferously urge the need of higher prices for their products and a larger share of the national income. Incredible as it would have seemed a few years ago, this country is endeavoring to satisfy all these class demands for more wealth by organizing on a Nation-wide scale to produce less. The high productivity of labor has become an argument in favor of radically reducing hours of work and cultivating leisure assiduously. The loss of profits has led to systematized efforts to recapture them by limiting the utilization of capital equipment and placing obstacles in the way of the introduction of labor-saving devices. Attempts to raise the prices of farm products and to increase the income of the farmer have taken the form of destruction of growing crops and withdrawal from cultivation of millions of acres of fertile land. In short, the United States is trying to restore the prosperity and the high living standards of a period of abundance based on low unit labor costs by raising those costs and creating shortages in industry and agriculture. There is a tendency to overlook the fact that, as business improves and buying demand expands, exaggerated ideas of the prevalence and extent of overproduction and excess productive capacity will be modified.

In the long run, a higher standard of living can never be achieved for an entire Nation by such means. It is as true today as it was before 1929 that the greatest benefits to the greatest number of people can be obtained only by trying to create the largest possible amount of wealth with the least expenditure of man power. Economic stagnation would be our fate if we undertook to effect long-time readjustments in our economic system by relying solely upon our inventive talents to make labor and capital less productive by imposing artificial restrictions upon their employment.

This does not mean, of course, that restrictive policies may not be necessary at times to correct maladjustments in particular industries resulting from misplaced investment of capital, changes in demand or other causes. But they should always be regarded as temporary emergency measures, designed to meet special and peculiar conditions, and not as permanent or continuing policies.

Off for Antarctica.

Admiral Richard E. Byrd is about to depart on his second expedition to the Antarctic continent. He possesses a complete equipment for exploration by sea, land and air. The Jacob Ruppert and the Bear are sturdy vessels, carrying large stores which will provide every comfort and convenience for the personnel of the party. Headquarters will be established at Little America, Admiral Byrd's first base. From this point airplane and sledge parties will explore the interior.

The question whether the Antarctic region is one continent or more can not be determined by a trip to the Pole, but must be determined by exploration of the territory beyond the Pole. This search will be made by Admiral Byrd by airplane. Sledge parties conveying scientific specialists will make surveys of the region between Little America and the Pole. It is hoped that valuable mineral deposits will be discovered.

Admiral Byrd expects to be established in Little America by Christmas. Radio reports of the experiences of the party will be sent back. Instead of facing a long period of complete isolation from the world, the party will be in touch with the homeland by radio, and any discoveries made will become known in this country immediately.

Lincoln Ellsworth will share with Admiral Byrd the undertaking of exploration in Antarctica. Ellsworth has a small but well-organized party, equipped with airplanes for long-distance reconnaissance. Before next summer the two American expeditions should give to the world much information concerning the lands surrounding the South Pole.

Civil Service Reemployment.

President Roosevelt's request that the emergency organizations created by the last Congress give preference to former civil service employes in choosing their personnel obviously has not been complied with by several of these agencies. A recent report showed that some of the new organizations have not asked for any help from the Civil Service Commission. Others have drawn part of their personnel from the civil service reemployment list. But the net result is disappointing to the Government workers who were discharged as a part of the economy program.

A petition by the Civil Service Reinstatement League calls attention to this lack of cooperation, and asks the President to issue an executive order to all Federal agencies, instructing them to give preference to civil service employes in good standing who have been separated from active service under the economy program.

A large portion of the jobs available in the emergency organizations already have been filled. But the question of recognizing ability and experience above political support ought to be decided, nevertheless. Even now definite instructions to the new Federal agencies to draw their personnel from the civil service reemployment list, so far as practicable, would have a salutary effect upon the morale of Government workers.

Fixing Oil Prices.

While the general code for the petroleum industry was adopted early in September and has resulted in improvement in conditions, particularly in the production end, the troublesome question of price fixing remained unsettled until this week, when Secretary Ickes, exercising his authority as oil administrator, announced a schedule of minimum rates to go into effect December 1.

The basic price centers about a minimum of $1.11 per barrel at the well for 36 gravity crude, which is now quoted in Oklahoma at approximately $1 a barrel. Gasoline at the refinery, at recent prices, has varied between 4 and 5 cents a gallon. The new price for oil will add at least 1 cent a gallon to gasoline. The proposed regulations, naturally, establish differentials for the various grades of crude, ranging as high as $2.15 per barrel for Pennsylvania Eureka, and $2.50 in the Bradford-Alleghany district.

Price fixing was an admitted principle in the oil code and by many was expected to be put into effect immediately. This was not done, but Secretary Ickes says that "competitive abuses have created an emergency" which makes such action necessary. Objections to the price schedule may be filed with the petroleum advisory board, and rates are subject to change before the date they become effective. In addition to oil and gasoline, minimum prices are established for kerosene, engine distillate, fuel oil and bunker fuel.

The oil industry itself is sharply divided on the question of price fixing, and it is evident that the campaign for and against the innovation will be waged anew over the proposed rates.

Russia's Unemployed.

Throughout the depression it has been the boast of the Soviet that in Russia there was no unemployment. But this is now a thing of the past. Since midsummer there has been a systematic dismissal of what is termed "surplus labor."

Though a beginning was reported early in the year, when special powers were granted to dismiss workers, it was not until August that the severity of the blow was felt. Within three days, responsible correspondents declare, more than one-fourth of the total number of persons employed in the offices of 77 trusts were dismissed, and the entire structure of the trusts reorganized.

The problem created by the great numbers of idle thus created has been met by the passport and depopulation decrees, which divide the Soviet Union into first and second-class zones. When a person becomes unemployed he forfeits his food cards and the right to dwell in any first-class area. If dismissed through no fault of his own he may take fifteen days before moving out. Though he and his dependents are free to move about in the second-class zone, he must report all changes of address to the police. He can not reenter the restricted municipal areas until in some way he is able to qualify himself for first-class citizenship.

Nothing of the fate of the unemployed is permitted to be published in Russia, but distressing reports frequently leak through from the banished. Those of the unemployed who return to their native villages seldom are welcome, since the collectivization scheme allows even less opportunity for their absorption than under the old method. Word comes from territory bordering Russia indicating that many of the persons dismissed from offices and factories and banished from the cities, wandering about with their dependents in search of a permanent abode, have perished from privation.

Illinois Penal Reform.

Lack of funds for the construction of additional prisons for Illinois convicts has resulted in the adoption of revolutionary plans for handling prisoners. The new system, proposed by Rodney H. Brandon, director of the State Department of Public Welfare, is the outcome of years of agitation by medical, educational and welfare groups for a prison program in keeping with the recommendations of modern scientists in the treatment and control of crime.

Instead of crowding prisoners together indiscriminately, as has been done, the new plan empowers the welfare department to transfer prisoners from one prison to another. A psychiatric division is set up to consider the cases of insane and feebleminded inmates. Joliet is to be used for recidivists who are not insane, Pontiac will house juveniles of normal mind and Menard will care for feeble-minded and insane criminals. Women prisoners have been removed from Joliet to the State reformatory for women.

The Illinois parole act has been amended so that no prisoner will be eligible for conditional freedom unless the parole board has first obtained a report from the State criminologist certifying that the convict is mentally fit for life outside an institution.

The reform program is expected to accomplish much in allaying unrest within prison walls and at the same time give the public a sense of security by providing for the safe confinement of mentally deficient delinquents. The segregation of youthful first offenders from the hardened criminal has long been recognized as a necessary step, and the experts believe that this reform finally adopted in Illinois will be instrumental in reducing the number of permanently wrecked lives.

Stratosphere Dreams.

The sensational flights of the Belgian scientist, Prof. Auguste Piccard, to the vast upper area beyond the region of breathable air already are leading to many predictions quite outside the realm of scientific research which prompted the professor's ascents. In several countries airplanes intended for flight in the stratosphere are being constructed, with the idea that in the rarefied atmosphere great speed can be attained.

Long-range-gun experts and the inventors of rockets carrying successive charges to accelerate their speed in flight likewise foresee the projection of their missiles into the upper strata for the purpose of increasing the range of projectiles. The Big Bertha which bombarded Paris had a range of more than 40 miles, but today the experts begin to talk of a range of 150 miles or more.

Prof. Piccard himself has been lured into speculating upon some of the more material features of stratosphere travel. He predicts that flight in the upper air will be an actual accomplishment before long. Indeed, he says that unfavorable financial conditions alone prevented the first flights being made this summer. All that is necessary, he contends, is that a high-powered, multi-motored plane be built of light metal that can be made air-tight and supplied with oxygen tanks.

The professor says the limit of the speed of the stratoplane depends on the power it can develop. He believes that 900 miles an hour is possible, though he thinks 600 miles probably will be the maximum attained for some years to come. This rate of travel would reduce to five hours the flight from New York to Paris. When Prof. Piccard talks of fast air travel, however, he discards the airplane for the rocket, which, he says, Europe takes much more seriously than America. When the professor closes his eyes and envisions rocket trams through the stratosphere he sees a passenger 50 years hence whizzing through space at 200 miles a minute.

The indications are that the German "election" will result in putting a man at the head of the government whose name begins with H.

The verdict of $100,000 against Henry Ford may remind several persons of dimes they lost through cracks in the sidewalk.

Spain Wants Fish Control.

From the London Independent.

"Madrid agoust 1933

"Since a long time, the fishers of Spain, feel a deep uneasiness and a deep fear before the dissapear or considerable decrease in our littoral waters of especies of fich, so abundant time ago.

"They imput this alarmant drain off to the invasion, which is larger each day of drau fishing art all aver the seas; sistem this, which wile finish very soon, annihilating the immenses riches treasured by the sea, which constitute the life of thousands and thousands of hounorables fishers. Yt comes to confirm the fisher's categoric advise, the case, that the scarce of fish in our coast, oblige the shipes to extend each day their fishing zone, working on those seas and in those depeths explorated by their nets. And they performance did not be concreted to the littoral water of each county, but looking news and productive places, they have invade the Grand Sole seas of Insland, Scotland, and the west of Africa, etc. etc.

"That uneasiness and fear, mooved to the fishers of Spain to celebrate a meeting in which, after protestig of such mauner of fishing, have accordig to study the means, to examine urgently to decrease the fishing draw art, limiting the wates for this ways of fishing, and to respect the forbid times, etc. etc.

"But, as out of littoral wates, fishing is free, only by agrees will be possible to findoret a favourable and benefit solution for the fishers of the littoral and consumers of all countries.

"So is a wish of Spanish fishers, to be in contact with their brathers of the other countries, and all to gether to celebrate a great international congres, to acrord and establish the model to follon to impose and impede, quik, and energitly the destruction and drain off of fishing zones, and perhaps of all the seas.

"The fishers of Spain, think that, only so, united all the fishers, can put a dam to the catastroph that, since some time ago is besiggen aver those men who in cruel fight with the sea, get such valued gain.

"With a great interest, we await your news on this question, and at the same time we beg the favour to make us know your thots on this trascedental problem.—Respectfully yours, Por la Agrupacion Espanola para el desarrollo de la pesca y su reglamentacion internacional.

HITLER EXPLAINS.

Dot league it don't Run dings my way,
Und so we quit—
We vill not play.

Der war—ach, Gott—
On us they pin;
We're innocent—
We got pooshed in!

We hate a fight,
Und hate a fuss;
Peace, perfect peace,
Comes first mitt us!

We hate all force,
Und hate all might—
We never do
What is not right.

For justice we
Are most concerned—
All dings we don't

Disarmament
We won't discuss;
It's good for France—
But not for us.

Dot league you see,
Is too inept;
It thinks a peace
Pledge should be kept.

It thinks a pact
We signed should not
Be lightly thrown Away. Ach, Gott!

Dot league we quit
For it can't see
Der world is out
Of step with me!

QUICK, BISMARCK! THE SPIRITS OF AMMONIA!

"When right yields to might a lasting uncertainty will derange all normal functions of life."—Herr Hitler.

Mr. Hitler continues the interesting cry that Germany was entirely guiltless of the World War and wanted no part of it. Well, this supports the general impression that when she went into it she did so thinking she was going to a picnic.

WE CHEER OUR LOSS.

How can I cry lament for summer's passing,
Or mourn the vanished splendor of the lea?
The saddest thought of wintry cohorts massing
Shall wring no wail in protest out of me.

Let others weep, my thinking cap would capture
Such gladsome words as never yet were said,
Since (heart, be temperate with so much rapture)
My fever's parent, goldenrod, is dead.

THE "INFORMATOR."

Strangers in our cities who have spent footless hours wandering about in search of destinations to which they have been misdirected, will be intrigued by the "informator," a device which has just gone into action in Berlin.

The informator is a coin-operated machine, says the Detroit News, with 180 buttons, each covering a point of information commonly asked for by the visitor. If one wishes to know the way to a park, a theater, a department store, a police station, or any point of popular interest, he inserts a small coin, pushes a button corresponding to his question and is provided a card with the directions asked, clearly printed upon it. This saves accosting the well disposed but sometimes inaccurate passerby. A few such machines about any downtown section might be the source of considerable profit.

Daily Talk About Books and Authors

Treasure Island.

I shall always be grateful to Robert Louis Stevenson for writing this book, because it cured me of a sharp attack of tonsillitis. I was feeling very ill indeed, with a high temperature and a splitting headache. I was reclining near a table on which fortunately rested this novel. If it had been on the other side of the room, I could not have got it. But it was within reach of my hand, and even as a drowning man clutches at a straw (though I have always thought straws must be very rare in deep water) I wearily took hold of this volume.

Soon I was out on the high seas. My fevered, parched and tortured throat filled with the strong, antiseptic salty breez. I breathed and inhaled deeply. I forgot my own troubles in following that one-legged murderer, Silver. Before I had finished the book, I was completely cured.

I will not guarantee a cure for all sufferers by this treatment; but a lieutenant in the U. S. Navy told me that while in the hospital, he was entirely cured of a severe attack of jaundice by reading Jane Austen's "Pride and Prejudice."

I offer these two cases for the benefit of those doctors who look at literature. Furthermore, there is no medicine more agreeable to take.

They Are Pious People If the Circus Gets No Crowd on Prayer Meeting Night

By Robert Quillen

The success of a play, a book, a magazine, a motion picture or a baking powder is conclusive proof that it pleases current public taste.

As this is true today, so it must always have been true, for human nature hasn't changed.

A study of court records in the time of Shakespeare provides evidence that the common people and their betters behaved and talked as the characters do in Shakespeare's plays.

Familiarity with Shakespeare's plays is now classed as culture. One who reads them for pleasure is called a "highbrow." They are taught in the schools. And it is conceded that one must be above the average to comprehend and appreciate the wit and wisdom and philosophy that make the plays immortal.

But the plays that win popular favor now are another kind. They are adjusted to the taste and mentality of the present generation. They reflect our times. They are what they are because we are what we are.

Do you realize what that signifies? It means that Shakespeare's plays, now called "highbrow," were adjusted to the minds and morals of their time. They were understood and appreciated by the common people who paid to see and hear them.

Consider another period. America's Emerson was the most popular writer of his time. His beautiful phrases and crystal-clear reasoning and wisdom-packed epigrams made him a universal favorite because the people of his day enjoyed such writing.

Now his essays are considered "highbrow." Henry Ford once confessed that he read them with a dictionary at his elbow. Most people think them too deep and read them as a duty or not at all.

We boast of our learning and feel superior to the old-fashioned people of other eras, but our level of intelligence is not above the plays and books that our favor makes successful.

The thing we pay for reflects our taste and character. And since the cinema provides our popular entertainment, you can judge our intelligence and morals by the kind of pictures we pay to see.

Press Comment

A City-County Government.

Louisville Courier-Journal.

An experimental consolidation of city and county is said to be in prospect at Durham, Durham County, N. C., where legislative authority has been granted and the necessary petitioners have signed up to call a special election on the consolidation. The situation is comparable to that of the average municipality. The city contains 77 per cent of the county's population and 83 per cent of the taxable wealth. The same persons were discovered to be supporting duplicate functions in two governments. Some estimates ran as high as $200,000 unnecessary expense.

The county-city government neither merges the city into the larger unit nor extends the corporate limits of the municipality to coincide with those of the State's subdivision; but a commission of seven is to preside over the dual organization, five from the city, two from the rural districts. Where possible, both administrative offices and functions have been consolidated, the police, for instance. In the matter of waterworks and fire protection, the city acts in a separate capacity, only the five city commissioners having a vote.

The country needs the trial of a radical experiment. There is no risk in it; no extra expense attaches to it, and the experimental government is susceptible of improvement.

Strife Must Be Checked.

Kansas City Times.

A clear demand of the recovery program, from its inception, has been a responsibility of organized industry. For both parties the right to organize and to exercise the privileges of it has been conceded. But abuse of that right, in either direction, must be denied.

That is the principle vigorously stressed by the recovery administrator, Gen. Johnson. It is adherence to such a reasonable and just principle that the public sentiment of America will insist upon. Gen. Johnson has had the courage to state the facts plainly. They were so stated in his address to the American Federation of Labor in Washington Tuesday night. They have been so stated in appeals to both labor and industry, appeals by the President as by the administrator and others in official position. Gen. Johnson tells labor that it can not afford to permit strife at a critical time, that labor as well as organized industry is on trial and that strikes are unnecessary under the recovery act.

An Enviable Record.

Philadelphia Evening Bulletin.

Science says the mocking bird can change its tune 87 times in 7 minutes. There are several birds in politics who will regard this record with envy.

Along the Potomac

With

Carlisle Bargeron

LADEES AND gentlemen: You are now entering Recovery Avenue of the NRA. Huddled in the room there to your right with frightened, cowered expressions and disheveled hair are business men who came for codes and have never been able to get out. Some of them, it is estimated, have been here for 25 years. They were found roaming around in the corridors and for years were permitted to go unmolested until it was thought better to put them in one room, where they could do no one any harm.

Bargeron.

In the two rooms before you, ladees and gentlemen, on either side of the corridor, are the newspaper reporters, the liberals on the right and the reactionarics or conservatives on the left.

• • • •

BACK in the days before the NRA when reporters were just reporters only one room was necessary for them. But when they divided into two camps, when they got to be economists, we had to separate them. Notice how they glare at each other. Most of them were young men when they came here. Look at the lines in their faces now.

There are times when we have to turn a hose on them, they make so much noise, shouting epithets at each other across the corridor. You will note that the steel bars prevent their getting at each other.

• • • •

HERE, though, people, is the most interesting department of the whole NRA. It is known as the correspondence department. Here every letter about the NRA is answered, except those, of course, which the officials themselves desire to answer. All the letters which come to the White House about the NRA are answered from this department.

The 25 men you see moving their jaws continuously up and down are not automatons, as you might suspect; they are human, men in the flesh. They are the dictators. They dictate to 60 stenographers, each dictator using up about two and a half stenographers a day.

• • • •

NEW deal efficiency has reached its highest point here. Formulas are prescribed for every letter. You can imagine that it would not be satisfactory to let each one of the 25 dictators dictate as he sees fit.

The two major formulas are those dealing with Henry Ford and with men writing Mr. Roosevelt to say they have heard a lot about the NRA, but the fact remains that they have not yet got a job.

The letters about Mr. Ford are almost evenly devided for and against him. Some of the writers want Gen. Johnson to go ahead and "crack down" on him or have the American people crack down on him, as he said.

• • • •

OTHERS are friendly to Mr. Ford, saying he has done much for the workingman, in wages, employment and in manufacturing automobiles which they can buy.

Regardless of how Gen. Johnson may feel toward him, and most likely he doesn't feel so kindly, a formula for replying to these letters has been worked out friendly to the manufacturer. It says in effect:

"So far as we know, Mr. Ford is complying with the NRA. It is up to him whether he displays the blue eagle or not."

That is the prescribed manner of dealing with Mr. Ford, ladees and gentlemen.

• • • •

TO those letters which complain to Mr. Roosevelt that the writer has not yet got a job, the reply is given:

"The President has asked us to answer your letter. We are very sorry that you have not yet got a job under the NRA. But we believe that you will note a change soon."

Let us move on down the corridor, ladees and gentlemen, there is still a lot to see.

THE FAMILY QUILT.

When a family preserves records of its history, it is generally done in the family Bible or album, says the Boston Post.

But a woman in Sussex, Wis., hit upon a strange family record. She made a quilt of transparent silk. Under the silk pieces she sewed old records, letters and family mementos.

The records can be read through the silk and are well preserved.

Just Folks.

By Edgar A. Guest.

The Poor Man.

"I am a poor man," said a friend to me.
"I have to work so hard to earn my bread."
But he had praised the blue sky overhead
And smiled my patch of zinnias to to see;
He was familiar with each vine and tree.
He quoted lines from poets he had read;
Knew Shelley, Browning and what Shakespeare said,
And cherished dreams of what his son would be.

He spoke of beauty in a tender voice.
He told me pretty memories of his wife;
How never once regretted she her choice,
And all she did to ease his path of life.
"Just poor of purse," said I, "but rich in mind

British Experts See Recovery Gaining Fast

Confidence Found Rising as Industries Hire Many Workers.

London, Oct. 17 (AP).—Experts are convinced that Great Britain steadily is regaining its financial and economic strength and that confidence slowly but surely is spreading to industry.

More insured workers are in employment today than when the country went off the gold standard more than two years ago. In fact, the number working at present is greater than at any time since June, 1930.

Production is increasing, railway traffic receipts are up and savings are improving.

Investments Increase.

New capital issues amounted to £71,500,000 (approximately $357,500,000 at par) in the period January-July, 1933, compared with £89,000,000 (approximately $445,000,000) for the whole of 1931.

United Kingdom industrial issues amounted to £45,000,000 (approximately $225,000,000) in the January-July period of this year, compared with only £33,000,000 (approximately $165,000,000) for the whole of 1931.

The budgetary position, now regarded as thoroughly sound, encourages the hope of a surplus and a reduction of taxation next April. Revenue shows an increase, although Chancellor of the Exchequer Neville Chamberlain reckoned on a decrease, and expenditure is being kept within the reduced estimates.

Trade Balance Better.

Tariffs are having the desired effect in reducing the adverse trade balance, the government believes.

The fact that the Bank of England has been able to increase its gold holding to more than £190,000,000 (approximately $950,000,000), while maintaining what in difficult circumstances is a comparatively stable exchange, is regarded here as a firm indication of the returning strength of Great Britain.

Vermont Elects Senator Jan. 16

Gibson Is in Field; Woman Seeks His Seat.

Montpelier, Vt., Oct. 17 (AP).—Gov. Stanley C. Wilson today announced a special election for January 16 to elect a successor to the late United States Senator Porter H. Dale. A special senatorial primary, he announced, would be held December 19.

To date, the only announced candidate is Representative Ernest W. Gibson.

Mrs. Blanche B. Bryant, of Springfield, member of the State Board of Education since 1928, said today she would resign to become a candidate for representative in Congress to succeed Representative Gibson.

Mrs. Bryant was delegate at large to the Republican national convention in 1924 and a member of the Vermont House in 1927.

Mae West in Bed To Write Movie

Plans to Spend 10 Days Dictating Dialogue.

Hollywood, Oct. 17 (AP).—Mae West went to bed today for 10 days, but her affliction is only story trouble.

She has the title for her next film, "It Ain't No Sin," but no story to go with it, and one is due in three weeks.

After 10 days she'll come out one day to pose for pictures and then go back to work for another 10 days.

$2,000,000 Suit Filed On Sewage Pump Plan

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP).—Briefs were filed today in a $2,000,000 damage suit, charging patent infringement against the Chicago sanitary district. The complainant is Activated Sludge, Inc., of Delaware.

On the outcome may depend, attorneys said, suits of similar nature against every municipality in the Nation using the Activated Sludge plan, which consists of pumping air into tanks of sewage. The air keeps alive bacteria, which purify the sewage.

Widow Charged With Killing Companion

Upper Sandusky, Ohio, Oct. 17 (AP).—A first-degree murder charge was filed here today against Mrs. E. A. Timmer, Ferndale, Mich., widow, in connection with the killing of R. V. Brown, former marshal of Powhatan Point, Ohio.

Isolation Becomes Glorious

The Arms Crisis Helps to Break Our Final Ties With Europe.

By William Harlan Hale.

When the late lamented Raymond Moley disappeared back into the limbo of Columbia University, there were many who thought that the intensity of our rush toward nationalism would abate. The emergence of Secretary Hull into clear light, after the clouds of battle had parted, made people think that perhaps we might again play some active international role.

But now such frail illusions have been exploded by the events of the last few days at Geneva. When suddenly the arms conference boiled over from the pot of mere disputation into the first-class foreign office crisis, we gave one quick jump and ran away as fast as we could. We ran to escape a scalding, and, in the person of Norman Davis, we are still running.

We avoided the scalding, but we had almost succeeded earlier in getting our fingers burnt. That implication seems to lie in the repeated State Department disavowals of any European interest, of which there are so many that one is tempted to say, "The lady doth protest too much, methinks."

Before the current crash, the administration had let it be known that it stood against any rearming on Germany's part. That puts us in the camp with France and England—while it did not mean, of course, that we were in accord with their particular desires, or with their plants of investigating the state of armament in Germany. But the feeling spread very quickly on both sides of the fence, that our backing had crystallized a sort of Franco-Anglo-American coalition.

The conclusion made was that Norman Davis, far from being the "strictly neutral observer" he is now claimed to be, was actually asserting our positive diplomatic interests across the sea. At any rate, a continental press that avidly awaited signs of American support, saw him in that light.

That Norman Davis had even begun to lead us into any actual commitments is untrue. But the impression was inescapable that we had a very definite interest in the prevention of Germany's military resurgence. For that reason the present anxiety of all Government officials to declare our absolute isolation from Europe does seem a bit overheated.

It would perhaps have been a little more fortunate to declare that our former diplomacy had had the effect of involving us, but that from now on our policy in European arms questions would be one of complete removal. That side of the State Department's pronouncement which assures this future policy is being welcomed by the American people at large. Realizing bankruptcy of all recent conferences, conventions and "friendly agreements," our public turns away in disgust from the entire European scene.

Our commitment to economic nationalism was clearly implied in the NRA program; and now that we have seen the end of armament negotiations, we are clear on our commitment to political nationalism. The "isolation" about which we spoke so much during the period of conferences was really only a partial, beclouded one; but our nationalism from now on is complete, and the American people seem intent on making it a "glorious" one.

Only let us not regret and repudiate our adventures into active internationalism and concern with European problems. For, despite our repeated denials, we did venture a considerable distance into those matters. That we did so was in accord with the most enlightened spirit of the "reconstruction era." That all these attempts have now come to naught, lies not in our mistakes, but in the tragic development of our time.

4 Nazi Chiefs In Fire Inquiry

Will Be Asked What They Did on Night of Reichstag Blaze.

Berlin, Oct. 17 (AP).—A dramatic development in the Reichstag incendiarism trial came today with announcement that four high Hitler leaders would be called to tell of their activities on the night of the blaze.

They are Wilhelm Goering, premier of Prussia, and Propaganda Minister Goebbels, who are accused in the "brown book" of being the "brains" behind the fire; Count Wolf Hendrich von Helldorf and Edmund Heines.

Prosecutor Werner proposed that they be called to "answer the monstrous allegations put forth in the brown book," a volume published by a commission headed by Lord Marley, which purports to give cases of Nazi mistreatment.

The prosecutor read from the "brown book" that Heines and Von Helldorf led Nazi troopers into the Reichstag with combustible materials, leaving Marinus van der Lubbe, a defendant who confessed starting the fire, to do the rest.

Magic Lighter Masquerades As Lipstick

No Liquid Can Drip From It to Spoil the Contents of a Handbag.

By Ruth Ann Davis.

Are you the sort of person who takes things apart to see what makes them go? If you are, you'll get a bang out of the Lektrolite, a magical new cigaret lighter that has no flame to singe your eyelashes and no gadgets to ruin your fingernails.

Here's the way you get a light: Remove the round top of a cleverly simulated lipstick, touch the lipstick affair to your cigaret, and inhale with long, slow puffs. Don't ask us what makes it work. We're worn to a frazzle from trying to find out. All we know is that it does work beautifully, has an urbane appearance, and is delightfully practical.

This ingenious and utterly winning trifle will not drip smelly fluid on your best hanky and other articles in your purse. To be sure, a few drops of fluid are required to keep it in smooth running order, but they are so completely absorbed by the wick that there is no danger of their running wild.

The glistening enameled surface of the Lektrolite is banded with shiny silver. No less attractive is the oblong fluid container, decorated with a sketch of a handsome young man-about-town. You may purchase the ducky set in red, blue, black or green, at an F street shop.

"Thirteen men on a dead man's chest" will hold no terrors for you if you bask in the soft glow of a lighthouse table lamp. Its rosy light, diffused from an old red ship's lantern through tiny windows, will rescue many a fireside mariner from eye-strain reefs. The copper base, lighthouse-shaped, is surmounted with a parchment shade, decorated with a gallant windjammer sailing the bounding main.

You'll have difficulty in suppressing a desire to spend the day powdering your nose before the dear little mirror with scalloped edges, in the lid of the box.

Lilacs, that look so real you can almost smell 'em, are painted on the box's top.

Box, pin cushion, mirror and lilacs may be had for $3.50.

If you're fed up with trying to appear nonchalant when a bridge guest knocks a glass from the table or spills ashes on your most luxurious rug, remember that space on the average bridge table is more limited than that in a Pullman dressing room. You can add immensely to the comfort of your guests and yourself if you lay in a supply of combination ash-trays and coasters. They will give the bridge shark sufficient room to execute a flourishing gesture when he makes a grand slam, without sweeping half the things off the table.

The same shop has an unusually large ash-tray which is quite the thing for the man who smokes cigars. It should silence forever his plaint about "those crazy little doodads that won't hold more than a thimbleful of ashes." He can have a miniature bonfire in this spacious, baked-enamel tray. Bold colors are spread over its service in an engaging peasant design.

Although a great many men won't admit it, they like to have their fortunes told as well as women do. It's practically impossible to drag them to afternoon tea for a bit of tea-leaf reading, but next time you have dinner out you might suggest that you stop by a Twelfth street tearoom. Here he may not only enjoy an excellently prepared man-sized meal for 50 or 75 cents, but he can have the reader tell him (and, of course, you'll be listening in) all about the blonde, the trip, the money which seems on the way, and the wish which is likely to come true. But you'll be surprised at the other things you might hear, for the tea reader is a very knowing interpreter of leaves.

It's funny how seemingly senseless slang expressions sweep the country. For the last year or so it has been quite au fait to say, when you've incurred someone's displeasure, that you're in the dog house. Personally, we can't see why perfectly nice human beings should ever be in such a place. Dog houses are for dogs or for cigarettes. Yes, we mean cigarettes.

If you can't quite picture the combination, hie yourself to a Thirteenth Street shop and gaze at a china cigarette box. It's a miniature dog house with Towser's head stuck saucily out the door. Four green triangular ash trays compose the roof. Remove the roof and you'll find ample space for your favorite brand.

The price is $1.

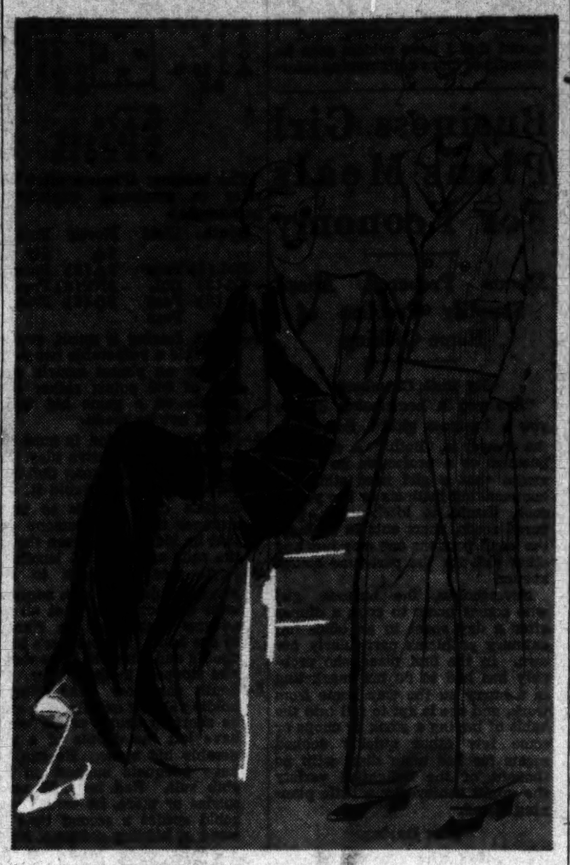
What's in Fashion?

New Lounging Costumes Ready for Rest Hours

Directed by Amos Parrish



Information as to where fashions of the type illustrated and their variations are available in Washington will be given by the Fashion Department, The Washington Post, on request.

Harry Lauder thinks—and many women agree with him—that "It's nice to get up in the morning, but it's nicer to stay in bed." And if you can't stay in bed, but have to get the husband (or yourself) off to work, and maybe the children off to school, it's nice to snatch a resting time later in the day.

New lounging costumes are certainly ready to do their part in making your resting time comfortable. And you can have a lot of fun assembling a resting wardrobe.

Tailored Outfits.

There are the tailored robes and pajamas, for instance, which make just the right background for your boyish moods.

The college girl likes these in flannel. But velveteen gives a more "at home" look and jersey is cozily comfortable. And even more luxurious materials, such as crepe and satin, go into some of these tailored costumes.

They're not quite so mannish as they used to be. They're apt to have shoulder details as dresses do. And the new Chinese dress fashions appear in tailored lounging wear in the form of mandarin sleeves, one-sided closings and stand-up collars.

"Mae West" Negligees.

For your more feminine moods there are negligees and pajamas cut on flowing lines, with a real Mae West opulence, made of velvet, satin, crepe, brocade or lame and trimmed with rich lace.

The costume sketched at the left is neither really tailored nor entirely feminine, but it has a formal look which can go along to the dinner table with you if you wish.

Make the Pajamas.

The other sketch shows a knitted pajamas suit which you can make yourself. Hand-knit pajamas are a new idea but an easy one, for they are done in simple stockinette stitch (knit one row, purl one row, alternately).

If you'd like to make it (and there's plenty of time before Christmas) we'll be glad to send you the directions.

Amos Parrish,
The Washington Post New York Fashion Bureau,
500 Fifth avenue, New York.

I inclose stamped, self-addressed return envelope and 3 cents in loose stamps. Please send your leaflet, "Directions for Making Knitted Pajamas.'

New Cosmetics Make Women Seem Fragile

Cosmetologists in Session Decree Beauty Must Copy Victorian.

The idea behind make-up this fall seems to be to copy the delicate fragile beauty of women of the Victorian era, while retaining the vitality of 1933.

Hairdressers and cosmetologists, meeting in annual session recently, concurred on 13 points in deciding on a style-in-beauty program for the coming season.

The first point is cited above. The second is that rouge, lipstick and powder will be lighter and brighter in color.

Others include a decision to bring back beauty patches, worn to accent the most attractive feature, but generally placed near the eye, when the hat is small, and close to the mouth when the chapeau is large.

Combs, both the fancy, jeweled kind and the plain school-girl tortoise shell variety, are back. So are barettes, plain and jeweled.

Children will again wear hair ribbons. So will their mothers, if they are sufficiently young and chic. Illustrative of the hair-ribbon vogue for adults is a suggestion for wearing a white ribbon bow at the temple to complete an evening costume of severe white in heavy plain material.

Finger nails will continue to be brilliantly tinted, the newest departure being application of polish to cover the entire nail, leaving no white tip and sometimes no white moon at the base of the nail.

The new hair cut is longer, 2 inches below the ear lobe. However, the length is not to be apparent. It is to permit of more elaborate and feminine arrangement, with the hair curled up in back, and held in place with comb or barette.

False hair will be used, in braids as well as curls.

The Family Marketer

Spaghetti Served Italian Style Makes Cheap and Nourishing Dish.

Spaghetti prepared in the Italian way is cheap and nourishing. An Italian in a Northeast market sells it for 10 cents a pound. You can buy a can of tomato paste for sauce for 6 cents. If you like spaghetti extra fancy he will sell you Parmesan cheese to be sprinkled on top, one-quarter pound for 10 cents.

This same Italian specializes in olive oil and vegetable cooking oils. This week he offers a gallon of cooking oil for 85 cents. This is a bargain, as the oil will keep and since it is something that every housewife uses, a large supply is less expensive than many purchases in small quantities. A gallon of olive oil from the "old country," is $2.00; a quart, 65 cents.

Use "Chuck" for Meat Balls.

In buying beef for today's meat balls, here's a hint. You can get a pound of "chuck" for 15 cents. Select a piece with little fat and have the butcher grind it for you. You can buy hamburger for 12½ cents a pound, but the chuck beef is better meat. The extra few cents means higher quality food on your table. Brisket beef for pot roasts is 7½ cents a pound.

The rows of fresh vegetables are quite a sight! Lovely clear colors, bright green kale at 5 cents a pound; golden carrots, 2 bunches for 15 cents; crisp celery, 2 stalks for 15 cents, and a bunch of dainty hearts for the same price. Peas that are fat and fresh are only 10 cents a pound.

Did someone say that corn was destroyed by the storm? Anyway, some of it was rescued, and it lies in a market stall looking as if it had suffered no damage, waiting for you to buy 6 ears for 20 cents.

Oranges are Recommended.

The marketer came back to town and had orangeade for lunch. Perhaps her appetite was whetted by the piles of delectable oranges she had seen selling for 15 and 25 cents a dozen. Because of their high food value, oranges should occupy a large place in the larder. They are good for breakfast, luncheon, dinner—and tea. Try a slice in your tea instead of lemon for a change.

For dinner tonight, here is a recipe for Baked Pears.

Cut four pears in half, lengthwise. Remove core. Place in baking dish and sprinkle with a few drops of lemon juice and 1 teaspoon of brown sugar. Bake 10 to 12 minutes in a moderate oven about 320 degrees Fahrenheit. Serve with cream.

Bay State Congress Woman Most Tireless Worker on Hill

Harris & Ewing.

EDITH NOURSE ROGERS.

"The busiest woman on Capitol Hill" is the name bestowed on "The Lady from Massachusetts," Representative Edith Nourse Rogers when she is in Washington on duty.

Those who wish to spend the day with her must get up with the lark and should be fortified by two or three days' rest beforehand. For the pretty little representative from Massachusetts works from sun to sun and, like the old-fashioned women of the proverb, her working hours are never done. As soon as she finishes her duties at the Capitol she enters into a schedule of dinners and business meetings of organizations and forum banquets. She wants to be in touch with what is going on in the world and refuses to be a member of Congress with a horizon only about Capitol Hill.

Up and About Early.

One who had the fortune to be invited to spend the day with Representative Rogers recently picked her up in the wee small hours of the morning after she had had her breakfast long before the army of Government clerks and officials of Washington had turned over for their second nap.

There she was ready to start out in the crisp morning air, well-groomed and as eager for the day as a school girl, clad in her smart tailored suit and soft silk blouse and becoming little hat with a drooping brim which waved rebelliously. With the little catch in her voice and a merry little smile which characterizes the lady from Massachusetts, Mrs. Rogers signified her intention of having quite a day.

Spurns Conveyances.

Automobiles, street cars and buses are regarded by this indefatigable worker as something to use only on inclement days. She walks from her home in the northwest section of the city to her office on Capitol Hill and she does not take a direct route either; far from it.

The well and sensibly shod feet of this representative took her to many places she had to visit to attend to business and then, when the departments opened, to the Government departments to attend to constituents' business personally and to have personal interviews on legislative matters with those who knew most about them. She is a frequent visitor at the Veterans' Bureau, the Treasury and the Department of Commerce.

Then she strides out for the House Office Building. Mrs. Rogers' secretaries and clerks always are early in their places. They have piles of papers to be attended to piled high on her neat mahogany desk in the sunny office made attractive with pictures of important people and scenes of her district in Massachusetts.

There is nothing of the rubber stamp congressman's office in this cheerful suite of rooms. Mrs. Rogers reads and signs all her letters and dictates many of them. She knows just how and why every piece of mail is sent out of her office. Representative Rogers' telephone is one of the busiest at the Capitol, but she is eager to talk to every one who has legitimate business with her and few are turned away if they ask to speak to her personally.

Delegations Get to Her.

Delegations from her district and State are received cordially with much interest in what they are learning on their trip to Washington. Visitors with grievances and causes, of course, come to the door very often. They are given some of the precious time if it is possible. The people from her district and the American people in general are the important factors in the day of this lawmaker and she has as near to an open door in her office as it is possible to have and yet dispatch the urgent business which must be attended to.

Meetings and conferences that take place before the Speaker's gavel summons the members to the floor of the House are considered primary duties by Mrs. Rogers when Congress is in session. She is a committee member who knows what is going on in her committees. Sometimes she finds it necessary to attend meetings and conferences of committees of which she is not a member, but in the discussion and findings are matters of interest to her constituency. She seldom stops for the elevators, but trips about down the long corridors and up and down stairs from one office building to another. When she gets ready to go to the Capitol from the House office building she does not use the subway, but, no matter the weather, walks across the Capitol parks and plaza to the House wing.

Seldom Misses Roll Call.

Mrs. Rogers is the type of member who believes that while Congress is in session it is her place to be present and voting. She seldom misses a roll call. Her arms are always full of papers and letters when she arrives and she spends much time signing letters while she listens to the questions before the House. Mrs. Rogers always takes off her hat and very often wears a black silk smock over her dress.

She usually arrives at the House a little ahead of time and moves about among other members, talking about this bill or that or exchanging a story or two with other members and has even been heard talking about clothes and housekeeping with other women members. Mrs. Rogers has a favorite seat, where she can see friends and constituents in the gallery, although in this day and age no representative has a seat he can really call his own. She really listens to debates and puts in her word of objection

Always on the Go.

The business on the floor is not the only thing to engage her attention, for pages rush to her with messages, with cards of callers on business or just folks from back home. When she can, she sees these back home folk who hunt her to the Capitol, sitting with them in the galleries, but listening to every word that goes on on the floor and hurriedly excusing herself if she thinks she should be back where she can speak or vote.

Luncheon in the representative's dining room always is something of a gay rendezvous for the members of the House and their friends. Mrs. Rogers usually has a party at her table, unless she has just a few constituents or other members of Congress with whom she wishes to discuss important questions.

Her long residence in Washington, as the wife of Representative John Jacob Rogers, of Massachusetts, gave Mrs. Rogers a wide personal acquaintance before she came to Congress. She is on "first name" terms with many other members of Congress and important people who come and go in the National Capital. In the days when she was the wife of a representative, the Rogers home was noted for its hospitality and social importance.

Always Works Late.

When Congress adjourns, Mrs. Rogers hurries back to her office to work until 6 or 6:30 p. m., and occasionally later. If she has time she walks home.

Mrs. Rogers is the only woman member of Congress who has sponsored and engineered through the labyrinth of committees and Congress two major pieces of legislation, both of them relating to the hospitalization of World War veterans. She has been a real friend of the Government clerks in Washington as a member of the Civil Service Committee, and always is a keen advocate of any National defense measures.

She often is spoken of as the "Angel of Walter Reed," as she has been the champion of the veterans and a real worker of the Gray Ladies Corps there since the days of the World War.

Her interest in aviation and the development of the merchant marine are other patriotic matters in which she is enthusiastic. Whenever possible, Mrs. Rogers flies and always uses an airplane on her annual visits to the military training camps in her area. In order to encourage the people of her district to have pride in their products, she gives medals for excellence in workmanship.

When she engages in a campaign for reelection, Mrs. Rogers makes a house-to-house canvass.

Mouse, Cat, Dog, Burn House.

Hazel Par, Mich.—A mouse, a cat and a dog teamed up to destroy the house of Charles Gunisch.

The mouse, chewing on some matches, set the box afire. The cat chased the mouse. The dog chased the cat and in the commotion a can of kerosene was overturned.

The mouse, cat and dog were burned along with the house.

Child's Footwear Deserves Thought

Judicious Selection and Care Lessens Cost.

Footwear is usually a big item in school children's clothing expense. Judicious selection of footwear, followed by proper care of the articles, will afford great economy, however. Moccasin-toe oxfords, in soft leather, are the most healthful type of shoe for growing feet. The purchase price may be higher than for some others, but a good pair will outwear several cheap, stiff pairs, and at the same time allow proper foot development.

Train your child to keep his shoes clean, and to wear galoshes or rubbers as the weather demands. Snow and rain lessen the service from any shoe. Repairs should be made as soon as needed, and rough places that make holes in hosiery should be erased.

Republican Women Receive Informally

Mrs. Blogett Is Hostess for Today's "At Home."

The League of Republican Women will hold an informal "at home" in their headquarters at Sixteenth street and Scott Circle this afternoon, from 4:30 to 6 o'clock.

Mrs. Delos Blodgett will be hostess, and will be assisted in receiving by Mrs. P. M. Bailey, Mrs. Newcomb C. Barney, Miss Francis Battelle, Mrs. Charles Bittenger, Mrs. F. G. Blasdel, Miss Eleanor Burns, and Mrs. Edwin S. Bettleheim.

'Social Corner' Adds Interest to Kitchen

Gives Homemaker Chance for Rest, Recreation.

The well-planned kitchen, for the woman who does her own work, should include a "social corner." Space should be made for a comfortable chair and a small table or shelf for mending basket or books.

Here the homemaker can drop down for an occasional rest while keeping an eye on food that is cooking; she can pick up mending or sewing, or make entries in the household accounts.

Such a center affords a convenient place for children to study or play, and will be appreciated by the neighbor who runs in for a short morning visit.

Self-Reproach.

By Katherine W. Smith.

Come what may, today, tomorrow
Tears with laughter, sun with sorrow—
You will find me blindly crawling
Where there is no song recalling

All the things that would remind me
That I let my wisdom bind me
Once. Although I should be wiser,
Why am I my own despiser.

All that's feminine and gracious and charming is summed up in Borgia, our new tea-time negligee. Cut on flowing lines and concerned with soft draping, it is most successfully regal in velvet. Note the hand-shirred cuffs on full sleeves, faintly suggesting a luxurious court tunic. (And this is our secret—we discovered it looked quite formal and dinner-gownish worn backwards—so sketched it that way.) In petunia, portrait-green and black.

CLASSIFIED COLUMNS

No End of Books

Books by Mrs. Roosevelt, Jules Jusserand, Mrs. Morrow and Willis J. Abbott Show Decided Swing Toward Washington in Publishers' Lists.

This fall an unusual number of books are of especial interest to Washingtonians. One is Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt's volume "It's Up to the Women," promised by Stokes for November 2. Mrs. Roosevelt has written the 40,000 words without collaboration. She tells women how they may help in the recovery movement. She gives her opinions of the income problem, children, jobs, recreation, marriage, divorce and women in public life, and includes a chapter of economy recipes.

Then there are the posthumous memoris of Jules Jusserand, for many years the French Ambassador here, dean of the Diplomatic Corps and close friend of Theodore Roosevelt. Houghton Mifflin will publish "The Reminiscences of Jules Jusserand" this month.

Elizabeth Morrow, widow of the late Dwight W. Morrow, has written a book for children entitled "Beast, Bird and Fish," soon to appear.

Alice Roosevelt Longworth's "Crowded Hours" and Mark Sullivan's "Over Here," fifth volume of "Our Times," have already been mentioned in this column. Altogether, the center of gravity of the season's books seems to have made a decided shift toward Washington.

Knopf will publish on October 27 a book of essays by Thomas Mann, "Past Masters." Nietzsche, Wagner, Freud, Tolstoy and Ibsen are subjects of his study, and certain of the essays deal with the Nazis, from whom Herr Mann is now in exile.

The Times, only New York paper to give really favorable notice to Hitler's "My Battle" (reviewed by James W. Gerard, wartime ambassador to Germany, in last Sunday's issue) was likewise the only Sunday paper to request that Houghton Mifflin leave out all mention of "My Battle" in their full-page advertisement.

Peter B. Kyne's Latest.

As long ago as last January it was said, in the various trade papers published for the Writers Guild, that there was no longer a market for depression stories. This may be true for the general run of authors, but when Peter B. Kyne puts pen to paper you get a real story nevertheless.

The tale opens in New York City, where we find Todhunter Blain, former security salesman, and Carol Banfield, spinster, both unemployed and both hungry, stopping at a fashionable hotel.

Through the sale of Tod's overcoat they are able to eat a meal and thus see the world in a different light. A telephone call to a man in California brings to each $250. It is then that a company of two is formed, said company to exist until each is on his or her feet again.

A trip to California in a second-hand car is the next move of the two comrades, who wish to be near this remarkable man who would send money to strangers. They also plan to try their luck at placer mining. Here they join forces with Uncle Henry Todd, "of Everywhere and headed Nowhere," and here also they are quite helpful to their benefactor when he is in need of help.

The story is full of romance and action in Mr. Kyne's usual vein.

W. FREEMAN SPENNY.

Softening.

A novel, "The Soft Spot," by A. S. M. Hutchinson; Little Brown, $2.50.

There is no doubt at all that many, many people will enjoy this book. They have always liked Mr. Hutchinson; he has been on the best-seller lists time and again. In "The Soft Spot," they will find a very great deal of what they have liked—a story swift enough to make them wonder what on earth will happen next, a set of obvious and most admirable characters, a glorious moral.

But if it is the business of the reviewer to point out and help to sell good books, it is surely the purpose of the author to write them. And, I can not, by any coaxing of my faculties, agree that Mr. Hutchinson has done that. The reader who feels in his bones that he will like "The Soft Spot," had best stop right here, for in support of my position I am going to narrate something of the plot—and there is no need of spoiling that, at least, for him.

It is the thorough softening of Mr. Hutchinson which I object to, a softening of method, of plot, of character-painting, of style. He is representative of a school of novelists who possess a single merit—they seize in their stories upon one simple, banal idea, then cling to it, grind it in, pound it deep, and end up by working it for far more than it is worth. To be sure, we remember their stories, as we remember the Jersey flats outside New York. But after reading them the taste left in the mouth is bad. All other powers of the novelist, needless to say, have become enfeebled.

"The Soft Spot," from title on, is the record of Stephen Wain. He had no backbone, he always took the easiest path. For sheer continuous pusillanimity and, yes, for sheer luck, he is pretty nearly unequaled.

Let me give examples. Stephen, working as an architect, very innocently accepts the bribe of a gold fountain pen. Things are just growing bad for him when—what? The briber drops dead of heart failure!

Stephen's secretary, a yellow-faced villain named Isthmus, with "fangs between which saliva threaded," is about to blackmail Stephen over a complicated incident and bring a house of cards crashing down when—you will never believe it—Isthmus is smashed up by an accident in the street!

Having taken some pains to show us what a thoroughly incompetent mollycoddle Stephen is, Mr. Hutchinson has him manage a batch of chain stores, a string of newspapers and an automobile works, all of which prosper as only a light novelist can make such enterprises prosper.

Stephen's daughter Celia falls in love with a young man, who turns out to be the fourteenth Sir Nigel Fearless, moral heir of Stephen's own house.

True, he wants to beguile the reader for an evening; he wants to interest us by crowding event on event; I hope I am not too forward in assuming, of course, that Mr. Hutchison is "writing for money." But pot-boiler or not, the light novel can still be written with honesty and flare by the right man. Startling turns of plot do not alone force a writer to be slushy. The romances of John Buchan are evidence that, accepting the terms of the plot, there is left quite enough room for good meat, good solid writing.

No, the deaths and narrow squeaks of Mr. Hutchinson merely take on the maudlin effect cast by every other element. Of style—repeat the flavor of this sentence for 90,000 words (he is describing the Peruvian jungle): "That mistiness that clouds the glass is a miasmic haze, a noxious exhalation out of death whose breath itself is death, which hangs here all about." Of method—the "glass" just mentioned is a "necromancer's crystal" which he lugs onto the stage whenever he wants to introduce a new scene or set of characters. Of taste—some of the narrative is purportedly taken from a script written by Celia; in an author's note Mr. Hutchinson begs the reader to excuse its "ingenuousness" and "seeming rhetoric" since it is by a young girl. One page of it and the reader finds it indistinguishable from Mr. Hutchinson's own best passages.

You may say that this is only a pastime-novel, that I go blunderbussing after frogs. But "The Soft Spot" has been described, I believe, as "one of the most important books of the year." If that be so, by the same token every issue of "True Romance" should be met with fanfare and public pride.

THEODORE HALL.

Dark Warm Grays Rival New Colors

Honey and Bronzine Are Latest Tints.

Color resumes its rightful place in the scheme of wardrobe planning for cool, snappy days. The flaming red costume that would have caused a whole series of sun strokes if worn in July may be donned in October with impunity.

For those luscious creatures who prefer something less forthright than red, there are many grays. They are a bit darker than the grays that made their debut last spring. One called smoke gray suggests gypsy camp fires and stars twinkling above slim birch trees.

As for eel gray, whoever thought up such an unappealing name for so delightful a color should not be allowed to wear it. That ought to be real punishment.

Evening and afternoon gowns, as usual, exemplify the most exotic tones in the color scale. Honey color, when worn by a blonde with just the right shade of hair, transforms a mere woman into an angelic vision. Then there is bronzine—a hot, tropical green with an undertone of dull gold. Brave indeed is the one who ventures to deck herself in a gown of this tone. But a real beauty can manage to get away with it. Or if she prefers not to try, she will choose instead fuchsia, wild blackberry, sapphire, sea green, nasturtium and dull gold.

Judge Assesses "Venus."

Chicago.—Elinor Benninger, who poses as "Venus" at the Century of Progress, was fined $25 and costs by Municipal Judge Ervin J. Hasten, who said:

"Chicago is not yet ready for open nudity on the stage. When we get to that point you will see an unprecedented period of moral degeneration, and I do not propose to encourage such a thing."

Mrs. Baylor Advises Women On Adoptions

Child's Background Must Be Studied, to Avoid Grief, Says Social Worker.

"Most of us have no idea how hard it is for a person to go to a social agency and tell his story," Mrs. Edith M. H. Baylor said, Monday, at the opening session of a two days' institute on foster home care, being held at the Y. W. C. A., Seventeenth and K streets northwest.

"People have reached a serious crisis in their lives when they decide, for one reason or another, to place their children in the hands of a social worker or in a foster home," continued Mrs. Baylor. She is director of training at the Boston Children's Aid Society and a member of the faculty of the Simmons School of Social Work in Boston.

"Parents are under a terrific emotional strain at such times. Only a wise, understanding and clear thinking social worker can relieve this strain. Her touch must be as sure as a surgeon's."

The child's background must be studied if the right foster home is to be found for him, Mrs. Baylor believes. She urged that relatives, in addition to the mother, should be interviewed, as the latter is usually emotionally overwrought at the thought of giving up her child.

"We believe foundlings should not be placed for adoption until they are several years of age. They should be under sympathetic observation in a foster home until that time, so that the adopting parents will have some idea of the child's possibilities," she continued. "I, personally, would not take a baby off a doorstep. Some people, however, prefer foundlings because their mothers do not cause trouble by trying to claim their children in later years."

Guard Against Bad Heritage.

"We assume tremendous responsibility to our relatives when we adopt a child and give it our family name. What if your foster son is sent to prison? He takes your name with him. To guard against that possibility as much as possible, I believe people who plan to take children into their homes and rear them as their own, should find out everything possible about them and the sort of family they come from."

Mrs. Baylor emphatically advocated that the child, when 3 or 4 years old, be told that he is adopted.

"Heart-breaking complications too often arise in later years when this is not done. Frequently the social worker comes in contact with a foster mother who wishes to have the child think he is her own. She may even want the world to think it is her own. The most effective way of persuading her to tell the youngster he is adopted is to recount the terrible circumstances that have arisen from just this condition. Every social worker knows an imposing list of these circumstances."

Discusses Illegitimate Child.

Asked by delegates if she thought it wise to talk over the future of the unmarried woman's child with relatives, Mrs. Baylor declared it the most satisfactory method providing the unmarried mother's consent can be obtained.

"In a few cases, where the woman is on the verge of becoming a mental case, I would recommend that her relatives be informed of her plight, even if she does not give consent. When possible, however, she should be led to face the situation squarely and be willing to receive help from relatives. I have found that, with mighty few exceptions, the unmarried mother's people are willing to aid her."

"Children of a feeble-minded mother may be placed in adoption satisfactorily if they themselves are normal," said Mrs. Baylor. It was suggested that adoption papers for this type of child should not be signed until the youngster is at least 3 years old, however.

Mrs. Bayler will address a luncheon meeting of the institute at the Y. W. C. A. today. Her subject will be "The Place of Foster Home Care in a Children's Program."

Sauce From Mushrooms.

In making sauce from fresh mushrooms, cut caps from stems, trim the stems, and chop into pieces. Cook 1 pound of mushrooms in 2 tablespoons of butter, in a covered pan, from 5 to 10 minutes, at moderate heat. Season with salt and pepper to taste, and serve.

Children's Friend

MRS. EDITH M. H. BAYLOR.

What Today Means

"Libra."

If October 18 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 3 to 5 p. m. and from 6 to 7:20 p. m. The danger periods are from 9 to 10:45 a. m. and from 12 noon to 1:20 p. m.

As a result of your own manipulations, arising from a desire to make a clean-up of some sort, you will probably create a series of complications from which you will not be able to extricate yourself without embarrassing both yourself and others. Take care. There is trouble in the offing, but it can be avoided; it's up to you.

The child born on this October 18 will probably be an aggressive little one, inclined to "put it over" on those of its own age. It will be more than a leader; it will command. Will make many friends, however, and will be popular at school, where its clever and original mind will be useful.

If October 18 is the date of your birth, it is likely that you will go through life quite indifferent to much that goes on about you. You will have few likes and few dislikes. This applies to the people you meet as well as to other matters that you will deal with. You will have one or two friends upon whom you will rely quite heavily and who will be very fond of you. You will make no impression at all on the majority of people you meet. When it comes to getting to work you will not be particular; one line of business will appeal to you as much as another as long as the work is not too hard nor the hours too long. You demand little from life and are willing to give little.

Born on October 18, if you enthuse about anything at all, it will most likely be about some outdoor activity, such as swimming or golf. You will put forth more exertion here than for anything else. Your emotional life will prove an uninteresting one; you will have few ups and downs. Nothing will surprise you and even the most shocking and tragic news will hardly serve to stir you up at all. You are not an unkind person, but you are not one to give much to charity, for the reason that you are quite unmoved by poverty, &c. You will no doubt marry somewhere along the way, quite simply and without fuss. You will not be madly in love with your mate, but will marry because most people do it. Time will not hang heavily on your hands for a few simple amusements will fill it for you; an occasional visit to the movies will satisfy you. You will enjoy cards and play many games.

Successful people born on October 18:

Charles Scribner, publisher.
Henry O. Havemeyer, merchant.
Thomas B. Reed, congressman and author.
Harvey W. Wiley, chemist.
Helen Hunt Jackson ("H. H."), author.
Allen B. Wilson, inventor.

Boy Violinist Gets a 'Break' Long Awaited

Max Kobre, 13, Scholarship Winner, Dreams of Future Fame.

"All you need is a break," believes 13-year-old Max Kobre winner of a three-year violin scholarship at the Peabody Conservatory of Music.

"Some day I want to become a great violinist, he says, "but unless I can be the protege of someone with influence, and get a chance to meet people, and play for them, I don't think I can get there.

"Of course, if I do manage to get a break like that, I've got to make the most of it; I want to mix with people and get a good education."

Young Max was the youngest of about 200 contestants for scholarships in the various branches of instruction at the Peabody Conservatory. He had to compete against 40-odd in the violin department alone.

Nervous? Not Max!

"I don't get nervous any more," he says. "I've played in lots of homes here in Washington and when you get used to the idea, you don't get nervous."

"I just went in and played. I was in the director's office nine minutes (I looked at my watch). Nobody said anything—I just played. Afterward, it was tense—everyone standing around, waiting to see who won. I was in the hall talking to another boy and tapping the floor with my foot. Then Mr. Ortmann, the director, came out and announced the winners. When I heard my name, I sort of fell on the boy's shoulder—I was so relieved."

Gets Lesson a Week.

Max's scholarship entitles him to one lesson a week and admission to certain supplementary classes at the conservatory. He will study with Frank Gittleson, of the Peabody faculty, who is concert master of the National Symphony Orchestra.

Max feels he owes a great deal to his former teacher, Jeno Sevely, of the faculty of the newly organized National City School of Music, in Washington.

"He really did a lot for me, and brought me out wonderfully during the year I was with him," he said. "You see, I tried for the scholarship before I went to him and through his teaching I was able to get it this time."

Prefers Classics.

Jazz is all right in its place, but Max likes the classics very much better.

"I play jazz on the piano by ear," he admits, "but never on the violin. I make up pieces, too," he laughed, "but when I want to write them down, I don't know where to put the notes on the paper. Perhaps when I know mor of the theory of music I will be able to compose."

Max has been made concert master of the interschool orchestra in Washington. In addition he is a member of the Junior Symphony under the direction of H. Emerson Meyers.

Group Kitchen Tools To Give Convenience

Because the kitchen sink is usually the center of all vegetable-preparing activities, the clever housewife will see that her working tools are grouped accordingly. Near the sink should be kept brushes, knives, colander, strainers and similar tools. Stew pans, double boilers and other utensils that are filled with water before being put on the stove, should also be near at hand, and a garbage can must be within reach.

Culbertson on Bridge

Reading the Cards.

It is sometimes possible for a good card player to read his partner's holding almost card for card from inferences he has received in the bidding. The following hand, played in an expert game at one of the bridge clubs in New York City, was shown to me after it was played, with the bidding, and I agreed that I have seldom seen an example of more enlightening information interchanged between any partnership.

North, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

South	West	North	East
		1♠	2♡
Dbl.(1)	Pass	2♠(2)	Pass
3♣(3)	Dbl.	3NT(4)	Pass
5◇(5)	Pass	6◇(6)	Pass
Pass	Pass

1—South, fearing a misfit, prefers to double a vulnerable two-heart bid for an almost certain penalty of 500 points rather than gamble on a game bid which might not be made.

2—North's distribution is most unfavorable to defensive play. His spade suit is so strong that it is correct for him to rebid it.

3—South's club suit is so much stronger than his diamond suit that he bids it first, even though the suits are of equal length.

4—North sees no reason to risk playing a doubled club contract, with the possibility that all the adverse clubs may be stacked in one hand. His partner's heart double and club bid have shown him stoppers in those suits.

5—South can now read North's holding almost exactly. He must be short in hearts or he would have left the double of a vulnerable bid alone. He can not have adequate support in the club suit. Had he held seven spades or more, he would have rebid spades a second time instead of bidding notrump. North must, therefore, have four diamonds. A four-diamond bid at this point would be too weak to show the full honor strength of South's hand.

6—North's bid at this point is easy. South's five-diamond bid can be construed only as a Slam invitation, since he would have had no reason to take out an undoubled notrump contract otherwise.

No comment on the play is necessary. East and West could not possibly win any trick other than the diamond Ace.

Business Girl Plans Meals For Economy

Menus Prepared Ahead Simplify Problem of Home Cooking.

By Ruth Chambers.

"Are you a homemaker or are you a business girl?" Sometimes the answer is, "Both." A career in business or a profession no longer means that a girl need stifle her homemaking instincts or her yen to cook, thanks to kitchenettes, prepared foods, short cuts in cookery, the small portions one may buy and other aids for the part-time housekeeper.

Nevertheless, the business girl who comes home to cook a dinner after a day spent in an office has culinary problems particularly her own. In the first place, she probably has had to do her marketing in a hurry on the way home from work, and she is apt to fall into the habit of buying a steak or chops or some few other quickly cooked meats for her main dish, with no thought of the delightful variety she might achieve by a little planning ahead.

Wise Buying.

Instead of buying supplies day by day, which is likely to result in monotony, the clever young woman occasionally buys a piece of round steak, or chuck for a pot roast, a shoulder of pork for a roast or a breast of lamb for a casserole dish. A point not to be overlooked in these days when it's smart to be thrifty is that one may thus buy some of the less demanded cuts of meats and thus reduce the food bill without stinting on the amount or the quality of the food.

Wise Planning.

In some cases the meat may be partially cooked during the evening so that only a little cooking is necessary the next day after she comes from work. In other cases, a larger amount of meat is cooked at one time and then is served cold or in some other way at succeeding dinners.

For instance, here are some recipes which may be started one evening and finished for dinner the next, and which may then be served appetizingly as cold platter dishes for lunch, dinner or "snack" from the ice box when company drops in.

Savory Meat Loaf.

1 pound fresh pork
1 pound veal
½ cup bread crumbs
½ cup milk
2 eggs slightly beaten
Bacon slices
Salt and pepper

Have pork and veal ground together. Add bread crumbs, milk and slightly beaten eggs. Shape into a loaf, put in pan and lay bacon slices across the top. Bake in moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 1½ hours. Serve either hot or cold with tomato sauce.

Pot Roast of Beef.

4 pounds chuck
3 tablespoons fat
1 onion
1 carrot
3 tablespoons flour
1 cup water
Poultry seasoning
Salt and pepper

Heat the fat in a heavy aluminum or iron stewpan. Brown meat on one side, turn and brown on all sides until the meat is well seared. Sprinkle each side with poultry seasoning and salt and pepper; add onion and carrot slices and cook over low flame on top of stove until tender, about three hours. Add water to prevent burning. After the meat is cooked, remove it to a platter and keep hot. Thicken liquid in pan with flour which has been mixed with cold water. Stir and cook five minutes. Strain and serve with pot roast.

The pot roast when cold may be sliced and made the center of an attractive cold platter, with garnishes of asparagus bundles, quartered tomatoes, radish roses, sprigs of parsley or fan-shaped lemon slices to add to its attractiveness.

One-Dish Meals.

For the business girl, whose time for home tasks is so limited, there are advantages also in the one-dish meal. A dinner cooked in one dish does not require so much watching as several things cooking in different utensils, thus leaving the cook free for other duties. And (joyful thought!) there aren't so many dishes to be washed afterward.

Combinations which may be cooked together are:

Sliced ham, pineapple slices and sweet potatoes.

Slices of beef tenderloin, slices of summer squash, parboiled and dipped in melted butter, thick slices of potatoes which have been partially cooked, dotted with butter and sprinkled with grated cheese.

Ice Blue Newest Color for Bride

Other striking gowns in this particular trousseau were a stunning black ottoman suit with adorable white ermine tie, by Lelong, and a bluish-violet crepe afternoon dress, attractively trimmed in matching velvet. Velvet also trimmed a dashing Corinth red crepe dress.

A Malaga colored sweetheart costume was chosen by the bride's mother for this memorable occasion.

How to Keep Well

By Dr. W. A. Evans.

The Eye in Art.

The orbit is a triangular cave, narrow behind and wide in front, and with walls of bone. It holds the eyeball, some fat, a few muscles and some blood vessels and nerves, the eyeball occupying more space than all others combined.

In studying the pictures at the Art Institute one is struck by the difference in the facial expression due to variations in the size of the orbit and in the contents thereof.

The most striking feature of the upper part of Abraham Lincoln's face is the expression of his eyes. His eyeball did not fill the orbit well. Lincoln had no fat on any part of his face. All over his face the bony promontories stood out because the bays near by were not filled with fat, as is generally the case. Part of the Lincoln eye expression is because there was but little fat in this orbit, and part to the fact that his eyeballs were too small for the socket. This gave his eye region a caved-in appearance and resulted in a droop of the upper eyelid which some interpreted as due to relaxation mixed with apathy.

Most of the paintings in the collection done prior to the year 1600 portray popeyed persons. Their eye expression is exactly the opposite of that shown in pictures of Lincoln. In these pictures the eyeball appears too large for the socket. It projects well beyond the face line and the lids are rather stretched over the rounded surface.

Most of the pictures of this period found in this collection are religious in character, depicting incidents having to do with the martyrdom of Christ or the tribulations of the early Christians. The women give evidence of much weeping. Weeping makes the eyes "swell" by reason of congestion of the blood vessels of the orbit and a little local, temporary dropsy. Another cause for this appearance, so nearly general in the faces of the women in these pictures, is excess of fat. Most of them have well-rounded faces, and doubtless they have plenty of fat in their orbits.

A third reason must have been exopthalmic goiter. Either this disease was very general in western Europe some 500 years ago or else artists preferred ladies with goiters as models.

In some of these pictures the opening of the eyelids is wide and much white is shown. This is especially true of Rubens' pictures. In others the artists show the lids pretty well closed, making it uncertain in these figures, in which the neck is covered, to determine whether the popeyes are due to goiter or are the result of weeping.

Blisters on Eyelids.

Miss I. H. writes: I am troubled with little blisters forming on the ridge of both upper eyelids. These blisters last a day or so and then disappear. Once in a while I get a little swelling on the lid which itches most uncomfortably. This lasts only about ten minutes and the swelling and itching both leave. What can be the cause of this trouble? Is it serious and is there any cure?

D. C. Women in Welfare Work

Mrs. Archibald Hopkins' Pet Charity Home for Incurables.

While the Washington Home for Incurables is her pet charity, and she devotes a large part of her time to promoting its interests, Mrs. Archibald Hopkins can always find time for any deserving cause. One of the first to recognize the superiority of the Chest method of financing welfare work, Mrs. Hopkins took an active part in organizing a Community Chest here and has been a strong supporter since its organization, serving in various capacities. She is also one of the two women appointed to serve on the board of St. Elizabeths Hospital, being first named during the administration of President Woodrow Wilson.

Mrs. Hopkins has worked independently for the eradication of the slum districts in Washington and has written on welfare topics for various magazines, having three articles in Good Housekeeping during the past summer.

"I believe that every person should take a deep interest in social service work and realize that it is for the betterment of humanity," she says. "Improved social conditions mean improved living conditions for all of us.

"I would not have missed my work in the past for anything else that I can recall. It has given me greater pleasure than anything else I have undertaken. The good derived by those who have received material aid, hospitalization, advice and health knowledge from the organization which I support is beyond means of expression for them and I find it difficult to express the pleasure that has accrued to me through being able to do what I can for mankind."

Mt. Vernon Parkway Sued for $12,352

The District government yesterday brought suit against the Mt. Vernon, Alexandria and Washington Railway Co. for $12,352.73 for removal of the company's tracks and paving.

The suit says the Commissioners removed the tracks in the vicinity of Fourteenth and Water streets southwest, and then paved the street. Under act of Congress of 1894 the railway company was responsible, the Commissioners assert, for the removal of abandoned tracks and necessary paving.

Veterans Hold Service Rates Special Status

(Associated Press.)

A conference of representatives of veterans' organizations yesterday agreed that a campaign should be started to place veterans' problems before the public.

The Spanish War Veterans, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Disabled Veterans and Jewish Veterans were represented.

A statement said:

"The conference in no uncertain terms opposed the recent declaration that veterans had no special status in American society.

"It was agreed that veterans of all wars, whether disabled or not, feel that they have performed a duty beyond the ordinary call and that they are entitled to special recognition."

James E. Van Zandt, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, sent a protest to President Roosevelt, in which he said complaints had been received that "overseas" service men were being replaced in the Government service by persons having no priority under the soldiers' preference clause.

Police Seeking Auto That Injured Fireman

Detectives last night were seeking the automobile which Monday night struck and seriously injured Private Cornelius Ridley, District fireman, on the Marlboro pike near the District Line.

At the hospital Ridley, who suffered a possible skull fracture, was reported improving. He was unable to tell police how he got to the home of a friend on West Virginia avenue after the accident.

Warning Issued On Cancer "Cure"

Stocks of Michigan Syrup Seized as Misbranded.

Another warning against quack claims for cancer cures was issued yesterday by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

"Cancer can not be treated successfully or cured by any known medicine or drug preparation," said Dr. F. J. Cullen, chief of the drug control. "Quacks who prey upon sufferers from cancer through the sale of misbranded or fake medicines are inevitably subject to legal action under the national pure food and drug law."

The warning resulted from the seizure of stocks of Mizer's Cancer and Scrofula Syrup, shipped by the Mixer Medicine Co., Hastings, Mich. A prosecution against the manufacturer is pending, Dr. Cullen said.

Music to Feature Chamber Exhibits

Instrumental and vocal music will be presented each night of the Washington Chamber of Commerce Industrial Exposition by local groups, it was announced yesterday. The Edna Bishop Daniel School of Singing and the Holy Comforter Boys' Band will be on the first night's program Monday.

Other groups on the week's schedule are Institute of Musical Art, the Sophocles Pappas School of Guitar and Mandolin, the George Washington University Glee Club, Miss Frances Gutelius' Piano School and Anton Casper, violin and instrumental music.

The District National Guard, the 260th Coast Artillery and the Boys Club also will participate.

Pennsylvania Convict Fights Deportation

District Supreme Court was asked yesterday to require Secretary of Labor Perkins to cancel a deportation warrant against John Mattarazzo, an Italian, inmate of the Lewisburg, Pa., prison.

Mattarazzo declares that the warrant accuses him of having been sentenced "more than once." He said he received one sentence for 15 years in 1924 for attempting to pass counterfeit money.

Gives Up

Surprised Suspect Can't Elude Motor Police.

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 17 (AP).—Bernard McGann, 220-pound motorcycle patrolman, got his man today, although he had to race into a five and ten cent store on his "iron steed" to do it.

Harvey Heller, 27, of Canton, Ill., in custody on a robbery charge, was fleeing from two detectives, McGann said, as he took up the pursuit.

Instead of relying on his legs to catch the lighter man, McGann, motorcycle and all, followed Heller into the store as frightened customers scurried behind counters. Heller surrendered.

Missouri Asks Dry Repeal

Governor Asks Legislature to Lift Ban on "Hard" Liquor.

Jefferson City, Mo., Oct. 17 (AP).—Repeal of Missouri's bone dry law and enactment of legislation regulating a tax on the sale of liquor was recommended by Gov. Guy B. Park to a special session of the Legislature today.

He presented a revenue raising program, to produce approximately $14,000,000 additional revenue annually, principally by a 1 per cent general sales tax.

The governor proposed a State tax of $1 a gallon on whisky and "hard" liquors, 20 cents on wine, $1 a barrel on 3.2 beer and $1.50 a barrel on beer of more than 3.2 content. The total revenue, he estimated, would be $3,000,000 a year.

He suggested that 3.2 beer be excluded from regulations governing sale of intoxicants. The governor estimated that beer consumed would be about 50 per cent 3.2 and 50 per cent in excess of that alcoholic content.

Judge Lowell Praised At Colored Meeting

Judge Lowell, of Massachusetts, was eulogized last night at a meeting of the Civil Liberties Unit of Colored Elks by J. Finley Wilson, grand exalted ruler. Committees were formed for work in Virginia to perpetuate membership of Negroes as veniremen for grand and petit juries.

The national administration was scored for silence while lynchings are increasing and for its segregation of eligibles for Army promotion into white and colored groups. The NRA program was represented as rendering the Negro economic situation desperate.

Cooper Injunction Plea Advanced to Nov. 6

Acting on a request by officials of the Treasury Department, Justice Jennings Bailey, District Supreme Court, yesterday advanced to November 6 the date for the hearing on Col. Wade H. Cooper's plea for a mandatory injunction to permit the opening of the United States Savings Bank.

Col. Cooper has asked the court to issue an order requiring the Treasury to sanction a plan he has advanced and by which he hopes to reopen the bank. Treasury officers have refused to approve his plan.

Farm Bureau 'Sold' Industry, Witness Says

Associations Paid to Use Education Channels, Committee Told.

Inquiring into the American Farm Bureau Federation's offer to cooperate with steamship owners and builders for a consideration of $94,000, the Senate committee investigating ocean mail contracts yesterday was told the Farm Bureau had accepted payment from asphalt, lumber, power, copper, cement and other industrial associations for its publicity, advertising and educational campaigns.

S. A. Van Patten, former Farm Bureau employe, told the Senate investigators the Farm Bureau had cooperated with the Steamship Owners Association and the National Council of Shipbuilders in preparing publicity and propaganda favoring both agriculture and the American merchant marine.

The first figure asked by the Farm Bureau was $94,000; it was reduced to $30,000, and finally a third offer of $15,000 was made, all of which the shippers rejected, said Van Patten.

Senator McCarran (Democrat), Nevada, questioned the witness about "selling arguments" used on shipping officials in an effort to obtain cooperation with the Farm Bureau.

A 20-page letter written to R. J. Baker, secretary of the Steamship Owners Association, was quoted to show, Farm Bureau officials pointed out, that its "legislative machinery" and its educational channels, such as the 4-H clubs and schools, could be used in the merchant marine campaign.

In explaining how the Farm Bureau operated, Van Petten revealed various associations, representing copper, power and lumber interests, had contributed largely to the bureau's campaign to "modernize" the American farm.

Senator McCarren read into the record a list of the contributions paid by these interests. For 1930, 1931 and 1932 they totaled $60,250.

Van Petten explained he was responsible for educational motion pictures, which were paid for by advertisers of farm commodities and distributed in rural communities.

Van Petten was questioned about the so-called Secondary Road Institute, financed by the Asphalt Institute, which paid $90,000 to the Farm Bureau for its "assistance" in preparing a farm-to-market-road campaign.

Senator White (Republican), Maine, coauthor of the Jones-White shipping bill, and a member of the committee, who yesterday attended for the first time, enlivened the hearing at this point by demanding of Senator McCarren:

"Are these roads leading to the merchant marine or away from it?"

M. S. Winter, executive secretary of the Farm Bureau, told the committee the bureau destroyed all its files and records when they were two years old, and that he had only one letter from a member of the shipowners' association.

He read a statement into a record in which he declared:

"The influence of the Farm Bureau is not for sale and it can not be bought."

He testified that the annual income of the National Farm Bureau, derived from affiliated State and local groups, was between $170,000 and $175,000.

He added further that at the time his bureau was negotiating with the shipowners he did not know they favored Government subsidies for American shipping. The Farm Bureau, he said, was pledged against shipping subsidies.

Malcolm M. Stewart, chairman of the Middle West Foreign Trade committee, with headquarters in Cincinnati, will be today's witness.

Bar Body Will Air Claims of "Pull"

Former Officials Called Unethical in Methods.

Charges that former public officials have been unethical in soliciting clients among persons desiring NRA codes, will be aired tonight at a Federal Bar association meeting in the Washington Club.

Association leaders anticipate spirited debate over what they term "flagrant attempts" to make money by intimating "pull" is needed to obtain favorable treatment from Recovery Administration executives. A bill sponsored by Chairman King, Senate District Committee, intended to restrict practice of law in the District to members of the bar, also will be discussed.

Harry F. Payer, Assistant Secretary of State, and F. Regis Noel, well-known attorney, will speak. They will be introduced by William A. Roberts, president.

Pose as Police Officer To Search Auto Denied

William E. DeVaughn, 22, 120 Atlantic street southeast, pleaded not guilty in Police Court yesterday to impersonating a police officer and was bound over to the grand jury on $1,500 bond by Judge John P. McMahon.

Russell Thorne and Carlton E. Thoren, jr., Anacostia, Va., testified DeVaughn stopped their car on Oxon Hill road Sunday and attempted to search it, saying he was an officer.

Claim Adjusters' Club Will Elect Tonight

New officers of the Claims Adjusters Club of the District will be elected tonight at a meeting in the Hamilton Hotel.

Pharmacy Robbed Of Choice Liquors

Safe Smashed Open to Get Medicinal Stock.

Samuel Rakunsin, proprietor, said the robbers came in through a basement window.

The thieves took four cases of Belle Nelson whisky, one half case of Anchorage whisky, half case of Golden Wedding, three cases of Tom Hardy, half case of Dixie Bell gin and nine cases of port and sherry wine.

Officials Back New Park Road By U. S. Funds

All-Federal Highway to Tennessee Upheld at Meeting.

Construction of a proposed 800-mile Federal highway linking Washington with the Great Smoky Mountain and Shenandoah National Parks, estimated to cost $20,000,000, hinged today upon consideration to be given the proposal by the Public Works Administration.

Following instruction given at a meeting in Washington yesterday, a committee headed by George L. Radcliffe, Baltimore, Public Works director, will formally submit a request for funds to Secretary Ickes, Public Works administrator. The committee also will ask that the project be made entirely a Federal one.

The proposed mountain top highway was discussed at yesterday's meeting by officials of Federal agencies interested in parks and highways, and representatives of Virginia, North Carolina and Tennessee, where the parks are situated. Senator Byrd (Democrat), Virginia, and Senator Reynolds (Democrat), North Carolina, were among leading proponents of the highway.

The new highway was said to have the approval of officials of the Office of Public Parks, the Bureau of Public Roads and the National Forest Service of the Federal Government.

Originally, the recommendation to be submitted to Administrator Ickes asked only $16,000,000 with which to build the road from the Shenandoah National Park in Virginia to the Great Smoky Mountain Park. However, at the suggestion of Arno B. Cammerer, director of Public Parks, it was decided to add a 65-mile segment leading into Washington from Panorama, Va.

Senator Byrd and Senator Reynolds said they would urge its favorable consideration. Both expressed hope for "prompt and immediate action."

The committee appointed to push the project includes Mr. Radcliffe, chairman; Mr. Cammerer, Thomas H. MacDonald, public roads chief; R. Y. Stuart, chief, National Forest Service; Henry G. Shirley, E. B. Jeffress and F. W. Webster, highway commisisoners of the three interested States.

Death Penalty Fails Purpose, Says Capt. Barnard, Penal Head

"Another Murder" Does no Good, He Contends, Urging Prison.

Half a century spent studying human nature has convinced Capt. M. M. Barnard, superintendent of District penal institutions, the world would be better off without capital punishment.

Returning yesterday from an Atlantic City convention of the American Penal Institution, he declared he was more than ever determined to work against execution of criminals.

"I just don't think it does any good," he said. "Just because a man commits murder why should we commit another murder to even the score? We have no right to do it.

"The principle behind executions is that they may prevent others from fighting and killing. In actual practice such a theory won't hold water.

Delay Ruins Lesson.

"Legal technicalities are so complex it sometimes is six or seven years after a murder before the electrocution. The public soon forgets. By the time these men are executed the public has forgotten them."

Instead of death, Capt. Barnard suggested, serious crimes should be punished by imprisonment for life, without privilege of parole after 15 years.

"Life imprisonment should be made to mean what it says," he added. "If this were done, the guilty would be worse off in prison than dead. Then, too, there wouldn't be any chance of executing an innocent man.

Says Relatives Suffer.

"I'm heartily in favor of the new Federal island prison at San Francisco. When a man goes there for life knowing it's the finish he'll really be punished.

"As things now exist, near relatives of the condemned often suffer more than the man himself. We've had executions in the District for 65 years. Life imprisonment for these men would meet the ends of justice and satisfy everybody."

Asked if he favored execution of women, the official responded:

"I'd quit before I'd witness one. I've seen about 35 men die, but I'm very glad it wasn't my duty actually to take part in their execution."

Khaki General Sees Waterloo

Philadelphia, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—Art J. Smith, "commanding general" of "10,000,000 Khaki Shirt storm troopers," met his Waterloo in Central Police Court today.

The ertswhile general, who planned a John Brown raid on the League Island Navy Yard and several National Guard armories, was held under $400 bail on a charge of "fraudulent conversion," made by a former "colonel" on the "general staff."

In a hilarious session, "generals" and "colonels" called each other "liars," "bums" and "tramps."

Former "Organizing General" Edmund Phillips objected to this.

"You're a damned liar," he shouted.

Dismissal of Veterans From U. S. Jobs Scored

Dismissal of veterans from Government jobs was protested yesterday by James E. Van Zandt, commander in chief of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in a letter to President Roosevelt.

Van Zandt wrote he had received complaints from some service men released in consolidation of Government bureaus. He said many persons retained "had no priority under soldiers' preference."

He characterized treatment of veterans as "grossly unfair."

Mounting Jobs Aid 700,000 In September

Labor Department Lists 80 Industries; Gains Cheer Secretary.

The steady march back to work continued during September, with approximately 700,000 men and women returned to pay rolls in more than 80 industries, the Labor Department said yesterday.

The report marks the sixth consecutive month of improvement in both industrial employment and factory pay roll totals since March. On October 1, the factory employment index stood at 73.9 per cent of the 1926 normal, about equal to April, 1931, with the pay roll index of 53.3 per cent, about the same as was reported in October, 1931.

Secretary of Labor Perkins hailed the September statistics as encouraging evidence of further broad gains.

"Measured from the low point of March," the September figures show an estimated gain of more than 2,700,000 workers during the six-month interval and an increase of nearly $64,000,000 in total weekly wages distributed."

"Sporadic strikes continued to retard the general advance of employment," the report said, "a number of firms in various localities reporting partial or complete shutdowns due to labor disturbances."

The report showed 200,000 back at work in factories, and about 225,000 in retail trade. Operating at the seasonal peak, canning and preserving took on 70,000 additional workers.

Building accounted for 20,000 reemployed and wholesale trade, another 20,000. Road construction took on 35,000 men during September, and Class I railroads added 16,000 to their pay rolls during August and September.

MORE TIME FOR LEISURE..

NRA

You'll notice it yourself—how you can have more time in the open air or out with friends when the major part of your cooking duties are lifted from your shoulders. Modern science has provided for that, with automatic controls on the new gas range. Whole oven meals can be cooked automatically without attention on your part. Just place the meal in the oven. Set the simple clock control. The range does the rest—turns the burners on, cooks the meal, and turns them off. And heavy insulation retains the heat—keeps the meal hot until you return.

Modernize—bring your kitchen up to date—with an automatic gas range.

D. C. Prisons Boost Totals In Depression

Superintendent Barnard Reports on Lack of Facilities.

Economic conditions have increased the number of prisoners in District penal institutions and reduced economy budgets have prevented development of adequate facilities, Capt. M. M. Barnard, general superintendent of penal institutions, said in his annual report yesterday.

"Were I able to make the pleasing report that the trend is showing some sign of betterment, I should be most happy to enumerate the possibilities," he said, "but the future to date foreshadows no lessening of our responsibilities.

"Crime inevitably increases during stressed times, at a period, too, when prison funds are pared to the bone along with every other public expenditure."

All-Time Record.

An all-time record in the year's turnover of prisoners was reported by Col W. L. Peak, superintendent of the District Jail, in his annual report. The daily average population of the jail was 558 and admissions for the year totaled 18,221, Col. Peak said.

"Sanitation, security, modern enlightenment, demand changes in structural deficiencies now glaringly apparent, and remodeling, if not entirely new building operations should not be permitted to lag," the jail superintendent said.

Women prisoners at Occoquan are housed in "decrepit wooden buildings, depreciating so rapidly that economy itself should dictate the necessity for appropriations to provide for their replacement," Capt. Barnard said.

Sewage System Needed.

An additional water supply and a sewage disposal system are badly needed at the workhouse, he said, adding Virginia authorities have protested against pollution of streams. Leigslation to give prison guards authority over contiguous roads also was asked.

Radio Waves and Ripples

Some of the elder's answers to Bob Trout's questions were unexpected and a trifle disconcerting. For instance, the elder wasn't expected to express his dislike for news reporters. Broadcasters belong definitely to that school of thought which holds public deprecation of news gatherers decidedly bad form. Whatever depreciatory views they have of the profession usually are expressed privately.

Also, the elder "ad libbed" a pun on his interviewer's last name in connection with his account of early fish dealing experiences, which the minds thought might have been better.

The elder, it is understood, plans the publication of a paper. Perhaps that was why he took care to distinguish the low caste in which he holds reporters from his high opinion of the publications for which they work.

The Michaux contribution to the Human Needs campaign this winter will be to give each man who sells 12 copies of his paper a day's board and lodging.

H. L. Mencken gives way to WMAL's "Three Little Pigs" tonight.

The minds sold a Capital sausage company a 5-minute program under that title, made up chiefly of advertising announcement and the rendition of "Who's Afraid of the Big, Bad Wolf?"

The sponsors liked the 6:25 period, so Mencken's scheduled 6 to 6:30 broadcast was canceled. The remainder of the time is to be filled by the singing of Barytone Marvin Gardner and the playing of a few records.

Anyone wishing to hear Mencken will tune in New York's WJZ.

Maud, property of Samuel Wright, hauled everything from plows to wagons with her teammate, Minnie. Last month Minnie died of old age. Maud, a much younger animal, then ceased to kick and bray. Sunday morning Wright went to the stable to get Maud. She was dead.

Oberammergau, Bavaria, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—An official statement tonight declared that no changes in the Jewish roles of the historic "Passion Play" would be necessary under the Nazi regime, inasmuch as the events depicted "occurred such a long time ago."

All the principals in the last cast were reelected today, with the exception of Judas, John the Baptist and Mary Magdalene. For these roles, Hans Zwink, Willi Wierling and Clara Mayr were chosen, respectively.

Boxing Taught Free, Properly In "Y" Lessons

The Post Offers Chance to Learn Clean and Healthful Sport.

Scientific boxing, say authorities, is perhaps one of the quickest routes to clean health building. It has been adopted as a major sport in many leading colleges. With "Keep Healthy" week drawing to a close, The Washington Post and Central Y. M. C. A. offer free opportunities to those interested in such training.

The Y. M. C. A. not only maintains a boxing team but conducts fall and winter boxing courses for both men and boys. These facilities are available without charge by clipping the coupon below in today's Post.

Years ago, boxing among young men was frowned upon. Now, however, educational leaders have come to realize its benefits to young men and boys. It is also recommended by physicians as a healthful form of exercise.

During "Keep Healthy" week, sponsored by The Post and Y. M. C. A., a daily coupon is offered for a free membership to the "Y." Clip it in today's paper and present it at 1736 G street northwest, for your membership card.

Post-Y. M. C. A. "Keep Healthy Week" October 12-19

Sign your name to this coupon and exchange it in the lobby of the Y. M. C. A., Eighteenth and G streets northwest, for a special guest membership card.

Miss Perkins Not Exclusive, But Others Like Private Lifts

The Incident of the Private Elevator, created last week when Secretary Perkins announced she would not use the exclusive lift when the new Labor Department Building is opened next year, developed ramifications yesterday.

Inquiry disclosed that the Department of Justice is going in for private elevators in a grand manner. There will be two, one for the Attorney General and the other for the Solicitor General.

Whether or not they will follow Madame Secretary's lead could not be learned. Attorney General Cummings was absent from his office, due to a slight indisposition, and Solicitor General Biggs rested his case by citing the rule that such information must come directly from his chief.

Miss Perkins' elevator is being completed anyway. Officials, in charge of construction said its removal at this stage would entail greater expense than finishing the work. Besides, they said, her objections have occasioned no order to cease the job.

Dickstein Hits Nazi Acts Here

Seeks Curb on U. S. Entry, Flaying Propaganda Already Begun.

Anticipating a congressional inquiry into Nazi activities in this country, Representative Samuel Dickstein, of New York, chairman of the House Immigration Committee, today will confer with Secretary Perkins and Attorney General Cummings regarding a possible curb on Nazi immigration.

The aid of the Immigration Bureau will be solicited to check the arrival of Nazi sympathizers from Germany, Dickstein said, and the Attorney General will be asked for advice on legal means of throttling Nazi propaganda.

Last night the New York representative in a radio address warned that "well planned and well financed Hitler propaganda is taking root" in this country because of "our resolve not to concern ourselves with internal affairs of Germany."

"They have already established an official newspaper, they are importing and flooding sections of this country with booklets, pamphlets and leaflets; they are holding meetings in public halls; they are actually drilling storm troops on American soil," he said.

Local Man Shot in Leg, Police Arrest Ohioan

Tony Alexander, 60, of 1106 Fifth street northeast, was treated at Emergency Hospital last night for a bullet wound in his right leg, allegedly suffered in an argument in a restaurant at 517 Ninth street northwest.

At a late hour police had not learned whether Alexander was a bystander or principal in the affair. A man who said he was P. Pasqualla, 28, of Youngstown, Ohio, was arrested for questioning.

Buster Keaton to Wed Nurse in California

Ventura, Calif., Oct. 17 (AP).—Buster Keaton, screen comedian, today filed notice of intention to marry Mrs. Mae Scrivens Hawley, his former nurse.

The couple was married at Ensenada, Mexico in January but that was nine months before his divorce from Natalie Talmadge became final. The divorce became final last month.

NRA Survey Aimed to Help City Consumer

Capital Group Will Study "Exorbitant Rise" in Prices Here.

The Interfederation Conference will conduct a survey of the National Recovery Administration's efforts to protect consumers against the "exorbitant rise of everyday commodities" in the Capital area, it was announced yesterday.

Under the direction of Stephen James, president of the conference, members will confer with citizens associations to study plans of the NRA for consumers' protection.

The federation is composed of members from District of Columbia Federation of Citizens Associations and civic federations of Montgomery and Arlington Counties.

James' findings will be submitted to the conference at its November session. The organization will then decide on the next steps.

Denies Quarrel With NRA.

James stated yesterday he had no quarrel with the NRA. "While without a doubt the NRA is endeavoring to protect the citizens, consumers have not the representation at the conference where the codes are drafted that they should be given," he said.

"Large industries not only ask for representation, but demand it. Federal officials are being hammered by more aggressive groups representing industries with their own interests at heart, and the consumers as a result do not get all the consideration to which they are entitled."

Airport Road Opposed.

The federation and its associations have been called upon to consider a proposal eliminating Military road, at the south end of Highway Bridge, and the construction of a "larger and more properly" located highway in its place.

This proposal was introduced by Edwin S. Hege, vice president of the District of Columbia group. He said the present road, dividing the two fields of the Washington Airport, presents an unsafe condition both for passengers landing at the air field and for motorists using the road.

It has also created a perplexing problem of jurisdiction for police of Arlington County and the United States Park Police, he said.

College Group Argues War

William & Mary's Annual International Affairs Institute Opens.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 17 (AP).—War and its after effects were the subjects of discussion inaugurating the annual Institute of International Affairs at the College of William and Mary tonight.

Porf. B. H. Williams, of the University of Pittsburgh, said "disarmament will not in itself prevent wars, but if successful, it will remove one cause of war, namely, armament rivalry."

Harold G. Moulton, of Brookings Institution, said it is to be hoped that "in the light of the economic futility that has been manifested in postwar debt policies thus far, a genuine effort will be made to utilize the present situation as a means of redirecting efforts of nations toward balanced and mutually beneficial trade relations."

Swift Justice Due For Attack Suspect

Victim of Colored Man Suffers From Shock.

Princess Anne, Md., Oct. 17. State's Attorney John B. Robins, of Somerset County, announced after a conference today with Judge Robert F. Duer that the Somerset County grand and petit juries would be recalled, probably Monday, to consider the case of George Armwood, colored, charged with criminally assaulting Mrs. Mary Denston, 71-year-old white woman, of Manokin, yesterday.

Mr. Robins said he anticipates a speedy indictment and trial. He will ask for the death penalty. Armwood, now in prison in Baltimore, is said to have confessed.

Mrs. Denston was interviewed today by the State's attorney. She is in a highly nervous condition. Somerset authorities will return Armwood at once to Somerset County for arraignment. They are taking precautions to guard the Negro on arrival here.

E. B. McLean Sanity Hearing Postponed

November 6 Set as New Date for Trial.

Towson, Md., Oct. 17 (AP).—The sanity hearing of Edward B. McLean, former Washington and Cincinnati publisher and sportsman, scheduled here tomorow, has been postponed until November 6.

McLean has been confined to the Sheppard and Enoch Pratt Hospital near here. A lunacy petition was filed against him October 4, signed by his estranged wife, Mrs. Evelyn Walsh McLean and two physicians.

Mrs. McLean contends her husband has an estate of $100,000 or more and asked that a committee be appointed to manage it.

Stocks Rally 2.4 Points as Dollar Drops

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Financial markets reversed Monday's trend today. Commodities and stocks rallied with varying degrees of briskness while the dollar exchange declined.

Stock market improvement ranged from fractions to around 3 points for the less excitable issues; some grains were more substantial, particularly in the case of shares which had been weakest yesterday. It seemed fair to assume that Monday's break had strengthened the technical position and that conditions were ripe for a rally.

The upturn, while not particularly active when it came, was nevertheless sustained and broad. Some brokers derived satisfaction from the ability of the industrial group to resist a definite break through the July lows.

U. S. Steel Advances.

There were net advances of a couple of points for U. S. steel, American Can, Westinghouse, Standard Oil of California, New York Central, Pennsylvania, Union Pacific, American Smelting, American Commercial Alcohol, Chrysler and Public Service of New Jersey. Du Pont, Celanese and Case rose 3 or more, while Allied Chemical was up 4½, U. S. Smelting 6 and National Distillers about 7. Sales totaled 2,483,030 shares.

In addition to the Government's entry into the wheat market and possibly also into the cotton picture, certain aspects of the news appealed to members of the financial community.

Some observers professed to feel that business horizons were less cloudy, with labor troubles diminishing in certain directions, with the administration acting to release frozen bank deposits and with industrial employment still pointing upward. There has also been some expansion in commercial credit.

Car Loadings Rise.

Preliminary figures on last week's car loadings indicated that the total available Friday may show a new high for the year. One estimate placed the probable volume at around 667,000 cars, which would be just above the 1933 record to date of 666,652 in the week ended September 29.

Larger movements of coal are expected to swell freight traffic in the weeks immediately ahead so that increasingly favorable comparisons with 1932 are possible.

Foreign affairs occupied a smaller place in market circles. The dollar's decline was attributed to a fresh swing of sentiment abroad against the likelihood of immediate currency stabilization here. With German bonds rallying, it looked as though the market saw less reason for serious concern over outgrowths of last week-end's happenings.

The steel industry still appears to be marking time. American Metal Market said there had been no material increase in demand, but that the production ratio had managed to hold its own. However, the normal time for seasonal gain is about over.

The Purchasing Power Drive

Takes Almost Staggering Sums To Effect Business Appreciably.

By Ralph West Robey.

Plans of the administration for getting purchasing power into the hands of the public now have reached the point where the amounts involved are almost fantastic. In spite of this, however, there still is ample room for questioning how effective they can be in getting better business in the immediate future. Given time, of course, the entire amount could be pumped out. At present, nevertheless, the important question is not how much could be, or will be, spent during the next two or three years, but how much will be forced into the economic system within the next two or three months.

The reason this short period is so important is that business gradually has been slumping for well over two months. The decline has not been sharp, it is true, but the success of so much of the recovery program of the administration is depending upon our having an increasing volume of business that it is imperative to get the trend reversed. Further, unless substantial improvement is shown before Congress meets the first part of January it is probable there will be widespread public demands for more vigorous action with the result that mandatory legislation may be passed. The specific fear in this connection, of course, is currency inflation.

Totals Would Indicate There Could Be No Lack of Aid.

From the statements which have been made by the administration as to the amount which will be paid by the various plans, it seems scarcely possible that business could slump further. Without any attempt at completeness one may recall $400,000,000 for loans on cotton, with expectation that loans also will be made on other agricultural products; $1,700,000,000 already approved for expenditure by the Public Works Administration; $330,000,000 for direct relief of the unemployed and an equal amount to be contributed by the States; $1,000,000,000 for subscription to the preferred stock of banks in order that they may lend more freely, or prepare themselves for the deposit guaranty plan which goes in effect January 1, and $1,000,000,000 to be paid out as a result of the liquidation of closed banks.

In each of these cases, however, there is a vast difference between merely planning to use the money and actually getting it used. In the case of public works, for example, although we have some $1,700,000,000 approved, only a few millions actually have been spent. Some other parts of the program, perhaps, will move with greater speed. In every instance, nevertheless, there is certain to be differences of opinion on administration, and frequently legal difficulties that will cause delay.

May Not Be Possible to Get Money Spent Fast Enough.

The net result may be, therefore, that in spite of every effort to have the Government make enough purchasing power available to create immediate business improvement, that this proves to be impossible. We may find that instead of getting so much money spent by the Government, either directly or indirectly, that business necessarily turns upward, that only a comparatively ineffective amount can be got out.

That this is a distinct possibility is clear if one merely considers how much expenditure is required to make an appreciable showing on the volume of business. One can not, of course, be dogmatic about this, but unquestionably it is a huge sum. A mere few hundreds of millions can not be sufficient, as the results of the bonus payment a year or two ago showed.

Before one can assume, therefore, that the present drive for the expansion of purchasing power by the Government will be successful, he must be convinced that it can put an almost swaggering amount into circulation. If he does not think that this is possible, he must conclude that business will improve or not in the next three months quite regardless of this phase of the recovery program of the administration.

Bond Market Is Unchanged; At 76 Average

Rail Quotations Are Mild as Sales Mount to $11,067,000.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Bonds dipped and rallied along with stocks and commodities today and, as a whole, the market finished just about where it started.

Sales totaled $11,067,000, par value, and the average for 60 domestic corporate loans was unchanged at 76.

While there was less talk of dollar stabilization and "sound money," prime investment issues generally held their declines to small fractions and some even registered mild improvement.

Phone Bonds Higher.

Bonds of American Telephone were slightly higher, as were those of Santa Fe and Consolidated Gas. Such utilities as American & Foreign Power, Postal Telegraph, International Telephone and Western Union come back fractionally to around 2 points.

The rails divided their gains and losses. Rallies of a point or more were held by some liens of Alleghany Corporation, Baltimore & Ohio, Erie, Illinois Central, New York Central, Nickel Plate, Northern Pacific, Southern Pacific, Southern and Wabash.

Declines were recorded by loans of Union Pacific, Cincinnati Union Terminal, Chicago & North Western, St. Paul, Chesapeake Corporation, K. C. Southern, Hudson & Manhattan, Missouri Pacific and Frisco.

Colon Oil Advances.

The industrials did little, although advances were shown by loans of Colon Oil, Houston Oil, Phillips Petroleum, Texas Corporation, Warner Bros. and others.

Liberty fourth 4¼s, called, edged up 1-32d of a point to 102 and some of the Treasury issues were a trifle higher. Various Federal loans were unchanged.

Foreign obligations were mixed. Bonds of Switzerland gained about 4 points and advances of fractions to 2 or more were registered by issues of France, Dutch East Indies and Belgium. The gold standard country bonds improved as the dollar declined in foreign exchange dealings. German bonds also rallied 1 to 2 or more.

Cotton Jumps $2.50 Per Bale On Covering

December Closes at 9.26 as General Market Rises 47 to 54 Points.

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Cotton advanced about $2.50 a bale today on covering and an active demand which sent the price of December contracts up to 9.28 in the late trading or 51 points above yesterday's closing quotation. That delivery closed at 9.26, with the general market closing very steady at net advances of 47 to 54 points.

The opening was 9 to 22 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables and an advance in foreign exchange. There was a better demand from domestic and foreign trade sources, and while the early advance met Southern selling or liquidation it was absorbed on comparatively moderate reactions.

Further gains followed the afternoon strength of the wheat and stock markets and reports that the proposed Federal loan of 10 cents a pound to producers on present crop cotton would become available this week.

May Sells Up.

May contracts sold up from 9.13 at the close yesterday to 9.63 in the late trading. With active months generally showing net gains of 49 to 51 points and closing at or within a point of two of the best.

Reports that the Farm Credit Corporation was buying wheat for the Federal Emergency Relief Corporation, encouraged bullish sentiment in cotton.

The afternoon advance was accompanied by reports that it was becoming more difficult to buy spot cotton in the South below a parity with the proposed loan value.

Exports today 45,290 making 1,844,980 so far this season. Port receipts 82,473. U. S. port stocks, 3,798,017.

Bleachable cottonseed oil was strong today on covering and buying by cotton houses. Demand was promoted by the sharp gains in lard, cotton, grains and commodities generally on the report that the Government was buying wheat for the Federal Emergency Relief Corporation. Final prices were 22 to 31 points net higher. Sales 39 contracts. Bleachable spot and October closed 4.00; December, 4.27; January, 4.34; March, 4.59, and May, 4.68.

Trade Is Seen Stabilizing at Present Levels

New York, Oct. 17.—In its weekly summary of the general business situation, the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, currently comments as follows:

"Strikes, bittter disagreements in several important code hearings and further perplexing difficulties in working out management policies under the NRA charters already in effect have continued to disturb business confidence during the past week.

"Business activity in the aggregate has given definite indications of stabilizing around present levels. Elimination of the more pressing of present labor difficulties must be effected in the early future, however, if recent better sentiment on the part of business generally is not to be dissipated.

"Commodity prices have reflected the continued absence of any strong stimulus, such as a formal statement of monetary policy might be expected to produce. Speculative commodities have moved irregularly lower during the past fortnight.

"Retail trade has continued to make favorable progress, partly because of general realization by distributors that prices to consumers could not be marked up fully in line with present costs without creating buyer resistance. Acceptance of smaller profit margins, therefore, has helped maintain sales volume."

U. S. Dollar Turns Down on Markets

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Repatriation of American capital and covering of short dollar commitments by European speculators slowed down today and foreign exchanges rallied sharply.

The dollar, rather heavy all day, closed weak in terms of the pound and continental gold currencies. The reversal of the dollar trend was attributed by dealers partly to a change of opinion regarding nearby monetary stabilization in the United States and to improved sentiment regarding the European political situation.

The British pound sterling held a net gain of 4½ cents at a cable rate of $4.59, French francs gained .71¾ of a cent at 5.74¾ cents, Dutch guilders spurted 1.17 cents to 59.20 cents and Belgian belgas and Swiss francs advanced .37 and .55 of a cent, respectively. German marks rallied .73 of a cent at 34.85 cents and the Scandinavians, Canadian dollars and Far Eastern funds firmed.

Caterpillar Tractor Co. September Sales Drop

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (AP).—Caterpillar Tractor Co. reports September sales totaled $1,543,554, a moderate decline from the $1,730,719 of August this year, and far below the $2,967,840 of September last year.

Operations for the month resulted in a profit of $73,013, compared with $77,987 in August, and a loss of $320,548 in the 1932 month.

Mr. Brownlee will continue as vice president of General Foods Corporation and president of General Foods Sales Co., Inc., according to the announcement.

Wine From California Is Sent to New Orleans

New Orleans, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—The first shipment, 99 cases, of California wines, ranging from 14 to 22 per cent alcohol, has arrived here.

The consignment will be stored in bonded warehouses until the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Louisiana has no State dry law prohibiting the sale of alcoholic beverages.

Cooperation Cuts Machinery Prices

Luray, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Cooperating buying and selling by the Page County Farm Bureau, Luray, has reduced the price of all kinds of farm machinery to such an extent during the past year that members of the organization this fall will be able to finance their fertilizer bills out of money thus saved, directors of the bureau declare.

The approximate 10 per cent reduction in the cost of machinery that farmers have bought during the summer, they say, will take care of their fertilizer bills in November. The organization has about 300 members, composed chiefly of farmers. Like similar organizations throughout the Shenandoah Valley, the Page County Farm Bureau will probably soon develop a dry goods and shoes department.

Beer Tax Aids New Orleans.

New Orleans, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—The city government has collected over $160,000 in beer taxes since April 13, when the beverage was first sold legally here.

Survey Reveals U. S. Business Is Becoming Adjusted to NRA

New York, Oct. 17.—One of the fundamental facts to be faced in appraising future prospects of business is the extent to which business is adjusting itself to those external controls embodied in the NRA program, says the Standard Statistics Co., of New York, adding:

"The distrust and dislike with which the code method was regarded in the earlier stages have gradually given place, over considerable areas, to an attitude ranging from warm approval to neutral tolerance.

"Regardless of opinion, moreover, it is evident that business is adjusting itself to the new order, having been helped to do so by the recent revival in activity. Should business again start to rise in the later autumn, as now expected, the process of adjustment should be eased still further because the economies of larger scale industrial production should go far toward offsetting the increases in wage and material costs caused by the codes.

"In taking note of this encouraging fact regarding the operations of the NRA, an exception should be made in the case of labor. The wide prevalence of strikes (which now seem, happily, to be receding in certain industries) shows that adaptation has been slow in this field, and some of the proposals of the Recovery Administration, suggesting that determination of labor relationships be lodged in governmental hands, do not sound any too practical."

War Materials Control Now Sought by France

Paris, Oct. 17 (AP).—Governmental control of the manufacture and sale of war materials, with the State authorized to buy into munitions firms, was provided today in a financial bill considered by the Chamber of Deputies.

A representative of the government would be placed in each factory. Other arms would be sold only in specially authorized stores and a 20 per cent tax would be imposed on sales.

Old Deathbed Law Voided in Catalonia

Barcelona, Spain, Oct. 17 (AP).—A custom which for 1,100 years has prevailed in Catalonia has been abolished by the government of this autonomous region.

One of the kings of Aragon in the ninth century established the "sacramental testament," which made legal a deathbed trust outlined verbally to two persons who had previously taken oath, in a church, to carry out the provisions of the unwritten testament.

The other day an old man made such a will, leaving his humble fortune of 14,000 pesetas to a blind man. The Catalonian government agreed to recognize this will, then abolished the custom.

Apple and Pear Quota Increased by France

Paris, Oct. 17 (AP).—The French quota for imports of American apples and pears in the last quarter of 1933 was increased by the agriculture ministry today from 4,168 tons—the quota fixed earlier this month—to 5,554 tons.

Bank Acceptances Gain $21,137,073 in Volume

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—A gain of $21,137,073 in the volume of bankers' acceptances during September was reported today by the American Acceptance Council. The total outstanding on September 30 was $715,148,684, or $31,959,538 above the figure for September 30, 1932.

Import credit acceptances rose $8,342,865 last month to $94,863,184, while export bills were up $10,651,307 to $170,757,359.

Wisconsin Unemployed Work at Clam Fishing

Janesville, Wis., Oct. 17 (U.P.). Hundreds of unemployed men of Rock County found clam fishing for shell a lucrative trade this summer. After a closed season of 12 years, the waters of a number of streams were opened for clam fishermen. Unemployed men transported their families to the scene of operation and spent the summer there. The clams were taken to shore, where they were boiled in vats. The meat was sold to farmers for hog feed, while the shells sold to button manufacturers for prices ranging from $35 to $65 a ton, depending on the quality.

Wheat Climbs On Report of U. S. Buying

Other Grains Skyrocket as Market Becomes Buoyant.

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP).—Uncle Sam's powerful right arm reached out late today from Washington, and in less than one hour jerked wheat prices skyward 7⅞ cents a bushel. As a result, all other grain went skyrocketing, rye 9½ cents.

The sensational flight of grain values followed official announcement that the United States Government was buying wheat on a large scale for emergency food relief purposes.

Prior to this announcement, the grain markets were fluctuating violently, and had smashed the season's low price records for almost without exception every future delivery on the board of trade list of staples.

Rising Wheat Prices.

Rising prices for wheat and other grains as computed above were from the day's bottom figures, and were stopped only because the upsweep had reached the limit allowed for any overnight period, an average net gain of 5 cents a bushel for wheat, 4 cents for corn and 3 cents for oats.

The finish for each grain was strong at the day's top, with provisions up 20 to 50 cents, the latter also the maximum permitted.

Speculative buying which followed the news of Government purchases of wheat widened out to enormous proportions and was greatly accelerated owing to late unconfirmed reports that Washington would lend 80 cents a bushel to producers for wheat held on farms.

Source of Selling.

Semipanicky selling earlier ascribed in the main to Eastern holders had broken a brisk advance which started when trading began, and had hoisted wheat quickly more than 4 cents.

The initial advance was based largely on opinions of trade leaders that setbacks in grain values had been excessive.

Ensuing transient rallies from price breaks in wheat at this stage were promoted through buying for domestic millers, but an acute new sinking spell was witnessed about noon. It was at this juncture that definite word came telling of widespread Government wheat purchases for emergency relief.

Market Is Electrified.

The market consequences were electric, and during the remainder of the day buoyancy and waves of speculative buying orders formed the rule in all the pits.

Corn and oats were relatively stronger than wheat today during price breaks. The chief reason given was that corn had been pushed down to near an export level.

Suggestions were also heard that a leading speculator was taking a big hand on the buying side of the corn market.

France to Try Wheat Curb Under New Bill

Paris, Oct. 17 (AP).—Reduction of wheat production will be attempted by the French government through a bill approved by the cabinet yesterday.

The bill provides for a tax of 500 francs to the hectare (two and one-half acres), or about $8 an acre, on all wheat lands which have produced above the average for the last three years.

France's intention to reduce wheat production was made known in statements issued by representatives of the international wheat advisory commission last month at London.

Her plans to aid the international wheat recovery program by increasing consumption also were outlined in a report that was interpreted by experts at the meeting then as virtually removing her as a factor in the wheat exporting field for next year.

At the same time, German representatives assured the commission their country would follow plans to achieve a like end.

Industry Gains In 2d Quarter Laid to NRA

Prices and Wages Higher During Period; Rise in Employment.

New York, Oct., 17.—In the third quarter of 1933, the industrial gains recorded for the second quarter were expanded to impressive proportions. The success of the National Recovery Administration program and the definite progress made in the solution of other major problems combined to restore confidence on a National scale and to foster a vigorous renewal activity in the business community.

Prices, employment, and wages were advanced during this period, while industrial activity and sales broadened appreciably, and the volume of commercial liquidation decreased uninterruptedly.

These impressive gains have improved business psychology immeasurably, permitting confidence to replace the fear and apprehension which had been widely prevalent. More ground has been gained in the last six months than in any other similar period for a number of years, even though this strong, sustained recovery began with business dragging at the lowest ebb in nearly a century, according to the survey of industry for the third quarter of 1933, which has just been prepared by the Research Department of Dun & Bradstreet, Inc.

Seven Favorable Trends.

Seven outstandingly favorable trends reflected the progress of business during the third quarter:

1. Commercial Failures. Although the failure trend has shown continuous improvement since the third quarter of 1932, the declines in number and liabilities recorded in the third quarter greatly exceeded those of any other quarter of the period. The number of failures was reduced by 47.2 per cent and the liabilities by 58.6 per cent. The significance of the trend lies in the clear implication of steadily decreasing commercial liquidation, a development which has occurred at the beginning of every other major industrial recovery upon which statistical records are available.

2. Commodity Prices. During the third quarter the recovery of prices continued unabated, Dun's Index Number reaching $126,632, the highest point of the year, on October 1. This was a gain of 19.1 per cent over the comparative position of a year ago, and represented a rise of 27.4 per cent from the year's low touched on March 1. The average of prices of the third quarter was 19.9 per cent over the average of the corresponding 1932 quarter.

3. Wage Scales. The whole-hearted suport accorded the President's reemployment agreement and the specific NRA codes by industry in general resulted in a marked gain in salary and wage scales. In the second quarter of the year salaries averaged 20 per cent under those of the same period in 1932, while wages were 18 per cent lower. The third-quarter gains reduced these margins to 14 per cent for salaries and 17 per cent for wages.

4. Employment. Since the beginning of the deflation in 1929 employment has tended to decrease steadily and to remain well under the total of the year preceding. This trend was reversed for the first time in the third quarter of 1933, when the unemployed total for the period was below that of the same quarter of 1932.

5. Industrial Sales. Sales in practically all lines in the third quarter were substantially above those of the same period of the year preceding. This also was true of the second quarter, but the gains of that period were extended in the past three months and in the majority of instances the margins over last year were widened. Of the 25 industries, only 16 were above 100 per cent of the year previous in the second quarter, while in the third quarter the sales averages of 23 of the 25 were above those of the same period of 1932. The general average of all reported sales averages was 17 per cent over the third quarter of last year, whereas the second-quarter gain was only 14 per cent.

6. Industrial Activity. Coincident with the improvement in business fundamentals, industrial activity gained markedly. The Index rose to 72.7, a gain of 20 per cent, in the second quarter. The almost vertical rise was continued in July and August, when the Index reached 82.4, a gain of 36 per cent over the March position and 14 per cent above the June figure. The delayed summer recession, however, which appeared in September, carried the Index down to 72.2.

7. Bank Clearings. Another major commercial indicator, which previously had not risen above its position of a year earlier, is provided by bank clearings. For the first time in a number of months, clearings totals tended to average higher than during the year preceding. In the second quarter of this year the average of clearings totals was 20.6 per cent under the 1932 average. For the third quarter, the average was 4.1 per cent above that of 1932.

Copper Prices Decline To 7¾ Cents Pound

New York, Oct. 17 (AP).—Copper was reported available today at 7¾ cents a pound. This was a cut of ¼ cent from the last quoted price and a drop of 1¼ cents from the recently prevailing market. The metal was said to have been offered by one custom smelter.

The market has been unsettled during the last few weeks by code problems. Meager buying by consumers and the appearance of large quantities of scrap metal.

Abandonment Ordered For 21-Mile Railroad

(Associated Press.)

The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad Co. and the Little Kanawha Railroad Co. today were authorized by the Interstate Commerce Commission to abandon the 21-mile line of the Little Kanawha from Placid Station to Owensport, W. Va.

The abandonment was sought because the line was losing money.

Celebrities Hold Meeting; "Follies" in December; About Showshops.

It has already been reported here in what manner the membership of the newly formed Screen Actors' Guild in Hollywood remonstrated by wire with President Roosevelt in regard to including in the NRA code provision for the revamping of the salaries now paid the stars of the cinema.

It has remained, however, for Mr. Hubbard Keavy of the Associated Press, chief of this column's West Coast ear-to-the-ground department, to set forth in another wire, dated October 16, precisely what the conclave of players that adopted the resolution was like.

Mr. Keavy speaking:

"It was perhaps the most impressive cast ever assembled—but the performance was strictly private.

"It required a very personal matter—the fear that provisions in the NRA code might lessen their salaries—to bring a majority of the movies' greats and near-greats together in a Hollywood boulevard theater the other night.

"Had the public been allowed to attend this show, it would have seen on the stage such a cast as showmen dream about. The players in all the all-State pictures combined would scarcely equal it. In the audience there were hundreds of others, more or less famous, and scores of scenario and dialog writers.

Like Football Pep Talk.

"The meeting, which was climaxed by the reading of a telegram to President Roosevelt protesting proposals to control salaries in the movies, resembled a football pep rally. There was no organized cheering, but there was plenty of applause (one had only to take a bow to be applauded) and a great deal of spontaneous rooting.

"Eddie Cantor (who is president of the new Screen Actors Guild) was the interlocutor. His "end men" included George Bancroft, Paul Muni, Boris Karloff, Fredric March, Robert Montgomery and James Cagney.

"Next to the end men, in the dress circle, were the owners of many more expensive names, including Ann Harding, Miriam Hopkins, Jeanette MacDonald, Lola Lane and Mary Astor. Surrounding these were James Dunn, Ralph and Frank Morgan, Adolphe Menjou, Gene Raymond, Jean Hersholt, George Raft, Warren William and Otto Kruger.

"Unlike most assemblies called with serious intent, the gags at this one flew thick and fast. Cantor, of course, led the laugh brigade, but despite all the humor, the meeting had its serious note and ended with resounding applause when Eddie read the long telegram to the President. The fight to keep Hollywood salaries where they are was officially on."

Who Earns the Money?

Concerning these "headline salaries" we hear so much about, there is one thing to be borne definitely in mind and that is that the so-called "moguls" of the industry, who have the doling out of the pay envelopes to do, have not set these seemingly exorbitant salaries for no reason whatever.

If they have agreed to compensate the stars of the screen handsomely because their salaries represent only a fair percentage of the money they are able to attract to the box offices, then, its own precepts and purposes being what they are, there is little enough that the NRA can, in logic, do about it.

That, as a matter of fact, is the basis upon which the high-salaried stars are paid.

Now then, if motion pictures earn too much—and that as the lowest priced mass amusement there is—that is another matter. Penalty for that situation should not be assessed against the actors.

Or so it seems to this typewriter.

Pursuing the thought of meeting the requirements of the NRA one step further, it may be cited that the month of September marked the greatest activity among film extra players since 1926, according to a statement recently made by Jack L. Warner, screen executive and chairman of the California State NRA Recovery Board. During the month 39,762 extra placements were made and a total of $339,159 was paid for their services. Studios reported an increase of almost 100 per cent in September pay rolls over June, which marked the start of the NRA program. If it were to be discovered that any one of these extras was able to attract a million or two dollars a picture to the box offices of the land, what would his services be worth? We're asking you.

Line Forms on Right.

The National Theater will open its public box-office sale of seats tomorrow morning for the world premiere engagement, beginning next Monday night, of Maxwell Anderson's new play, "Mary of Scotland," which the Theater Guild is producing and the American Theater Society offering as the third subscription play of its present season.

An unusually heavy mail order demand for seats is reported by the management, which, at the same time, makes known that many desirable seat locations remain to be had for every performance.

Pulitzer Prize Author.

As has pretty thoroughly gotten around by now, Playwright Anderson won the Pulitzer prize last year with his "Both Your Houses," which, of course, would account for a considerable amount of the anticipatory interest, but much also no doubt centers in the fact that the cast is headed by Washington's own Helen Hayes, Philip Merivale and Helen Menken, all stars of the first magnitude, with Fritz Leiber, Stanley Ridges and numerous other Capital favorites in support.

One suspects that in "Mary of Scotland" Mr. Anderson is utilizing the further fruits of the research that preceded his writing of "Elizabeth, the Queen," one of Mary's ruling contemporaries and bitter enemies. If Mr. Anderson has done as well by the former as he did by the latter, that will be good enough.

Wallace Beery, it comes to light, after arriving in New York last Thursday on the S. S. Rex, started for Hollywood driving his own plane. At Santa Fe, N. Mex., Sunday he narrowly escaped serious injury and possible death when a high wind veered his ship and smashed a wing. He arrived unharmed in Los Angeles on Monday in a plane piloted by Paul Mantz, having been forced to leave his own in Santa Fe for repairs.

That Previewing Orgy.

The prevalent orgy of previewing came to a temporary pause in the Ambassador Theater yesterday morning when the Warner Brothers executives screened "The Footlight Parade," last of the Warner Brothers three big musicals, with James Cagney, Joan Blondell, Dick Powell, Ruby Keeler, Frank McHugh, Guy Kibbee, Arthur Hohl, Paul Porcasi, Claire Dodd and about nine million others in parts of prominence.

In its closing sequences, "Footlight Parade" dwarfs anything of the kind that has ever been attempted in musical fervor, pictorial splendor and the color and movement of its stupendous pageantry.

Its aquatic effects are the most amazing of anything in the picture. These unique and highly imaginative sequences reflect a prodigious amount of preparation and are unlike anything heretofore essayed by the cameras. The overhead shots of some of the water formations are extremely beautiful and surprisingly accurate in their geometrical designs—all formed by the female human figure.

These, is should be repeated, are the footages that comprise the latter half of "Footlight Parade." The first half seems to be given over to what amounts to a pictorial history of the trials and tribulations of Fanchon & Marco, or some comparable producing firm devoting its activities to the staging of prologues and stage unit shows for motion picture theaters.

Starts Slowly.

The action during this part of the goings-on struck this reporter as being repetitious, not overly interesting, tuneful or clever, and a more or less severe tax on the patience. Mr. Cagney, who roars about much of the time like an angry young man with a mouth full of hot potatoes, and Frank McHugh, who never before has seemed dull to these dispatches, get just a little annoying about the steenth time they go through the same routine. But, it should be emphasized again, this is only in the first part of the film.

When things really get going, things really get going. "Footlight Parade" then is a thing of vast beauty and a joy forever and everybody in it looks and acts like a million dollars—which would seem to be only a fraction of what the thing must have cost!

All of which serves as a reminder that changes continue to be made in the booking dates of the downtown, first-run picture houses. For example, "Footlight Parade" will not open with a special preview performance on Thursday night, October 26, as previously announced, but a week later, on November 2. "Beauty for Sale" is restored as the incoming attraction at Loew's Fox this Friday and will not be supplanted by Leslie Howard and Heather Angel in "Berkeley Square," as was threatened for a moment or two on Monday. "The Bowery," contrary to earlier plans will continue a second week at Loew's Palace, and "Ann Vickers" will not end its run at RKO-Keith's this Thursday night, despite the fact that it will have done eight days then. And that's the way it goes.

Dots and Dashes.

Odds and ends of this and that about the showshops: As intimated in this space days ago, there is strong likelihood that the Shubert production of Billie Burke's "Ziegfeld Follies" will play the National Theater in this city the week of December 4 . . . The booking, however, has not been definitely set as yet . . . The Max Gordon-Steve Cochran production of "Design for Living," starring Corinne Griffith and including Louise Harrison Gwynn and Bernice Bartl, of the Clifford Brooke forces, in the cast, is now in rehearsal in the Fulton Theater in New York . . . Max Gordon is in town, by the way, enjoying his production of Clare Kummer's "Her Master's Voice" and the flattering notices accorded the new play by the local press . . . Why not? It is a delightful evening in the theater . . . Col. Dean, retired, well-known man-about-town, raconteur and former showman, who used to make pictures himself out at Fort Myer when he was stationed there with the rank of captain, is a character in "Rodney," the RKO-Radio picture being made at the Army post now by Walter Huston and his company, under the direction of George Archainbaud . . . Why not sign Col. Dean on the dotted line to play himself in the picture? . . . The colonel made something like 40 films for the old Lubin Co. in his day—and Lubin's . . . "The Bowery," at the Palace, is running hundreds of dollars ahead of the box office record set by "Tugboat Annie" . . . And they thought "Tugboat Annie" played to all the customers the house would hold . . . Learn one thing each week! . . . "Ann Vickers" also smashed the opening Thursday attendance records at RKO-Keith's . . . Despite the fact that he plays the leading male role in it, Walter Huston has never seen "Ann Vickers" on the screen . . . Vincent "Tommy" Tompkins, manager of the Metropolitan Theater, was married to Miss Cornelia Woodward, of this city, last Monday and departed at once for a two months' vacation in Florida . . . And that is what they call "bronchial pneumonia," eh? . . . Big "Mitch" Lewis, one of the most popular screen "heavies" of an earlier day, returns briefly to prominence as the brutal jailer in "Ann Vickers" . . . Birdie Dean supplanted Marie and Antoinette in Jack Sidney's "Samples of 1933" revue the day before it opened at Loew's Fox and made her first appearance with the show here last Friday afternoon . . . Splendid acrobatic dancer . . . About the only reason being advanced locally for "Her Master's Voice" possibly not making a hit in New York is that it is too clever and too clean . . . And if that's flattering Broadway too much, it's just too bad and we're sorry!

Travel Note.

Yes, there was some thought here at one time of a possible trip to the Chicago World's Fair, but we bruised our thumb!

Film Pay Code Again Revised

Now Bars Unreasonable Offers, But Johnson Isn't Pleased.

The status of high salaries in Hollywood under the NRA was still uncertain yesterday after Deputy Administrator Sol A. Rosenblatt issued the third revision of the motion picture code.

This draft contained the provision under which producers could be fined $10,000 for offering "unreasonable inducements" to actors and actresses, despite the assertion of Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, chief administrator, that such a restriction would be illegal.

Gen. Johnson would not predict what would be done with the code if it were submitted to him with the proviso. The legal department, he said, had given varying opinions.

The third revision of the code contained few changes. It still included the protested check on competitive bidding by producers for a star's services.

Two new subdivisions concerned extra players and actors' agents. The first provided that extras should be paid for time spent interviewing prospective employers, whether hired or not, and the other authorized an "agency committee," composed of five directors, one agent, actor, writer, director, and technician, which would have power to regulate activities of artists' representatives.

Philadelphians Present Vivid Concert Here

Stokowski Wields Baton in Renditions of Famed Airs.

By Kay C. B. Brown.

With imperious Leopold Stokowski in his most commanding mood, the Philadelphia Orchestra gave its first Washington concert of the season last evening in Constitution Hall, presenting two works from the standard repertoire, Goldmark's overture to "Sakuntala" and Chaikovski's fourth symphony, and two novelties, "Concerto Sacro" No. 1, by Werner Josten, and "Yablochko," an excerpt from Gliere's "Red Poppy" ballet. An intent audience complimented conductor and players with more than one ovation.

The program opened with Goldmark's charming introduction to Kalidasa's poetic drama concerning the love, separation and reunion of Dushyanta, Lord of the Lunar Race, and Sakuntala, daughter of a nymph.

Outmoded though it may be, compared with later and more realistic evocations of the Orient, it retains its sensuous loveliness because it was written with sincerity. Here one finds no devices of tone-coloring for the sake of effect, but melodic beauty and richly embroidered harmony devoted solely to the telling of an emotional tale.

Clarity of Phrasing.

It was read with that pellucid clarity of phrasing to which we have become accustomed when listening to the Stokowskian touch upon his orchestral instrument. Nothing was blurred, and no accent went astray. It was the rehabilitation of a work which sometimes seems shabby when played in a perfunctory or indifferent manner.

A second hearing is needed for a full appreciation of Werner Josten's "Concerto Sacro," which has depths not easily penetrated at first. Only the first part of the composition was performed last evening. Inspired by Grunewald's triptych at Colmar, the work reverently tries to express the mysteries of Christ's incarnation, death and resurrection.

It is profoundly mystical in mood, and as baffling in its subtleties as a treatise by Thomas Aquinas. Modern harmonies are conservatively used, and the melodic themes are at times a bit Schoenbergian.

Inasmuch as the printed program made no mention of the fact that the composer would play the piano part, few of the auditors paid particular attention to the gentleman who came quietly to take a place in the orchestra. It was not until the conductor summoned him to the podium that the realization was met with a burst of applause.

Painting Provides Theme.

The painting which gave Mr. Josten the idea for his work is of the sixteenth century, and he has adroitly conveyed into music the naivete of the Primitives. This was especially noticeable in those passages descriptive of the Virginia Mary's slumber and her ecstacy before the Angel of the Annunciation.

Gliere's "Yablochko," or "Dance of Russian Sailors," is an exciting piece of rhythmic elaboration on a simple theme. Once a classicist, Gliere did not stand out against the Russian Revolution, but cut his cloth to suit that pattern. His "Red Poppy" ballet was for several years, and may still be for aught I know, one of the Soviet exhibits to prove that art and the proletariat go well together.

The latter half of the program was devoted to Chaikovski's fourth symphony, which is thrice familiar to us all, and calls only for the comiment that it was superbly played. The performance was a demonstration of virtuoso conducting and of wholly admirable response on the part of the musicians.

Don't let jangled nerves make childhood unhappy

When we suffer from jangled nerves we don't realize how harshly we speak.

We wonder why we lose the love and respect of those who are close to us.

That's the real danger of jangled nerves... the victim so seldom knows. And the more high-strung and alive you are, the greater the danger.

If things don't seem to be going so well—if money is on your mind—if you worry—then look out.

Watch your nerves. Get your full amount of sleep. Eat regularly and sensibly. Find time for recreation. And smoke Camels—for Camel's costlier tobaccos never get on your nerves.

How are YOUR nerves?
TEST No. 4

How long will it take you to get out of this maze? Take your pencil (sharply pointed)—start at the center, and move out... But do not touch any of the original lines... 40 seconds is considered excellent time.

Free Issue Of Transfers Here Sought

Approval of a system of universal free transfers for its car and bus lines was asked of the Public Utilities Commission yesterday by the Capital Transit Co.

The plan was formally submitted by John H. Hanna, president of the company, and will become operative at 12:01 a. m., December 1, if the commission approves. That time was fixed because it is then the new company will begin operations.

Transfers would be given free between all trolley and bus lines operated by the company. It would not, however, apply to the bus line operated by the Washington Rapid Transit or other companies.

Plan Being Considered.

A time limit of 1 or 1½ hours would be placed on use of the transfers to prevent use in round trips on one fare. The commission took the proposal under advisement.

Transportation companies in Washington carry an average of three persons every second, or 270,000 a day, John H. Hanna, president of the Capital Transit Co., told the Washington Advertising Club at a luncheon meeting yesterday.

Hanna, whose merged firm will serve the entire Capital area on December 1, belittled the idea that street car traffic was doomed because of the vast number of private vehicles.

Pledges Improvements.

He praised the past records of the Capital Company and the Washington Railway & Electric Co., but pledged further improvements in the service.

Hanna reviewed the history of the traction merger here.

"If the new company is to be successful," he said, "and is to be able to finance future extensions, credit will be necessary, and this credit will not be available until earnings are sufficient to resume dividend payments."

They are charged with accepting money intended for an insurance company from Couster McCullough, 30, colored, 236 Massachusetts avenue northeast.

Both were bound over to the grand jury in a lower Police Court on $500 bonds when they pleaded not guilty to violation of the insurance code.

D. C. Elopers Foil Detectives' Search

Parents Notified by Wire of Marriage.

Doris Burr, 16, thought to have eloped to Baltimore Monday night with S. Benson Walker, 19, Columbus University student, had not been located by detectives last night.

The young couple left Miss Burr's home, 142 Uhland Terrace, Monday night to go to school. When they did not return, Doris' parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Burr, became worried and were about to notify police when they received a telegram from Baltimore worded, "Married—Doris and Benson."

Walker's parents received a wire from the couple saying, "Have gone on a trip." The Walkers live at 6315 Fourteenth street northwest.

Farmers to Pass On New Milk Pact

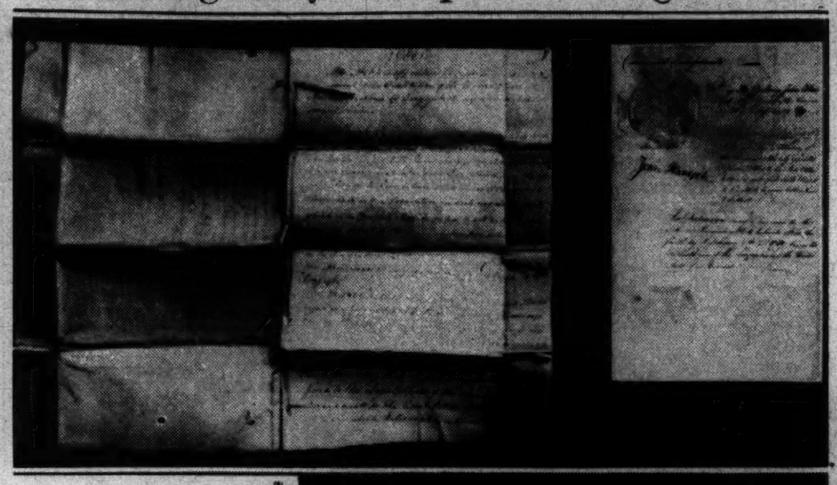
Producers' Association to Seek 3-Cent Increase.

The proposed milk-marketing agreement for this area will be submitted to dairy farmers before any formal action is taken by the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association, the board of directors decided yesterday.

The pact, which provides a 3-cent per gallon increase for milk, was explained by John McGill, secretary of the association. Distributors oppose the code, charging the increased price will entail a retail price boost.

Meanwhile Elwood H. Seal, special counsel to the Senate milk investigating committee, is preparing a list of witnesses, who will be heard when the committee resumes hearings Monday. The committee is seeking to determine whether a milk trust exists in the District.

Historic State Papers, Tattered and Faded, Telling Story of Republic, Being Restored



Documents Include Many Signed by First President.

Pressing Thin Silk Sheets Into Fabric Method Used by Experts.

Tattered, faded, worn—thousands of old State papers which recite the early history of the American republic are being restored by experts of the Government Printing Office as the documents are dug from the files of the Capital, the State Department and the Library of Congress.

Signatures which stud the history books are appended to many of the papers—George Washington, John Hancock, James Monroe. The first President's inaugural address, in manuscript, has just been restored and bound in a handsome blue leather book to itself. Monroe's message to Congress, in which he sets forth the Monroe Doctrine, has a similar binding.

The method of restoration is based on the system used in the British Museum and the Vatican library. Thirty years ago, when the first papers were repaired and saved for historians, employes of the Government Printing Office went abroad to study these methods. Since then the local experts have devised improvements.

Holes Are Filled In.

When the brittle, discolored papers are sent in for restoration they first are thoroughly dampened. This makes them pliable. Bits of new paper are fitted into holes in the originals, and the edges are protected with Japanese tissue.

Sheets of the finest and thinnest silk are employed. These are coated with paste and pressed on both sides of the document, which is then placed in a press for several days. So thin is the silk that it can hardly be detected when the restoration is complete. And so closely is it pressed into the paper that it actually becomes a part of the sheet, and keeps it from breaking.

See Long Service.

Luckily the ink used was made of nut-galls, and did not fade after the first few years. It assumed a sepia tone which is permanent. The characters on the paper are never retraced, no matter how pale the ink. To do this would impair the validity of the papers.

Experts in restoration are mostly bookbinders of long experience. Two of them work in the branch of the Government Printing Office which has been set up in the Library of Congress. Another works is in the office of James Preston, Librarian of the Senate. The work is tedious, and few men are fitted for it, Mr. Preston said. He himself has done some restoration, "but I'd hate to make my living that way," he declared.

While working with the documents and selecting those in the worst state of repair to be fixed first, Mr. Preston has become interested in the watermarks in the old paper. George Washington, he said, often used paper with his own watermark, but sometimes used commercial papers. Watermarks of the eighteenth century papers are many of them much alike. Nearly all use a figure within an oval frame, the oval surmounted by a crown.

Personal Papers Returned.

Official papers of many other Government officials are being bound in the restoration workrooms. When a President or public official dies, his family often sends crate after crate of correspondence to the Library of Congress. The purely personal papers are returned to the family, while the others are bound. In this way first-hand accounts of historical events, by men who took part in them, are preserved for historians.

Among the papers which have been restored or will be shortly is one dated 1790, in which the Maryland Assembly notified the State Department that it had ratified the Bill of Rights. Another, dated 1789, is signed by John Hancock as Governor of Massachusetts, and transmits the electoral vote in the first Presidential election.

Youth Found Bound Under Creek Bridge

Cries for help last night led to the discovery of an 18-year-old Central High School student, bound and lying in the underbrush beneath Sixteenth Street Bridge.

The youth, George Skilton, 1355 Parkwood place northwest, told police he was attacked by two men, dragged through the woods and tied. For more than an hour, he said, he lay under the bridge attempting to work a gag from his mouth.

"I left my home to visit the library before attending a fraternity meeting. The meeting was set for 8:30 p. m. I walked beneatth the bridge as a shortcut. I was seized by two men and dragged through the underbrush."

Lack of motive for the attack puzzled police. The youth said no attempt was made to rob him.

Skilton said he shouted for several minutes before he heard police tramping through the woods. When found, he was unable to move.

Believing Skilton was victim of a fraternity prank, police went to the home of Britton Poole, 4400 Fourteenth street northwest, where a meeting of Delta Sigma was being held.

Skilton is the son of Mrs. Caroline J. Skilton, an employe of the Internal Revenue Bureau.

John T. Thomas was elected president. Other officers are L. A. Dewey, first vice president; Earl W. Cooper, second vice president; Raymond Gable, secretary; A. D. Sartwell, financial secretary; George W. Potter, treasurer; S. Norman Otto, sergeant at arms.

James G. Yaden and Harvey O. Craver were named delegates to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

D. C. Auto Deaths Show Big Increase

Local Fatalities Gain as Nation's Ratio Drops.

Washington automobile fatalities increased sharply last year as compared with 1931, according to a Census Bureau report. Deaths from motor accidents in Washington and environs were 193 in 1932 and 165 in 1931.

More impressive was the fatality rate in proportion to population. The 1932 rate was 39.1 auto deaths per 100,000 population, against 33.6 in 1931.

Relief Aids' Pay Increase Held Legal

Comptroller Reverses Opinion Given October 2.

Comptroller General McCarl yesterday approved the disputed pay raises which had been given and taken away from Leroy S. Halbert, director, and 97 others on the District Emergency Relief Committee pay roll.

Salaries of the 98 were increased at the same time pay of 27 others was reduced and caused a dispute which brought Harry L. Hopkins, Federal relief administrator, and Alan Johnstone, field representative of the administration, into the discussion. The Federal officials were said to have warned relief officers funds would not be available if they were to be used for salary increases.

Several conferences ensued and officials explained they were trying to adjust relief salaries on the basis of those paid employes of the welfare board.

$600 Salary Increase.

Mr. Halbert's salary was increased $600 from $4,400 to $5,000 and varying increases and decreases were decreed for others. The decreases will not be affected by the new decision.

After citing relief act provisions, the Comptroller said "there is no requirement of law for applying the terms and conditions" of either law to salaries for relief works.

Reverses Old Rule.

The Comptroller at one time held the rule forbidding salary increases applied to relief workers as well as to other Government employes once pay scales were fixed. That decision was dated October 2.

The Commissioners cited the two decisions and said they understood what they had done before October 2 was legal.

"In the circumstances, your understanding, as stated in the last paragraph of your submission, appears justified," McCarl replied, thereby assuring payment of the increased salaries.

Pair Drives Off Truck; Radio Car Soon Finds It

Two young men jumped into a W. B. Moses Co. delivery truck yesterday while the driver was making a delivery in the 3600 block of Connecticut avenue, and dove away.

The driver, Henry Duncan, 1741 T street northwest, called the Eighth Precinct station and a few minutes later a radio car spotted the truck in the 2800 block of Tilden street. The two men leaped out and escaped.

Boy Runs Into Street, Killed by Automobile

Police said the boy darted into the street from between two parked cars and was struck by the machine of Floyd Carter, 32, colored, of 217 V street northwest.

Mother Will Not Part With "Jewels"

She'll Try to Keep Her Five Together on $18.48 a Week.

Because she believes her children are jewels, Mrs. Otto Kropp, 812 C street northeast, who offered two of her five youngsters for adoption through a newspaper advertisement, has decided to keep her family together.

"I seem to remember a lesson I learned a long time ago in school," said Mrs. Kropp. Her husband is a navy yard worker making $18.48 a week. "I was studying about Rome, I think, and there was a mother named Cornelia, who pointed to her sons and called them her wealth.

Won't Pawn Her Jewels.

"Well, times are hard, but these kids are my jewels. Some people pawn their jewels when they're up against it. But I'm not pawning mine."

Mrs. Kropp, who sat in a creaking chair in her four-room house, was surrounded by her daughters, Viola, 9, and Annie Laurie, 7, and her young son, Otto, jr., 5. In her lap sat Paul Edward, her youngest, 9 months old. The fifth child, Molly, 3, was taken away the other day by two women who promised to take care of her for a while.

Bible Is Her Only Book.

Otto, jr., was adopted for a few hours by a kindly Mount Rainier couple. But he refused to eat and cried for his parents, so they brought him home.

"You can't do much with the little money we have," asserted Mrs. Kropp. "Now, their shoes are old and wearing out fast. But I guess we can keep them on a diet of wholesome thoughts, snap beans and rice."

Mrs. Kropp pointed to a frayed Bible on the table.

"That's the only book in the house," she admitted. "Still, I read to them from it in the oil light every night. One book like that's enough."

Police Crash Anniversary on False Alarm.

Everything was lovely at the wedding anniversary party of Robert I. Miller, attorney, at 1314 Eighth street, last night when police sirens were heard.

Police, guns in hand, crashed the party and confusion reigned until the officers explained they were answering a burglar alarm. No one could be found who admitted turning in the alarm.

Miller and his bride of five years, Mrs. Margerate Kane Miller, were entertaining clergymen, lawyers, and newspaper men and had invited Police Chief Brown. The chief was unable to attend but sent a police stick as a present for the bride.

Boys Snatch Woman's Purse.

Miss Adele Brent, 1468 Belmont street northwest, last night told police her pocketbook containing $7 was snatched by two colored boys near her home. They escaped.

Mortgage Aid Plan Weighed By Treasury

O'Connor Will Pass on Action as Affecting Conservators.

Closed National Banks Would Be Permitted to Take Bonds.

A ruling giving conservators of closed National banks the right to accept bonds of the Home Owners Loan Corporation is under consideration by the Treasury Department, it was learned authoritatively yesterday.

Such a decision, it was pointed out, will bring relief to hundreds of distressed home owners who can not receive loans at present because their mortgages are in closed banks. An instance of this exists in Washington in the case of the United States Savings Bank.

Change of Opinion.

The conservator, Wilbur H. Zepp, it was said, refused to negotiate with the local Home Loan office in cases in which the bank held first mortgages on which home owners had asked Federal aid.

A change of opinion in the case of conservators is understood to be prompted by the hearty response given the recent decision to permit receivers of closed banks to accept home loan bonds.

As long as conservators are prohibited from accepting the bonds the work of refinancing impoverished homeowners will be greatly handicapped, it was observed by those close to the Home Loan Corporation.

Receivers were advised they could accept the bonds after they notified the Treasury Department that it would be for the best interests of their trusts in many instances to take this action. The receivers pointed out that the overhead expense in servicing mortgages was becoming too great.

Similar opinions are reported to have been received from a large number of conservators. Many home owners are in danger of losing their properties because the mortgages are in closed banks controlled by conservators, it was reported.

Saturday's Games Threaten to Deplete Ranks of Unbeaten Elevens

All Sections To See Big Battles

Princeton and Columbia, Yale and Brown to Clash in East.

Ohio State-Michigan to Meet in Big Ten Feature Game.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17 (AP).—Many of the gridiron's big fellows may know the worst by the end of this week.

The set-up for Saturday's major football warfare is such as to provide an extraordinary early season test of championship aspirations, especially in the East, the Big Six and the Big Ten. The ranks of the unbeaten should be substantially depleted by the time the tumult and the shouting dies down.

The answer to what Princeton's tiger is growling about, for instance, should be furnished by a well-drilled set of young men from Columbia, featuring Cliff Montgomery, one of the best all-around backs in the East. The news may be bad—for either side.

Tests for Harvard, Yale.

Simultaneously Harvard and Yale appear genuinely apprehensive over what their New England rivals, Holy Cross and Brown, will do to them. They should be.

In the Middle West, the twin scoring powerhouses of the Big Ten, Ohio State and Michigan, will crash together at Ann Arbor in one of those "even-money-and-take-your-pick" affairs.

The Wolverines had a two touchdown edge last year but they had Harry Newman, too, and the Buckeyes refuse to concede anything in advance on the record so far this fall.

Manhattan—Kansas, not New York—will be the scene of a struggle for Big Six leadership between Nebraska and Kansas State. It's an old country custom to pick the cornhuskers but this is another affair that can not be settled by conversation before-hand.

"Breather" Games Passe.

The conviction is spreading among the major colleges, especially in the East, that the come-back of the cash customers only can be stimulated by giving them their money's worth; in other words, by arranging schedules so that there is competition and natural rivalry from start to finish.

The set-up or "breather" type of football game is rapidly disappearing. In some sections, notably on the West Coast and the Middle West, it has been tossed out altogether. Southern California drew more paying customers for last week's battle with St. Mary's in the former Olympic Stadium at Los Angeles than several big Eastern schools will attract during the entire month of October.

"The answer," remarked an Eastern graduate manager, "is we must arrange our whole schedules on the basis of sticking to our class. Some exceptions are desirable, but the old idea of prepping for three or four big climax games in November is a species of financial suicide nowadays. Before long you will see the final development of a so-called Eastern conference consisting of eight or perhaps 10 of the leading colleges, all playing interlocking schedules."

Yale, incidentally, will play an all "big league" schedule in 1934, starting off with Columbia.

Spinner Plays Vogue.

This year's gridiron styles, most coaches agree, feature the spinner-type of plays, with variations to suit the particular tastes of coaches. Their development first was given impetus by Pop Warner's exhibitions with Stanford's manpower several years ago. They form a part now of nearly every successful offense.

While it is not necessarily revolutionary, Eddie Casey, of Harvard, has changed the Crimson's basic back field formations this season to the closed style, featuring spinners, instead of the old punt formation. Yale and Princeton long since have altered their whole football structure to meet the demands of the modern developments in tactics and strategy.

Before he died Knut Rockne joked about using a double spinner, from which a variety of plays spread, but it has become a serious feature of offensive play now, in the Notre Dame as well as the Warner systems. Jimmy Crowley, who did little if any spinning himself while riding with the Four Horsemen, now has his Fordham back field stars doing triple spinners.

Farrell, Ex-Michigan Track Coach, Is Dead

Ann Arbor, Mich., Oct. 17 (AP).—Stephen J. Farrell, 70, for many years coach of champion University of Michigan track teams, fell dead of a heart attack on the first tee of a golf course here today.

Giants Sell Grid Star.

New York, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—Red Russell, former Northwestern full back, has been sold to the Philadelphia Eagles, it was announced today by the New York Giants, of the National Professional Football League.

At the same time the Giants announced the purchase of Ollie Satenstein, 225-pound guard, from the Stapleton Stapes. Satenstein formerly was with N. Y. U.

Errant Prison Players Are Facing "Release"

Joliet, Ill., Oct. 17 (U.P.).—Incensed by a 20-7 defeat Saturday, Athletic Director Walter Nierstheimer, of Stateville Prison, today promulgated the following training rules for his football squad:

Violation of the rules, Nierstheimer said, will result in "immediate release (from the team)."

Passers Play Bridgeport Tonight

Invading Team's Roster Includes Lineham, Loeser, Kosky.

PROFESSIONAL bumps, thuds and bruises will be the offering at Griffith Stadium tonight when the Washington Passers, local pro football team, stacks up against the Bridgeport eleven under the lights. The kick-off is slated for 8:15.

The invading New England club boasts of a powerful team, built around several former college stars. Some of these well-known luminaries, who probably will start tonight, are Fred Loeser and Linehan, all-American Yale lineman; Ed Kosky, last year Notre Dame end; Don Armstrong, Dartmouth, and "Dutch" Reuter, Lafayette.

The Bridgeport players, who arrived in the Capital last night, have been playing great ball throughout the East, numbering among their opponents, Cris Cagle's Brooklyn Dodgers, which they held to a scoreless tie. The relative strength of the Passers and Connecticuts can best be determined by the fact that both elevens have met the Orange (N. J.) Tornadoes in early season warm-ups, which ended in scoreless draws.

No Serious Injuries.

The Passers have been hard at work throughout the past week, undaunted by the trouncing handed them by the Professional League-leading Chicago Bears. The club came out of the scrap with the usual bumps and thumps, but fortunately, with no serious injuries. Consequently, the Passers will take the field tonight with the same line-up that started against the Windy City outfit last Wednesday.

The probable starting line-up:

Bridgeport.	Position.	Passers.
Hammond, Nebr.	L. E.	Pease, Maryland
Linehan, Yale.	L. T.	Lee, Oklahoma
Wayland, Tenn.	L. G.	Benson, W. Md.
Reuter, Lafayette.	Center.	Scully, Fordham
Loeser, Yale.	R. G.	Zulick, Maryland
Loya, Quan. Mar.	R. T.	Slaird, Geo. Wash.
Hibbard, Lafayette.	R. E.	Mulvey, Geo. Wash.
Th'pson, Lafayette.	Q. B.	Bankhead, Texas
Hones, Wesleyan.	L. H.	Fenlon, Geo. Wash.

Maryland's Ring Candidates Work

Upward of 40 candidates for the University of Maryland boxing team started training Monday in preparation for the longest and hardest list of matches ever scheduled by the Old Liners. The squad again is being coached by Lieut. Robert (Jazz) Harmony, who is attached to the R. O. T. C. unit at the university.

Veterans of last season's undefeated team, around whom the first-string line-up is expected to be built, are Harry Carroll, Stewart McCaw, Lyman McAboy, Harold Burns and Edwards. Winners of last year's intramural contests also are being counted upon to add strength to the squad.

Training in fundamentals will be the program for the first two weeks, following which the team will get down to actual fisticuffs.

A freshman ring team also will be formed this season, and matches will be scheduled with yearling combinations of nearby institutions.

Varsity matches have been listed with eight strong opponents, in addition to the Southern Conference Tournament. The schedule, as announced by Manager James Crotty, is as follows:

February 2, Duke; 9, Rutgers; 17, Washington and Lee; 23, Southern Conference tournament.

Army Scrimmages In Rain for Illinois

West Point, N. Y., Oct. 17 (AP).—Army held one of its hardest scrimmages of the year in a heavy rain today preparing its defense for the major struggle with Illinois at Cleveland Saturday.

With only a short time left, Lieut. Gar Davidson decided to risk injuries to get in a stiff workout. The "B" squad, after several days of practice with Illinois plays, was able to gain ground consistently with passes and end runs. The defensive work of Joe Stancook and Tracy Brown in the back field and John Beall and Stacy Gooch in the line was outstanding.

Second Hole-in-One.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl).—John C. Pangborn, local manufacturer, shot his second hole-in-one in two weeks over the Fountain Head Country Club course Saturday, dropping a spoon shot from the No. 4 187-yard tee into the hole.

Sarron Wins From Burl By Rally

1,200 See Opening Card at Portner's; Davis Outpoints Genaro.

PETE SARRON pulled himself from the depths of almost certain defeat to eke out a close decision over his perennial enemy, Eddie Burl, before a highly excited crowd of 1,200 who witnessed the opening card at Portner's Arena last night. A 5¾ pound weight advantage aided the winner materially.

Sarron almost shot his bolt in the first round, catching the Florida featherweight with a right to the button that sent him reeling to the canvas out of a clinch. Burl arose groggy and with Leon Errolish legs, only to be wrestled to the floor again. Once again he rose and the Syrian windmill pummeled him unmercifully, but was unable to slip over the knockout. Burl rose without a count each time.

Pounds Feet on Floor.

After the round, Burl sat in his corner pounding his feet on the floor spitefully, meanwhile muttering half audible. He answered the bell for the second round with vim, vigor and vitality, wrestling his opponent to the canvas and almost through the ropes. A left hook to the body almost doubled up Sarron, who fought back with two beautiful rights that almost evened the round for him.

In the third round Sarron ran into a vicious left hook that sent him down for no count. He then ran into a flurry of body punches that almost had him out when the bell sounded.

Fourth Round Dreary.

The fourth round was dreary, with Sarron leaning against his opponent in an effort to wear him down. The fifth was even, with little actual fighting. In the sixth, Sarron's left hook, with which he almost invariably leads, did not find the target and Burl tied him up inside, throwing a stiff right to the body to wear him down to a walk.

Came the seventh, and Sarron, who seemed facing certain defeat, awoke with a vengeance. He showed all his old-time form, stinging Burl with unorthodox punches from all angles. There was little for Burl to do but cover up, which he did ineffectively. In the last three rounds Burl tried to cope with the fast pace his antagonist was setting, but was completely outclassed. Sarron weighed 127 pounds, Burl 121¼.

Roddy Davis Wins.

Roddy Davis turned in the best fight of his career against one of the best fighters he has met to outpoint Mickey Genaro decisively in an eight round semifinal. Davis worked beautifully at every department of the game to bewilder completely his experienced and cagey opponent.

In the fours Harry Groves decisioned Young Dizon, Sailor Larkin took a disputed award from Benny Mack and Joe Green scored a second round knockout over Ray Palicco.

Devitt Prep to Meet Bullis School Friday

Dick Turner's Devitt Prep footballers will play Bullis School Friday at 2:30 p. m. on the Monument Grounds. The game was arranged yesterday. The Devitt team has been slow in rounding into form, having dropped close battles to Emerson and Fork Union. Another local prep school battle that is building up interest will be played Friday. St. Alban's and Georgetown Prep clash at Garret Park, Md.

Maryland Rifle Team Prepares for Matches

Matches with Navy and Western Maryland will feature the schedule of the University of Maryland Rifle Team this season, according to Frank Ward, captain and coach of the Old Liners, who expects the Old Liners to make a fine showing on the range.

Most of last season's varsity riflemen are again at hand, together with members of the 1932 freshmen team. Proctice will start about November 15, according to Ward.

Blue Day Is Victorious After Limping to Post

Chicago, Oct. 17 (AP).—Blue Day went to the post limping in the top race at Sportsman's Park today, but the 5-year-old son of Whiskaway-Style, racing for A. G. Tarn of Canada, displayed more speed than any of his rivals and won the purse by one length over a heavy track.

Mohawks to Practice.

"Missing Men" of G. W. U. Return to Line-Up for Auburn Game Here

G. W. Is Fearful Of Auburn Passes

FACING its toughest and most ambitious assignment of the season thus far, George Washington devoted all of yesterday's practice session to hitting upon a defense strong enough to stop the fast and deceptive attack of Auburn. The teams clash Saturday at Griffith Stadium.

The Plainsmen have one of the strongest passing attacks of any team in the South. Against Georgia Tech last Saturday they completed 13 out of 20 passes for gains totaling more than 100 yards. "Firpo" Phipps, half back, who looks one way and throws the other with his left hand, is the central cog in the team's overhead game. Alan Rogers, his running mate, usually is on the receiving end.

Scrimmages Freshmen.

Yesterday George Washington's varsity scrimmaged the Freshmen who were armed with Auburn plays. The varsity used a 6—3—2 defense in successfully combatting their opponents' passes. "Zu Zu" Stewart came out of the line to help the secondary.

Using Notre Dame plays with plays from a punt formation, the freshmen had indifferent success. Herb Reeves succeeded in getting away for a long run on a spinner going off the weak side, but as a whole the afternoon was rather unprofitable for the yearlings.

Expect Good Showing.

George Washington will be better prepared for Auburn than it was for Alabama last year in a game it lost, 28-6. Alabama rates no higher than the Plainsmen, so the Colonials expect to make a good stand, possibly a winning stand, Saturday.

Seven players, regulars and first-string reserves, who watched the Clemson game from the sidelines, are being groomed for duty against the invaders. They are Don Bomna, "Nig" McCarver and Johnny Baker, regular back-field men; Hardy Deming, regular right tackle, and Chris Doose, Bill Wright and Phil Kline, reserves. Undoubtedly all will be used during the fray.

THE mystery of the "missing men" of George Washington's football squad—the seven stalwarts who were strangely absent from the Griffith Stadium gridiron last Friday night when the Colonials' record was smeared with a 0-0 tie by Clemson—is no longer a mystery.

Five back-field men and two linemen—all regulars—were withheld from the game by G. W. U. officers in a sporting gesture toward Clemson and in respect to the Southern Conference rule against the use of transfer students.

Minus the presence of an entire regular back field and two bulwarks in the line, George Washington was barely able to stave off defeat by Clemson, and indignant alumni, shocked at the failure of the Colonials to win by a decisive score, have stormed the G. W. U. athletic office for an explanation.

George Washington was not obliged to withhold the seven players from the game, and therein lies the sporting act of the Colonials. The men who were figuratively tied to the sidelines, Quarter Back Baker, Half Backs McCarver and Kline, Full Backs Bomba, and Baker, Tackle Pearce and Center Wright, could have been sent into the game without violating the Clemson-George Washington agreement.

Not in Game Contract.

Contracts drawn up for the game by the two institutions last December did not call for the contest to be played under Southern Conference rules that prohibited transfers. Each team was to respect its own eligibility code.

During the summer months, pressure was brought to bear upon Clemson in intraconference circles to cancel the game with G. W. U., even as North Carolina State had canceled a scheduled Thanksgiving Day clash with the Colonials.

Clemson transmitted to George Washington the ultimatum of the Conference to the effect that if Clemson played the Colonials, the South Carolina team would be dropped from the Conference.

Coach Pixlee, of G. W., in a pregame conference with Coach Jess Neely, of Clemson, the day before the battle, agreed that no transfer students would be used by G. W. unless "absolutely necesasry." Coach Neeley accepted the conditions in the knowledge that it might mean the loss of Clemson's Conference membership.

Punch on the Bench.

Thus, with George Washington within 2 yards of victory in the first quarter, and within 2 yards of defeat in the third quarter, and with no substitute available for one of his injured backs on the field, Pixlee steadfastly refused to send in the men who doubtless would have brought the Colonials victory.

No semblance of an alibi was offered by George Washington after the game. Colonial officials offered no explanations of the absence of the seven regulars, or attempted in any way to detract from Clemson's achievement. Southern Conference circles intent on discovering if G. W. U. violated conference rules precipitated the revelations.

Helen Moody Plans To Enter Tourneys

'I'll Play Again," She Says; Improving.

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (AP).—Helen Wills Moody, who defaulted to Helen Jacobs, of Berkeley, in the national tennis finals at Forest Hills, N. Y., and subsequently entered a hospital for treatment of a spine injury, announced today she would return to competition.

"I'll play tennis again," she said. "I'll play in tournaments and I'll try to win."

"It's good to walk again," Mrs Moody said, "even if I can go only a few blocks at a time. The fartherest I've gone so far is six blocks.

Mrs. Moody said she had received no offers to turn professional and had rejected a motion picture offer "because I am content to live as I do now."

Zaharias Seeks New Mat Laurels

The return engagement between George Zaharias and Gino Garibaldi, which occupies the center of the stage in the regular Thursday night rassle and razz program at the Auditorium this week, presents two of the best performers on the circuit which plays Washington.

Zaharias enacts his portrayals with the dash and aplomb of an Edward G. Robinson or George Bancroft. The performances of Garibaldi are tempered with just a dash of Ronald Coleman and Adolph Menjou. This week's engagement is the third between these two sterling performers.

Paul Boesch, the Robert Montgomery of the troupe, meets a newcomer to our footlights in the person of Herman Hickman, former Tennessee football star, in the semi-final. In the 30-minute time limit bouts, George Hill tackles Vanko Zelesniak, Jacques Humberto attempts to hurdle Casey Berger and Dick Shikat fumbles with Cliff Olsen.

Rain Postpones Tech Game To Today

Both McKinley, Roosevelt Sticking to Line-Ups First Announced.

ONCE again the skies frowned on the interhigh football series when early yesterday morning a drenching rain rendered the Central Stadium field, scene of the Roosevelt-McKinley Tech conflict, unfit to play on. Consequently, the game was postponed until this afternoon. The kick-off is slated for 3:30 o'clock.

Both squads, on fighting edge, had a light workout yesterday afternoon, and Coaches Hap Hardell, of Tech, and Lynn Woodworth, of the Ruf Riders, announced they will use the same line-ups as previously announced.

Beaten by Episcopal.

Hardell's club has defeated Baltimore Poly and Winchester (Va.) Handley in early season warmups, but lost to Episcopal, 6-0, at Alexandria last week. Roosevelt tied Emerson, 6-6, in its opener three weeks ago, a penalty ruining a possible win. Swavely and Gonzaga each ran up three touchdowns to shut out the Georgetown school in the last two battles, 20-0 and 18-0, respectively.

The scoreless tie played Monday between Central and Eastern, the two schools which the scholastic dopesters have been picking to oust Tech from its perennial roost, practically threw all hopes of either eleven to finish first in the District public high race.

10 at G. U. Report For Cage Practice

Team Facing Its Hardest Schedule in History.

The first faint rumble of the 1933-34 basket ball season was heard yesterday from the vicinity of Georgetown University, where Coach Freddy Mesmer issued his first call for candidates. Ten players responded.

Army, Navy, New York U., St. John's, of Brooklyn, Manhattan, Pittsburgh and Carnegie Tech are on the schedule, undoubtedly the hardest every attempted by the school.

Mesmer is optimistic about the future. He has Ed Hargaden, all-Eastern Conference forward, Jack Crowley, Bill Connors, Jerry O'Connor, Joe Crolliss and Charley Parcells back. All are lettermen. Up from the freshmen team are Jake Esenstadt, Johnny Breen, Tony Rinaldi, Bob Murre and Tom O'Connor, all promising prospects.

Yesterday's drill was restricted to calisthenics and fundamentals, a program Mesmer intends to follow for the next 10 days.

Pittsburgh, Oct. 17 (AP).—Gar Wood, speedboat king, predicted today that "perhaps next summer" Premier Mussolini of Italy will send a boat to America to compete for the international trophy.

This Morning

With Shirley L. Povich.

JONATHAN KINGSBURY ESPEY, the ensemble kid, whose business it has been to beat the publicity tom-toms in behalf of George Washington U. ever since he deserted the ennobling profession of sports writing, will have you know that this Auburn football team that is coming here this Saturday is nobody's push-over, or words to that effect.

Armed with statistics on the Auburn-Georgia Tech game of last Saturday, Espey invaded this department's sanctum last night, parked his hat and cane with the attendant, sunk to half his height on the thickly-carpeted floor, adjusted a baby blue tie that flared out of the folds of a baby-blue collar attached to a baby-blue shirt, cleared his throat and ascended the rostrum.

"Now, then," he began, "You'll see a football team Saturday in Auburn. Two football teams, I mean, Auburn and George Washington. You don't have to take my word for it. Be there Saturday. General admission .55 and $1, reserved seats $1.65, and upper boxes $2.20, including tax."

"They Got Everything."

He is still speaking. "They got everything, that Auburn team. Georgia Tech's supposed to be the coming champion of the South, isn't it? Well, look what Auburn did to Georgia Tech. First downs, 15 to 9 in favor of Auburn; forward passes completed, Auburn 13 out of 20, Georgia Tech attempted none. That's not half what happened down there last Saturday.

"Four times Auburn was inside Georgia Tech's 10-yard line. Auburn gained 271 yards from scrimmage compared to Georgia's 147. Does that mean anything to you? There's a lot of other evidence if you want it."

By the way, Jack, what was the score and who won the game?

"Well, now, Georgia Tech won, 16 to 6, but all the other figures were in favor of Auburn."

Passes Intercepted.

"That's not the whole story," says Espey. "Auburn was inside their 10-yard line four times, I tell you. Three times Auburn had passes intercepted near the goal line. Those are tough breaks.

"Right at the start, Georgia Tech gets a break when they score a safety on a bad pass from the Auburn center. They get a touchdown a while later when a pass is intercepted on the 1-yard line. Tech's second touchdown came on a pass deep in their own territory, when nobody was looking for it.

"The passer was rushed and he let fly with the ball with no aim at all. It fell into a Tech player's arms and Auburn defense men stood open-mouthed and let him run 60 yards for a touchdown. Auburn's got a great team, I tell you.

"You don't have to take my word for it. Take the word of Len Walsh, our assistant coach. He says Auburn's the best team he's seen this season, and Walsh knows his football."

Questioning of Espey developed that the teams Walsh had seen play this season were Catawba, North Dakota and Clemson—not a touchdown in a carload.

Reported Grid Strike At Howard U. Denied

Reports of a threatened strike among Howard University football players because of the absence of a training table and lack of proper equipment were ridiculed yesterday by Prof. Frank Coleman, chairman of the board of Athlete Control. Prof. Coleman pointed out that the National Collegiate Athletic Association and the Colored Intercollegiate Athletic Association, in which Howard holds membership, have outlawed training tables.

The lack of sufficient equipment was cause by an underestimation of the size of the squad by authorities responsible for ordering material, Prof. Coleman said, but new equipment has been ordered and will be available in a few days.

Capt. "Tarzan" Johnson of the team discredited the report that the team was ready to quit. Since losing its initial game to St. Paul's it is more determined than ever to redeem itself, he said.

Two New Faces in Catholic U. Line-up Against Chattanooga Here Friday Night

McGann and Finn Start In Game

Defensive Play Earned McGann Position as Regular.

TWO new faces will appear in Catholic University's starting line-up when the Cardinals clash with Chattanooga at Griffith Stadium Friday night. Tommy Finn will replace Tom Gearty at left halfback, while Harold McGann has supplanted Johnny Ball at left end.

Gearty is still nursing injuries suffered in the Holy Cross game two weeks ago and may not get into the game. His shoes will be ably filled by Finn, a polished performer. McGann's vicious tackling and better all-round defensive play have succeeded in ousting Ball from a regular position. Coach "Dutch" Bergman looks upon him as one of the most promising prospects he has uncovered.

Finn Expert Passer.

Finn will be a handy man to have around when the Cardinals unleash their passing attack. He hurls the ball far and accurately and is the best passer to wear C. U. livery since Tommy Oliver. It was passes from Finn to George Mulligan that resulted in the team's first two touchdowns against St. John's Saturday. This form of attack will be much in evidence against the visitors.

Chattanooga will have its full strength available for the game. The Mountaineers came out of the Oglethorpe encounter in good physical condition, although it was a bruising scuffle. Twenty-five players comprise the squad being brought here.

Five Star Players.

Coach "Scrappy" Moore has five outstanding players on his roster, men who are making a determined bid for honors in the Little Dixie Conference. Lou Ellis and Jim Haley, the ends, rank with the best wingmen Moore has coached. Capt. Dudley Merritt, tackle, and Billy Venable and Beurah McCall, backs, complete the quintet. Venable and McCall will give Catholic's secondary a busy evening.

The game will be Chattanooga's first night game of the year, but this is not expected to handicap them. The "Noogans" gave the Cards a hard-fought battle last year before succumbing, 19-0. This time they hope to balance the ledger.

N. E. Boys Club Plans For Basket Ball League

All those interested in entering teams are requested to get in touch with the business manager of the N. E. Boys' Club, 1663 Kramer street northeast, to file application. A meeting will be held in the near future to pass on applications.

J. C. C. Boxers Oppose Baltimoreans Monday

The Jewish Community Center Boxing Team, winners of the last District A. A. U. championship, will face an all-star team from Baltimore next Monday night at the J. C. C. gymnasium in a match that will be one of the high lights of the first anniversary of Post No. 38, Jewish War Veterans.

Following the boxing matches, a buffet supper will be served. Edward Rosenblum is chairman of the athletic committee.

Good Year Recorded By Dixie Pig Ball Team

Though failing to capture the Prince Georges County unlimited diamond championship for the first time in five seasons, Dixie Pig baseballers enjoyed one of their most successful campaigns. Their schedule was recently completed, following the trouncing of Washington All Stars, a leading colored combination, in two straight games.

The Dixies won the title in the Industrial League than annexed the championship in the Government League play off. Other notable victories were scored over Front Royal, Va., All Stars, Middleburg, Va., A. C. and the Frederick, Md., Elks' nine.

Hyattsville All Stars handed the Dixies the defeat that cost them the Prince Georges crown.

British Sportsman to Enter Yacht in American Cup Race

LONDON, Oct. 17 (AP).—Thomas Octave Murdock Sopwith, British sportsman and airplane manufacturer, today took up the task of regaining the America's Cup where Sir Thomas Lipton dropped it and filed a formal challenge for 1934 for the most famous of yachting trophies.

With a new all-steel boat now under construction and aptly named the Endeavor he will come to the United States next year to race the pick of America's yachts for the "battered old mug," which Sir Thomas and other British yachtsmen vainly have sought possession of since 1850.

Official announcement of the challenge was made by the Royal Yacht Squadron, original donor of the trophy and of which Sopwith is a member. It will be filed with the New York Yacht Club, which holds the cup under a perpetual deed of gift from the men who won it in 1850 at Cowes and gave to it the name of their boat, the America.

The Endeavor is being constructed at Gosport by Nicholson & Ganper from a design by Charles Nicholson, who drew the plans for two challengers, Shamrock IV and V.

Little has been divulged as to the design except that it will be of all-steel construction along the lines of the all-steel Valsheda, owned by W. L. Stephenson and which raced successfully at Cowes last summer.

Sopwith is noted principally as a builder of airplanes and a pioneer flier, but he has been racing yachts successfully for several years, first attracting attention in 1928 with his Mouette, with which he won many races.

G. U. Gridmen In Strenuous Workout

Hagerty Drives Club for Clash With Western Maryland.

GEORGETOWN'S squad skidded and splashed through a strenuous two-hour workout on the submerged Hilltop field yesterday in preparation for Saturday's game at Baltimore with Western Maryland. While the varsity men scrimmaged the freshmen pored over Western Maryland plays which they will use in scrimmage today.

Coach Jack Hagerty lectured the squad prior to the drill. He took for his text poor tackling, beginning with the first period and ending with the half in the Manhattan game; and lack of drive in the line, from the same periods.

"I didn't know whether you fellows were trying to do a dance or get your arms broken off," he said. "Don't tag the ball carrier. We're not playing touch football. I want you to get in there and tackle 'em, tackle them with both arms and bring them down."

Players Show Pep.

Hagerty put his teachings to practical use in the scrimmage. The men lunged at one another with enough vigor to put the entire squad on the casualty list which now consists of Callahan and Paul Saur.

Steve Barabas, full back on the teams of 1927, '28 and '29, under Lou Little, has signed as assistant coach of the freshmen. He will coach the backs.

Western Maryland will be well prepared for its tiff with the Blue and Gray. A small but capable squad has been molded into a formidable machine by the veteran Dick Harlow. Three men who made the all-Maryland team last season, Al Sadusky, tackle; Jimmy Dunn and Bill Shepherd, backs, are on the team.

Capital Boys to Play.

Three Washington boys also will show with the Terrors. Frank Cumberland, Central High School's line-crashing full back of two seasons ago, and Jim Draper, who occupied the same berth on the Western High School team of the same season, are the most prominent. Jim Woodbury, who matriculated at a local prep school, is subend.

The rivalry between Western Maryland and Georgetown has been very strong since 1929 when the former upset the Hoyas, 7 to 0, in an early game. Western Maryland made it two in a row the following year with a 10-to-0 victory. Georgetown evened matters somewhat in 1931 by tripping the Terrors, 25 to 7, thereby snapping a winning streak that extended over two years.

Hitting the Headpin . . .

"OUNCIE" HARRISON, youngest of the three Harrison brothers, who have been pounding the maples with great consistency the past few years, is making his debut in the District League this year. Ouncie, leading off for Arcadia, started with a 387 high set against the Lucky Strike. His other sets were 392, 378 and 345. Experts are of the opinion that Harrison will finish the season with an average of 118. Ted Widmayer, another member of the same team, also making he debut in the big time, is a leading factor in the Arcadia's early success. He carries an average of 117 for four sets.

Irving Billheimer (Joppa) captured individual honors in the Masonic League at the Convention Hall alleys last night, rolling 145 and 387. Lafayette, with 608, too high team game. Centennial's 1,695 carried away high team set, the fourth highest set of the season.

Ninth Street Church No. 1 stole the show in the East Washington Church League, rolling a high team game of 595 and taking high set with 1,664. Jimmy Roy's 414 set was a leading factor. Lee Lamp (Centennial) shared individual honors pounding out a high 149.

The Occidental team journeys to Baltimore this week to resume the 10-game series with the Lexington aggregation. The restaurant team has a lead of 52 pins gained at Convention Hall last week.

Bagley's 123 game and 314 set led all other competitors in the Ladies Eastern Star League at the Lucky Strike alleys. The Ruth team had 519 and 1,472.

In the Off the Record League Sutphin's 139 game and 363 set took high individual honors for the night. A 553 game and 1,582 set rolled by the General Accounting team carried away all team honors.

The Week Dome Oil Co. team of the Takoma Duckpin Association League bumped the Seal Construction Co. aggregation for three games at the Takoma Park Alleys. The powerful Fruit Growers Express Co. took the set from the Takoma Park Postoffice. The Dome Co.'s set of 1,659 was high. Barurst, of the Fruit Growers, took individual set honors, tumbling 367 pins.

In the Washington Ladies' League at the Columbia alleys the El Gees, league leaders, took three games from the Emanons. This made their twelfth straight victory since the opening of the season. In the other matches Columbians took three from Barristers; Nomad won two out of three from Vee Bees; Beeques took the odd game from the Cardinals and the Colonials led the Shamrocks with two victories to one loss. Edith Actin's 130 game and 340 set led the league for individual honors. Administrative's 510 team game and Sales Tax's high team set of 1,402 carried away all honors in the Internal Revenue Ladies League. Catherine Kelly captured individual honors with 133 and 315.

Martha Kaussman (Incarnation) toppled the maples for a high 150 game in the Ladies Lutheran League at Arcadia. She also took high set with 351. Takoma and Trinity's 500 and 1,410 led all high-team games and sets.

The Incarnation team of the Men's Lutheran League took high team game honors at the Arcadia Alleys with 595. St. Paul No. 1's set of 1,622 was high for the night. Scrivener's 140 game and 362 set showed the way for individual honors.

Doyle (Ambassador Laundry) game of 149 led all others in the Colonial Heights League at Arcadia while Barry of Independent Laundry captured high individual set with 362. High team game and set honors were taken by Highway Engravers & Construction Co. with 563 and 1,670, respectively.

Indian Spring Club Custodian Expires

A pall of gloom was cast over the Indian Spring Country Club yesterday, when members learned of the death of Cliff Wright, veteran custodian of the locker room. Wright died at Garfield Hospital Monday night, following an illness of several weeks.

Wright had been with the club for the last 12 years, and was one of Tom Moore's first employes when he laid out the course. Until he became indisposed several months ago, Wright had been an ardent golfer, himself, and was known by the players as the "inventor of the hand mashie." This title fell to him a few years ago when he threw a ball out of the trap into the hole after failing to get out in several shots.

Running like a rabbit is Maury Van Vliet, diminutive Oregon half back. His flight seems well advised for he is about to be smothered by a mountain of a man named Ted Isaacson, ponderous Washington player. Van Vliet eluded the giant for a substantial gain. The two teams clashed in Seattle and Oregon won, 6 to 0.

Favorites Win Mid-Atlantic Matches

RICHMOND, Oct. 17 (AP).—Impressive victories were won today by three of the favored players in the first round of match play in the Women's Midatlantic Golf championship being played over the James River Course of the Country Club of Virginia.

Virtual walk-away wins were made by Mrs. H. C. Kersten, of Richmond; Mrs. E. Boyd Morrow, of Baltimore, and Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, of Washington, the defending champion.

In another feature match, the diminutive Lily Harper, sister of Chandler Harper, Virginia amateur champion, made a beautiful par 4 on the nineteenth to win 1 up from Mrs. J. Thomas Priddy, Richmond City champion.

This was the only match that resembled an upset, although the 103-pound Portsmouth girl had given ample warning.

Maryland to Have Full Strength for Game at Lexington.

WALLOWING in the mire of defeat with two straight losses charged against it, Maryland yesterday began the laborious task of reinforcing its crumbling offense for the approaching game with Virginia Military Institute at Lexington. The entire session was confined strictly to a new attack designed to penetrate enemy territory more successfully.

A predominance of green talent, attested to by the presence of six sophomores on the first team, necessitated concentration on defensive work earlier in the season. But, even though the last two games were lost, the coaches now believe the players far enough advanced in this department to devote the major portion of their time to the attack.

At Full Strength.

Maryland's squad is at full strength for the first time in several weeks. Sam Silber, reserve guard who sprained an ankle two weeks ago, is back and will see heavy duty. Ed Minion, tackle, played the entire Tulane game with a broken hand and committed himself with honors. Willis Benner, halfback, twisted an ankle in the Tulane fray, but will be ready for action today.

Virginia Military Institute's record for the season is a poor one. The Cadets have not scored in four games, losing to Emory-Henry, Duke, Army and Davidson. It will be the underdog against Maryland, but may surprise the Old Liners.

Many new faces will be seen in the line-up at game time. Phil Rutschow, end, and Felix Feamster, tackle, will be among the newcomers. Although only 19 years old, Feamster is considered a fine prospect. He tips the beams at 190 pounds and is 6 feet, 2 inches in height. Rutschow is a 153-pound end, but a demon on the defense. His work against Davidson was nothing short of brilliant.

Edgar Ford's 63 Tops West Potomac Golf

A. Y. Hesse, with 66, is second; Ford, with S. C. Wimsatt, veteran defending champion, in third place with 69. Herman Allen and J. E. Messick, two of the favorites, are expected to qualify before next Monday, the deadline for posting medal scores.

In the ladies' tournament, Ellen Kincaid, 13-year-old star; Hope Wilkinson and Rovine Woliver are expected to qualify this week.

Bazaar and Willet Win Outstanding Laurel Races Over Muddy Track

Bradley Star Wins in Mud Handily

Willet, Outsider, at $46, Beats Hindu Queen in Second Mile Event.

YESTERDAY'S feature race at Laurel was two races. The Charlotte Hall, intended as the outstanding race, drew so many starters that it was divided into two divisions. Both halves brought their surprises. Bazaar, which couldn't run in the mud, won the first division, and Willet, which couldn't run at all, won the second division. Bazaar, consensus of consensuses before the track was rendered gooey by Monday night's rain, closed at 7-2 instead of the 3-5 expected had the course remained fast.

Don Meade had the mount on E. R. Bradley's daughter of something or other and the filly, that couldn't run in the mud proceeded to slop along in front in the mile contest. There were a lot of changes in the order behind her, but none that threatened to dislodge her. Dusky Princess, a slow beginner, did much running after turning into the stretch, but it gained her only second money. Brown Witch also ran in spots and wound up with a death grip on third money.

Willet Pays $46.20.

In the second division, Wise Daughter was played more than the East Potomac golf course. She flattered her backers at the clubhouse turn and then flattened them on the swing for the stretch. Willet had been running second up to this stage. Jockey Bellizzi then gave the signal and it was full steam ahead for the daughter of Dunlin. She slipped and slid out in front. Then came Hindu Queen. Joey Renick was beating a tatoo on her flank. She worked up on the flying Willet, but the latter and Bellizzi had one punch left, and it was enough to take the race by a head. Rhythmic floundered into the show position.

Sun Monk sank below even money on the odds board while the bets were being shaken down in the machines and then came from far back to beat a tiring Troyer by a length. Knight of Old was third. Troyer appeared to be running away with the race at the stretch turn, but Sun Monk came around with a burst of speed that settled the issue. The win mutuel was $4 and no cents.

General Lejeune Wins.

The second race found General Lejeune at home in his mud. He made every post a winning one with Henry Cruz in the saddle. The Capital boy was riding his second winner of the meeting. Aegis was second and Mountain Elk was third. The race was marked by mishap when Bright Bird went up in the air soon after the start and tossed Johnny Renick out into the mud. The boy was as good as new after a bath. The General rewarded with an $8.20 mutuel.

Another mud-runner did his stuff in the third race. Flamborough never defeated on this track, came around Chat Eagle and Everfair to win handily. Chat Eagle did all the pacesetting until the son of General Lee, ridden by R. Fisher, picked him up in the stretch.

JAMES IS STILL ON THE JOB.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

A miskicked drop kick that bounded along the ground, then jumped erratically and bounced neatly over the goal, clearing the cross-bar by a yard, won for Princeton the Dartmouth game of 1911. It was the only score made and was kicked by Wallace De Witt.

The ball barely cleared the line of scrimmage, then struck the ground and bounced along and over end right up to the Dartmouth quarter, but as he reached for it a high bounce sent the ball over the crossbar. Not sure that the play was completed, the Dartmouth quarter ran behind the goal and fell on the ball. He was tackled by Princeton players for what would have been a safety had not the referee ruled the field goal valid.

Several witnesses to the strange play assert that Llewellyn, the Dartmouth quarter, actually got his hands on the ball before it bounced away from him to clear the crossbar. It is possible that he gave it the little boost that put it over. The rule quoted by the referee in making the decision was:

"A goal from the field is made by kicking the ball from the field of play over the cross-bar of the opponents' goal in any way except by a punt or a kickoff. If the ball passes directly over one of the uprights, or if after being kicked, it strikes an opponent and then passes over the cross-bar or one of the uprights, it shall count as a goal.

Tomorrow: A poem about nothing.

Monty M, 107 (Arcaro) .. 7.66 4.06 3.28

Two-dollar mutuels paid—SUN MONK, $4.00, $2.20, $2.20; TROYER, $3.00, $2.80; KNIGHT OF OLD, $3.20.

SUN MONK, outran for the first half mile, worked his way into contention on the outside, wore TROYER down when midway of the home stretch and came out gradually at the finish. TROYER sprinted into a long early lead, showed good ability in the going, but tired under punishment in the closing furlong. KNIGHT OF OLD, hard ridden from the start, came again during the final stages. BE SHY, stoutly handled, tired after reaching the front stretch. PLAIN ACE weakened after five furlongs. The others were never dangerous.

SECOND RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:01. Off at 2:02. Winner, C. C. Smithsc.'s br. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—GENERAL LEJEUNE, $8.20, $3.80, $2.20; AEGIS, $3.80, $2.40. MOUNTAIN ELK, $2.20

GENERAL LEJEUNE, sulted in the footing, sprinted into an easy lead directly after the start and was kept under pressure and held away in the finish. AEGIS, in hand for the first half mile, was placed to punishment, but could not threaten the winner. MOUNTAIN ELK, rushed to the leaders on the inside midway of the back stretch, weakened steadily under severe urging in the last five sixteenths. FLAG TRICK and CHLOEDAIR were outrun. BRIGHT BIRD slipped and unseated his rider after the break.

THIRD RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 2:30½. Off at 2:32½. Winner, J. J. Moran's ch. c. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FLAMBOROUGH, $5.40, $3.80, $3.00; CHAT EAGLE, $8.20, $4.20; EVERFAIR, $3.00.

FLAMBOROUGH, taken out into the better footing when reaching the back stretch, moved up strongly approaching the home stretch, wore CHAT EAGLE, ruled in front at the end. CHAT EAGLE, rushed in front at the start and was kept close to the pace and saving ground wherever possible, continued gamely when placed to punishment. EVERFAIR went forwardly placed and was easily best of the others. HELEN'S ALIBI was unable to threaten at any stage. POST BRIGADE could never enter a forward position. LONE HAND raced in dull fashion. KINDACORN did not appear to favor the footing.

FOURTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800; allowances. The Charlotte Hall (first division). For fillies, 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:00½. Off at 3:02. Winner, E. R. Bradley's b. f. (2), by Tetratema—Silver Rae. Trained by H. J. Thompson. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24, 0:48 3-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:42 2-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—BAZAAR, $8.80, $5.40, $3.80; DUSKY PRINCESS, $8.20, $6.80; BROWN WITCH, $3.80.

BAZAAR outran her field to the first turn, displayed good ability in the going after reaching the back stretch, opened up a safe lead entering the home stretch, but was vigorously handled nearing the finish to resist DUSKY PRINCESS. Latter, slow to settle in her stride, responded with a belated rush in the final furlongs. BROWN WITCH, in the first flight from the beginning, weakened after a stout effort midway of the final turn. JABOT did not favor the footing and was never a serious factor. TIME OFF saved ground when moving to her field, but sprawled all during the final stage. AUNT FLOR was used up in the first six furlongs.

FIFTH RACE—One mile. Purse, $800; allowances. The Charlotte Hall (second division). For fillies, 2-year-olds. Start good from gates. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:31. Off at 3:37. Winner, Brookmeade Stable's b. f. (2), by Dunlin—Melrode. Trained by R. A. Smith. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:23 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:14 3-5, 1:43.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—WILLET, $46.20, $15.00, $7.00; HINDU QUEEN, $5.20, $4.00; RHYTHMIC, $3.80.

WILLET, following in nearest attendance of WISE DAUGHTER, displaced the pacemaker when coming through on the inside at the stretch turn, was placed to strong pressure and just lasted to stall off HINDU QUEEN. Latter, badly outrun for the first six furlongs, swung around her opposition and came determinedly at the end. RHYTHMIC, racing wide in the early stages, saved ground entering the home stretch, but weakened during the final furlong. FLABBERGAST closed an immense gap after being slow to settle in her stride. WISE DAUGHTER, steadied in front, flattened out badly in the last quarter mile. KANAL was eased when beaten.

SIXTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won handily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:05. Off at 4:07½. Winner, S. S. Friedlein's b. c. (3), by Catalan—Brilliance. Trained by G. Travis. Value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25. Time, 0:24 2-5, 0:49, 1:14 3-5, 1:43 3-5, 1:48 1-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STANDOUT, $9.80, $4.40, $2.60; WAR PLANE, $4.00, $3.00; RESERVIST, $2.80.

STANDOUT, going under stout restraint for the first six furlongs and racing in improved fashion, disposed of WAR PLANE without effort when midway of the final turn and finished with much in reserve. WAR PLANE, taken into an easy lead at once, raced in hand until challenged and then continued with good courage. RESERVIST was never able to better his position. UNCLE DONALD lacked speed and was never a factor. GLORITONE disliked the footing. BRIAR BLUE was done after five furlongs.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Purse, $800; claiming. For 4-year-olds and upward. Start good from gates. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 4:35. Off at 4:39½. Winner, F. Expert Evidence.

The expert testifies in court that Jimpson forged some fellow's name; and Jimpson, that unhappy sport, acquires a most unpleasant fame. He also draws ten years in jail, he's fined, perhaps, a thousand bones, and no one listens to his wail, and no one heeds his dismal groans. His innocence he still proclaims, he never forged or bilked or stole; but experts, skilled in subtle games, declare his talk a rigmarole. When he has partly served his term his innocence is brought to light, and for a while the experts squirm, explaining things by day and night. The storied case of Adolf Beck is often told in court and mart; the experts smote him in the neck and spoiled his life and broke his heart. The layman has but little use for experts in the courts of law, and all the lore they can produce seems indecisive, vain and raw. One expert swears that white is black, according to the way he's hired; another expert, hitting back, asserts such piffle makes him tired. For all men know that black is white, if, peradventure, it's not gray; and so they wrangle with delight, and fool the priceless hours away. The weary jurors try to snatch some sense from what the expert tells; it drives them to the booby hatch, it sends them to the padded cells.

Maryland's Chestnut Trees Begin to Bear

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—Washington County reports a chestnut crop for the first time since the blight wiped out chestnut trees in the mountains in western Maryland some years ago.

Accident Death Theory Gaining In Long Probe

Newsboy Left Collection Book at Home, Police Detectives Note.

Circumstantial evidence has been uncovered by detectives of the homicide squad tending to show that Francis Long, 13-year-old Post carrier boy, was the victim of an accidental drowning.

When he left home October 10, the boy told his parents that he was going to collect on his route. Yet, detectives pointed out, he left his route book and receipt card at his home, 1313 Tenth street northwest.

A recheck in the vicinity of Washington Channel, where his body was found Sunday, disclosed that the overturned canoe found nearby was discovered at 8:30 Tuesday night, a few hours after he left home. It was first reported the canoe was found Thursday.

Detective Sergeants Jerry Flaherty and John Wise announced they had learned that Francis spent considerable time in the Monument Grounds, not far from Twelfth and Water streets, where his body was found.

The canoe had been stolen from the Floodgate Boathouse near Fourteenth and Water streets.

Believing that some other boy accompanied Francis, and is afraid to talk, the detectives yesterday began a canvass of students at the Immaculate Conception School, where Francis was a student.

An autopsy, performed by Deputy Coroner Christopher J. Murphy, showed death was due to drowning. There were no marks of violence on the body. An inquest will be held when the police investigation is completed.

War Story Excites Papers in China

Russians Bomb Japanese, Two Cities Are Told.

Peiping, China, Oct. 17 (U.P.).—An aerial bombardment of Changchun, capital of Manchukuo, by Soviet airplanes was reported in extra editions of the Chinese press in Peiping and Tientsin today. The reports were unconfirmed.

The report also was published in the White Russian newspaper Nasha Zaria, in Tientsin.

U. S. Bridge Experts Aroused As English Ban Slam Coaxing

Culbertson Cables Protest When Club Bars Bids He Invented.

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Bridge experts here agreed today there is no chance of Americans barring the fascinating ace-showing in slam bidding, as the Portland Club in London is reported to have done.

Ely Culbertson said he had cabled protest to the Portland Club.

"I am astonished," said he, "at the decision and hope it has been misinterpreted."

The bids were devised by Culbertson.

The storm began brewing when English newspapers discussed the ethics of the four and five no trump conventions. Such bidding enabled an American team to defeat two British quarters in July.

The storm broke today when the London Evening Star published that the Portland Club had barred ace-showing.

The club refused to confirm the statement.

Shepard Barclay said ace-showing was not unethical. Hal Sims, of Deal, N. J., said ace-showing had been played generally and that he played it, but believed the English had "something to stand on."

Hospital Club Plan to Start Here Dec. 1

Every eligible hospital in Washington, except Casualty, formally has accepted the plan on group hospitalization and the social experiment designed to benefit the middle class is expected to be in operation within two months.

Joseph H. Himes, chairman of the committee on group hospitalization, yesterday announced Garfield and Sibley have joined, as disclosed in The Post several weeks ago, along with Emergency, Columbia, Episcopal, George Washington, Georgetown, National Homeopathic and Providence.

Casualty was belatedly invited, Himes declared, but has not replied.

A committee of incorporators, consisting of himself and eight representatives of employers, medicine, hospitals and the public, will be named this week-end, Himes said. The corporation will operate on a nonprofit-making basis.

Individuals subscribing for group hospitalization would be entitled to 21 days' care a year, according to tentative plans, paying about 75 cents a month as dues. Such patients would be accommodated in rooms with two beds or semi-private ones.

Group hospitalization was indorsed at the recent convention of the American Medical Association and already is in practice in a number of cities. Himes, who is president of Columbia Hospital for Women and a former member of Congress from Ohio, declared Washington hospitals have responded in greater numbers than any other municipality, with the exception of Newark, N. J.

Holding that the wealthy can comfortably afford hospital attention and the indigent are taken care of by charity, supporters of the reform claim it will assure hospitalization for the average wage earner. Himes said he expects the plan to be in operation about December 1.

Court Awards Total $237,961

Default judgments aggregating $237,961 were returned in favor of Robert C. Baldwin, Commercial National Bank receiver, yesterday in District Supreme Court.

R. Golden Donaldson, former bank president, was held in default on a 100 per cent assessment of his stock. This assessment totals $125,700. Also, he was named in two suits on notes aggregating $92,584 which were allowed to go by default.

Edward C. Furman, Woodley Park Towers, assessed $5,000 on 50 shares of Commercial stock; William W. Anderson, the Highlands, assessed $6,000 on 60 shares of stock, and Robert E. Heater, Colorado Building, who was sued on a note for $8,677 were named in default judgments.

Sororities Pledge Girls.

Two Washington girls were pledged at Cornell University yesterday. Jean Thompson, 3101 Eighteenth street, was pledged to Delta Gamma, and Shirley DeVoe, 136 Washington avenue, was taken by Sigma Kappa.

Dewey's Vault Removal Hit By Navy Man

Officer Scores U. S. Order Taking Mausoleum From Arlington.

Exception to the War Department's decree that the mausoleum, formerly marking Admiral Dewey's burial place, be removed from Arlington National Cemetery, was taken yesterday by Read Admiral Spencer S. Wood, retired.

Announcement has been made that the mausoleum will be removed and made the general receiving vault in the Columbia Gardens Cemetery in Alexandria.

"Have the American people so soon forgotten Admiral Dewey's deeds that they will not allow him space in Arlington as a memorial to him?" questioned Admiral Wood in a letter to The Washington Post.

The writer added that Congress should have appropriated money for a suitable national monument to Admiral Dewey, but that since the Dewey family erected the memorial it should be allowed to remain in the National Cemetery.

"When one considers the many hideous statues gracing our parks as memorials to men whose deeds did not compare with what the great Dewey did, one is forced to admit that Republics are frequently unmindful of the acts of their great men," declared Admiral Wood.

Girl Swims Strait From Prison Isle

Wins Feat at Alcatraz, Home of Deperadoes.

San Francisco, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A 19-year-old girl swam the rough, cold waters from Alcatraz, prison island, to the San Francisco shore today—a feat vainly attempted by many prisoners who have sought to escape.

She is Anastasia Scott, daughter of Sergt. G. A. Scott, of the Quartermaster Corps, stationed at Alcatraz, location of the new U. S. Army disciplinary barracks, which soon will become a place of banishment for desperate Federal convicts.

Miss Scott, who has won several medals for her swimming under the colors of the Western Women's Club, made the crossing of about a mile and a half in 43 minutes. A small boat accompanied her. Weather conditions were ideal.

Paper Mills Raise Wages 12 Per Cent

International to Add 1,000 by Shortening Week.

New York, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A wage increase averaging 12 per cent was announced today by the International Paper Co., which also reported adoption of a 40-hour week in its American mills.

This action, the company stated, was taken "in anticipation of the labor provision proposed in the code of the pulp and paper industry." More than 5,000 employes are affected and about 1,000 additional workers will be given employment, it was stated.

Hollywood, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Marie Dressler, film star, returned home tonight after a visit in New York and Washington and said she had found a "new optimism and spirit of sacrifice" throughout the country.

"New York is more cheerful than in years," she observed. Miss Dressler visited with the Roosevelts in Washington.

Hagerstown, Md., Oct. 17 (Spl.). The Reemployment Bureau here, which has obtained jobs for 200 unemployed since the registration began, has been granted $50 monthly from the city for incidental expenses for the duration of the office. The county will be asked for a like amount. Office staff is paid from the Federal appropriation.

Mouquin, Starting 97th Year, Joyous Over End of Dry Era

Famous Restaurant Man in Retirement Since Prohibition.

Williamsburg, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.). Henry Mouquin, famed New York restaurateur, who has been residing on his estate near Williamsburg since prohibition was introduced, celebrated his ninety-sixth birthday attended by neighbors and a few relatives from New York.

Moquin has failed somewhat in health during the past year, but says he considers his birthday not his ninety-sixth milestone, but the beginning of his ninety-seventh year. He insists upon the distinction.

He is still able to be about and the two-horse carriage which he insists on using instead of an automobile, which he disdains as a modern contraption, is a familiar sight on the streets of Williamsburg.

He rejoices over the defeat of the eighteenth amendment and in the return of wines and liquors; says that no dinner is well served without wine. His private supply has never been exhausted, it is said, throughout the years of drought.

Slave Who Became School Teacher Buried

Buchanan, Va., Oct. 17 (Spl.).—The funeral of Peyton Warrington, 85, was held in Buchanan. He once was a slave of Charles T. Beale and had lived the greater part of his life on the Beale plantation here.

After emancipation he taught school and was active in colored fraternal societies.

Contested Will Of Mrs. Elkins Declared Valid

Compromise Accepted by Court in $1,500,000 Estate Fight.

A jury in District Supreme Court yesterday declared valid the contested will of Mrs. Hallie Davis Elkins, mother, wife and daughter of United States Senators from West Virginia.

The will, disposing of an estate of $1,500,000, named her son, former Senator Davis Elkins, as principal beneficiary. It was attacked by Stephen B. Elkins 3d, grandson, who was to be given $50,000 in bonds of the Morgantown & Kingwood Railroad.

Validity of the will was attacked because of alleged undue influence by unnamed persons and the allegation that Mrs. Elkins was not of sound mind when she wrote it.

A compromise agreement reached by the contestants resulted in the grandson being given an additional block of stock with par value of $56,000. Yesterday, with all objections withdrawn, the formality of having the will declared legal was accomplished in a few minutes.

Mrs. Katherine Elkins Hitt, Mrs. Elkins' daughter, did not contest the will. She was given half the proceeds of the sale of her mother's K street home. At the same time, Arthur G. Lambert was appointed guardian for the three minor children of former Senator Elkins, to protect their interest in the estate. They were given $300,000 to be held in trust for them.

Italians Want Treaty Invoked

Papers Say Peace Pact Terms Needed in Arms Problem.

Rome, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Italian newspapers today asked that the four-power Western Europe peace pact be put into speedy operation to solve the disarmament situation.

Virginio Gayda, who usually echoes government opinion, said, in Giornale d'Italia, that everywhere action by Premier Mussolini was "waited for so that there may be some new initiative capable of mending the broken threads of political cloth."

He called the recently signed pact by Germany, Italy, Great Britain and France "the last-line trench providentially created by Mussolini for the defense, peace and political solidarity of Europe."

"Italy already has made known she is ready for action and searching again for ways toward an agreement," Gayda said.

The Giornale predicted that before the resumption of the disarmament conversations next week "new exchanges of viewpoints and negotiations among the big powers will take place outside the League of Nations" and that "useful work will begin immediately."

Great Lakes "Pirate" Is Given Six Years

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The Lake Michigan speedboat pirate was sentenced to six years in Federal prison today.

Repair of Oyster Fields Indorsed

U. S. Expert Finds Need for Work After Storm.

Raleigh, N. C., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Recent storm damage to North Carolina oyster beds, added to previous depletion, intensifies the desirability of rehabilitation and developing this natural resource, Dr. Herbert F. Prytherch said today.

Dr. Prytherch, director of the United States Fisheries biological station at Beaufort, investigated the oyster fields at the request of R. Bruce Etheridge, State director of conservation and development.

A proposal by Etheridge that oysters and shells be planted in the North Carolina sounds as a possible Federal public works project is timely, Dr. Prytherch reported.

Oyster beds near Harbor Island, Portsmouth and Ocracoke suffered in the hurricane September 15-16, having 30 to 50 per cent of producing areas buried by sand. Other oysters were damaged by "severe wave action and the inclusion of excessive amounts of sand within their shells."

Beds along the north shore of Pamlica Sound, from Wyesocking Bay to Point of Marsh, were slightly damaged.

Cow Guard

Bossie's Bellow Aids Owner Recover Chickens.

Salt Lake City, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Bossie, Ernest Bertolina's cow, is no slouch as a watchdog.

'Twas midnight when two figures approached the Bertolina chicken coops. Bossie, sensing something wrong, emitted an eerie bellow.

Aroused from sleep, Bertolina hurried outside in time to see two men departing in a dilapidated motor car.

He called the constable and within half an hour the officer returned with Melvin Knowles and Grant Lemon, together with half a dozen chickens.

Retailers Put Cost-Plus Plan To Roosevelt

President Is Expected to Decide on 10 P. C. Mark-Up Today.

President Roosevelt will decide, probably today, whether merchants shall be compelled under the NRA proposed master retail code to add at least 10 per cent to the cost of their products before offering them for sale to consumers.

This was announced last night by Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, NRA administrator, who said he had offered a compromise to offset opposition to the code from consumers' organizations, but that it had been spurned by economists.

His proposition to prohibit sales below invoice cost and to ban the practice of some merchants selling certain articles below cost and covering their losses by marking up the prices of other products, he said, had been turned down by an economists' investigating board on the ground that it "introduced an element of inflexibility of prices into competition."

Wallace Opposes Mark-Up.

Unable to make further headway he turned the proposed code and compromise over to the President.

Even while Gen. Johnson was advising that the code should be adopted at once and President Roosevelt was receiving protests against delay from retailers, Secretary Wallace at the Agriculture Department was reiterating his objections to the mark-up.

He has the problem to deal with in the food and distribution code. The President's decision, it was expected, would govern both agreements.

Johnson Praises Code.

Praising the code as a "wonderful document" because it has brought an agreement by retailers to "stop cutting each other's throats, at least in the most brutal fashion," Gen. Johnson declared 95 per cent of the retailers in the country want the cost-plus-10-per-cent provision in the code because price cutting has destroyed 400,00 merchants in four years.

The cost-plus feature, he added, was not price fixing, and would not in itself elevate retail prices because the average merchant must add at least 28 per cent to the cost of his products in order to cover the cost of doing business.

Rather, he said, it merely would be a "service charge" against fluctuating prices in order to stop harmful price cutting.

Meanwhile, President Roosevelt received from a committee representing eight national retailers' associations a protest that further delay in approving the code will doom thousands of small retailers.

Retailers Urge Plan.

Headed by William H. Hager, president of the Retailers Association of Pennsylvania, the delegation conferred with President Roosevelt, Gen. Johnson and Secretary Wallace more than two hours.

"We want the 10 per cent loss limitation included in the code," Hagner said. "We made a strong point of self-regulation. We believe we should be allowed to do it on the basis of our code which we interpreted as a bill of rights. We feel sure that there is nothing but financial ruin ahead for thousands of small merchants in the next few months unless this 10 per cent is granted."

Besides Hagner, these retail representatives met with the President: Maj. B. H. Namm, R. R. Rau, Dr. Paul H. Nystrum, Thomas B. Howell, Paul B. Scarff, J. W. Mehling, Edward Hahn, Herbert Rich, Gerald Grosner, Harold R. Young, M. L. Friedman and George L. Smith.

White House Gets Former Workers' Plea

Furloughed Employes Ask Preference for New Jobs in Petition.

Compliance with a Presidential ruling that dismissed or furloughed Federal employes be given preference in filling new Federal positions was demanded yesterday by the Civil Service Reinstatement League.

A committee headed by Miss Eleanor Nelson called at the White House and presented a petition requesting jobs for the furloughed. The group failed to see President Roosevelt, but discussed the situation with Marvin H. McIntyre, one of his secretaries.

The visitors were told to return in a few days for an answer.

Cites Jobs Given New Men.

"Thousands of employes were dismissed," the petition charged, "but only 300 former employes are recorded by the Civil Service Commission as having found permanent positions again within the Government, and only 495 have received temporary positions.

"Though over 3,000 names remain on the civil service reemployment register, positions are being filled daily in new agencies by people without civil service status, and in most cases with no record of service for the Government."

Public Works Employ 1,000.

Some time ago the President said informally he hoped the new agencies could provide jobs for those furloughed by other departments.

Meanwhile, Secretary Ickes announced more than 1,000 former Federal workers have been reemployed through allocation of Public Works funds. He added others were being taken back daily.

The Alaska Road Commission has restored 245 jobs and the Bureau of Reclamation has reemployed 176.

Hoover on Fishing Trip in Oregon

Friends Accompany Him on Vacation Party.

Ashland, Oreg., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Enjoying a fishing trip with a party of friends, former President Herbert Hoover was somewhere on the Klamath River today.

Jovial and in apparent excellent health, Mr. Hoover stopped here yesterday before turning upstream for a few days' angling for steelhead and salmon.

American Liquor Tastes Criticized

"Good" or "Bad," It's All the Same, Says Scientist.

Cleveland, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Taste of the average American tongue discriminates very little between "good" and "bad" liquor, Dr. Cyrus C. Sturgis, professor of internal medicine at the University of Michigan, said in effect today.

Here for the Interstate Postgraduate Medical Association of North America, Dr. Sturgis bluntly observed on the question of the American taste in alcoholic concoctions:

"I hold no brief for prohibition one way or another, but people have not been scientific when they talked about the pros and cons of prohibition." He added:

"Even in preprohibition days the people drank some pretty bad liquor, and we may expect a lot more bad liquor when it becomes legalized again."

Couple Fight Vainly "Fishing" for Whale

St. Louis, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Mr. and Mrs. Sharp Ezzell today told their friends a real fish story about the "big one that got away."

Returning from Alaska, they related that for more than six hours their party was close to a 60-ton humpbacked whale, but unable to close the final 15-foot gap that would have brought the mammal within harpoon range.

Chicago Exposition To Close November 12

Chicago, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—A Century of Progress Exposition will remain open until midnight November 12, Maj. Lenox R. Lohr, general manager, announced late today.

The announcement came after adoption of a resolution by the concessionaires association which had asked the management to extend the fair beyond October 31, and to reopen in 1934.

Credit Ignorance Scored in Address

Inflation Dangers Also Told by Speaker.

The United States was called a Nation of "credit illiterates" last night by J. Harry Tregoe, former manager of the National Association of Credit Men, in an address to the Washington Association.

The dangers of inflation could be avoided through proper education of the public regarding credit operations, he said.

Nine billion dollars would be needed to inflate United States currency effectively, Tregoe said.

State Boards Urged to Deny Unjust Claims

Too Many Public Works Pleas Passed on to Him, He Warns.

State public works organizations were advised yesterday by Secretary Ickes, administrator, to say an emphatic "No" to applicants for advances from the works fund when there appears no justification for their request.

Many of the thousands of applications reaching the Washington office represent worthy projects, Ickes said in a statement yesterday, but examiners here have found some are being forwarded with indorsements that would better have been rejected in the first instance.

Recommendations of unworthy projects not only delay consideration of others, but are unfair to the community in which the project is located, Ickes pointed out to his aides.

"I want to remind the State PWA groups that early in this administration I said it would be just as important to say 'no' as 'yes'," Ickes said. "In most States, this is done fearlessly, but without criticism I must say that in a few States these instructions are being overlooked."

The administrator charged that in some instances State groups were "afraid" to say "No" to applicants, and were passing the buck to Washington. It may not be a popular thing to do, Ickes informed his State groups, but if they will reject bad projects there will be a saving in time and money.

F. A. Delano to Speak On Alleys in Capital

Frederic A. Delano, chairman of the National Park and Planning Commission; Louis Justement, representing the Allied Architects of Washington, and Robert D. Kohn, director of Housing of the Federal Emergency Public Works Administration, will speak before the Washington Council of Social Agencies Monday at 12:30 o'clock at the Burlington Hotel. Dr. Frederic W. Perkins will preside.

John Ihlder, chairman of the housing committee of the council, is in charge of the program, which, in view of the situation in Washington, is considered timely. Mr. Delano, long a worker for the eradication of alley dwellings in Washington, will speak on "Inhabited Alleys and Other Decadent Areas in the Plan of Washington."

Trustees to Consider Chest Applications

Applications for membership in the Community Chest for the year 1934 will be considered at the first fall meeting of the Community Chest Board of Trustees Friday at 4:30 p. m., at the United States Chamber of Commerce Building.

In addition to voting on applications for membership for this coming year, the board will hear reports by Frank J. Hogan, chairman of the campaign committee; Joshua Evans, jr., chairman of the budget committee, and other Chest officials.

Record Crowd Hears Sunday Urge Virtues

More than 2,000 Washingtonians packed the National City Christian Church last night to hear an aging Billy Sunday plead for a return to the "old time religion."

This was the first of four revivals the veteran evangelist will conduct here in the Central Union Mission's anniversary program.

Scoffing at evolution, and taking as his text the fundamentalism which has furnished the theme of thousands of his sermons in the past 40 years, Mr. Sunday urged "happiness in simple Christian ways of living."

"American people are better fed, better housed, better cared for and protected than any people on earth," asserted Mr. Sunday. He called for a return to fundamental virtues, declaring they point the path to "salvation." Mr. Sunday painted fame as fleeting, and pointed to the five statesmen who framed the Versailles Treaty as illustrations.

"Not one of them is a leader in his nation today," said Mr. Sunday.

For more than three hours before the evangelist was scheduled to appear, the streets in front of the Christian Church were thronged. Hundreds of persons were turned away because of lack of seats. Mr. Sunday has not conducted a revival here since 1918.

Lieut. Massie Silent On Divorce Rumors

San Pedro, Calif., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Lieut. Thomas H. Massie, husband of Mrs. Thalie Massie, central figure two years ago in an assault and slaying case in Hawaii, declined today to discuss reports his wife might seek a divorce.

Lieut. Massie, on duty aboard the U. S. S. Oklahoma, said he did "not care to discuss the report," and added, "it is a matter entirely in the hands of my wife."

British Ship Aground Off France, 200 Aboard

Marseilles, France, Oct. 17 (A.P.).—The British-owned Oriental liner, City of Paris, outbound from Karachi, India, was solidly aground on a sand bank tonight, 20 miles off the French coast.

Her master reported the vessel gounded in a heavy mist. He said she was taking no water but would likely have to wait for morning before tugs could attempt to take her off.

Jonesboro, Ark., Oct. 17 (A.P.).—Gunfire blazed again tonight in the factional dispute in the Jonesboro Baptist Tabernacle. A hail of bullets was fired into the cell of the Rev. Dale Crowley, in jail here for the slaying of W. MacMurdo, church janitor.
